DRY LAW YOUTH'S GODSEND COACH STAGG DECLARES

Hearing of House Committee Ends in Row Caused by Wet Charges of "Witness-Coaching"

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13. (Exclusive)—Friends of prohibition refused to score heavily in the wet-and-dry hearings by the House Judiciary Committee here today, as another long list of witnesses, including Alonzo Stagg, veteran football coach at Chicago University, appeared to argue the merits of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act.

Stagg, "grand old man" of Western Conference football, testified out of forty years of coaching experience that in his opinion the Eighteenth Amendment is a godsend to the younger generation in the nation.

Speaking entirely from his own observation, the white-haired athletic leader declared that with the passing down of old-fashioned restraints, the growing complexities of modern life, and the increased opportunities for youth to be influenced by "pernicious" wrong channels of conduct, a natural revolt of youth might easily arise if the prohibition law is not in operation."

EFFECTIVE WITNESS

Stagg, perhaps, the most effective witness the drys have yet placed on the stand for the reason his views command respect for their sincerity and because they are based on a lifelong intimate, personal relationship with young people which probably few others have had opportunity to obtain. Representative Hardin, one of the two wets on the committee, paid Mr. Stagg a personal compliment when he remarked:

"I want me to say, Mr. Stagg," the New Yorker, "that yours is the most sincere and most telling testimony I have ever heard on your side of the prohibition question."

COLLIER CAUSES ROW

Proceeding along smoothly for several hours, the session today broke in a heated row after Representative Collier, Democrat, of Mississippi, a wet, had charged that Henry W. Peabody of Massachusetts had "coached" women witnesses who testified yesterday. Representative Bobbs, Republican, of Indiana, indignantly protested that Peabody had been "hurt." He was immediately joined by Representative Doughton, Democrat, dry, of North Carolina; Sumners, Democrat, dry, of Texas; Hammer, Democrat, dry, of North Carolina; Sumners, Democrat, dry, of Texas, and Chairman Graham, Republican, dry, of Pennsylvania, all of whom declared that in all the eighteen years they had been members of Congress he had "never known witnesses to be so insulted."

Collier insisted that Celler's charge be stricken from the record. Amid a babble of voices from a half-dozen members of the committee, Representative Oldfield, Democrat, wet, of Arkansas, decided it was time to call the hearing. He banged adjournment and a little later, after the uproar had subsided, announced that the dry forces would continue their testimony tomorrow.

MACDONALD BALKS FOE

Tory Onslaught Repulsed

Baldwin Motion of Censure Defeated by Laborites With Safe Margin

Liberals Join Government Against Second Attack by Conservatives

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—The Labor government tonight beat off a Conservative attack in the House of Commons, defeating a motion of censure brought by former Premier Baldwin, Conservative leader, with a margin of more than seventy votes to spare. The figures were 308 to 235 in the division.

After six hours of debate in which Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, led the Tory attack, about a score of Liberals filed into the government lobbies and voted with Labor. The Labor strength of 287 votes, however, would have been sufficient alone to defeat the Tories, the figures indicating many absentees among both opposition parties.

Mr. Baldwin's motion to censure the government for its refusal to extend safeguarding duties as a means for reducing unemployment and protecting British industries had from the beginning little chance of success. It was not drawn up in such a way as to attract support from the Liberals, who are as much at odds with the Conservatives on the question of protecting as the Laborites are.

Mr. Baldwin himself admitted that the government would probably win. The victory became certain when Sir Herbert Samuel, one of

GREAT RAIL GOAL NEAR

Overland System in Offing

Van Sweringens Believed Close to Attainment of Dream of Century

Financial Observers in East See Move to Hook Up Series of Lines

CLEVELAND, March 13. (Exclusive)—A transcontinental railroad system, the dream of American railroad builders for a century, is within striking reach of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland and the financial interests allied with them, it was said with authority today in both the New York and Cleveland financial districts.

In fact, many observers of the Van Sweringens railroad activities believe the two Cleveland railroad financiers are much nearer the attainment of that goal than any of the illustrious railroad builders of the past who tried, and failed.

The Van Sweringens are believed to have in mind the assembly of a transcontinental line through hooking up the following systems: Western Pacific, San Francisco to Salt Lake City; Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Salt Lake City to Pueblo, Colo.; Missouri Pacific, Pueblo to St. Louis; Nickel Plate, St. Louis to Buffalo, and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Buffalo to New York City.

PRESENT HOLDINGS

Already the Van Sweringens control an integrated and connected rail system from the eastern seaboard to Chicago and St. Louis in the west.

It now develops that through the quiet acquisition of the common stock and convertible bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the Van Sweringens have obtained a working control of that mammoth trans-Mississippi system, tapping the rich oil and mining fields of the Southwest, connecting with the International Great Northern from Mexico at Laredo, Tex., and extending westward to Pueblo.

The Missouri Pacific, in turn, owns a half-interest in the Denver, Rio Grande and Western, which has a through line from Pueblo to Salt Lake City. At Salt Lake City the Denver, Rio Grande and Western connects with the Western Pacific, which runs on to San Francisco.

REMAINING LINK

Apparently the Van Sweringens now only need a working interest in the Western Pacific to make a transcontinental system almost a reality. The Western Pacific also owns a half-interest in the Denver, Rio Grande and Western, and has friendly and co-operative relations with the Missouri Pacific. If the Van Sweringen ownership of Missouri Pacific securities is looked upon favorably by the management of that road and reports are that such is the case, then they should not have any great difficulty in making a satisfactory arrangement with the Western Pacific.

The question naturally arises as to whether the Interstate Commerce Commission would approve a unified transcontinental system. The best guess of Cleveland observers is that it would not.

TWO SYSTEM AIMS

On the contrary, it was pointed out in financial circles here today, there is logic behind the supposition that the Van Sweringens have ambitions to build up two great rail systems, divided at the Mississippi River. East of the Mississippi River they already have had the Interstate Commerce Commission approve their Chesapeake and Ohio system. It now appears that they have ambitions to control the Missouri-Pacific system west of the Mississippi River. In its allocation of lines west of the Mississippi, the interstate commission assigned the D. R. G. and W. and Western Pacific to the Missouri-Pacific, which sets up the identical system needed by the Van Sweringens to accomplish a transcontinental line.

The Missouri-Pacific system as set up by the Interstate Commerce Commission has more than 10,000 miles of rails and is the largest system set up by the commission west of the Mississippi. The mileage of the system allotted the C. and O. east of the Mississippi River would raise the total mileage of a combined system to more than 30,000 miles.

Thirty Cases of Queer Malady Reported Found in East Mississippi

JACKSON (Miss.), March 13. (Exclusive)—The mysterious paralysis which was first reported in Oklahoma and since found in Tennessee and Georgia, has now claimed thirty victims in East Mississippi, according to a report today to Dr. Felix J. Underwood, State Health Officer, here.

Upon receipt of the report, Dr. Underwood immediately notified county officers to isolate the afflicted persons, and Dr. H. C. Ricks, State Epidemiologist, was instructed to visit each victim and make a complete study of the case in an effort to learn something of the malady.

The State Health Board has been informed tonight that of six cases studied, each had admitted drinking Jamaica ginger.

Four new cases were added to the nine existing ones in Georgia, it was understood here tonight. The Georgia Board of Health also announced that its study of the disease had virtually disclosed that the malady is the result of alcohol and is not communicable.

State Land Act Will be Tested

SACRAMENTO, March 13. (AP)—Litigation to determine constitutionality of the 1929 act ordering State retirement from the land-settlement business was announced by G. H. Hecke, Director of Agriculture, today.

Hecke said a writ of mandate will be sought in the State Supreme Court to compel State Controller Riley to issue a warrant for cash settlement with a settler of the Durham colony. Riley refused to honor the claim, holding the State had no liability to the settler and that the act constituted unwarranted extension of authority on the part of the Land Settlement Board, which approved the claim.

AMERICAN WINS BACK AIR RECORD

New Speed Mark Made by Capt. Boris Sergievsky With Loaded Seaplane

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP)—Another world's air-speed record was brought back to the United States today when Capt. Boris Sergievsky sent his loaded Sikorsky seaplane roaring over a 100-kilometer course up Long Island Sound at 143.3 miles an hour.

The Old World mark for seaplanes carrying a useful load of 2000 kilograms (4409.24 pounds) was held by Richard Wagner of Germany, with a speed of 130.1 miles an hour. Capt. Sergievsky previously had beaten this mark by two miles an hour, but a new speed record to be official must exceed the old by at least five miles an hour. Capt. Sergievsky's record exceeds the old mark by 13.2 miles.

The seaplane, a Sikorsky amphibian with the wheels removed and powered with two Hornet 575-horsepower motors, is the same one in which he recently set an apparent new altitude record for seaplanes of the class at 19,500 feet. The official report on the calibration of the barograph carried on that flight has not yet been made.

Filipinos Fight American Tars

MANILA, March 14. (Friday) (AP) Unconfirmed reports to the Servicio Informativo Nacional said that eight American sailors had been attacked at Iloilo when it was rumored they were attempting to poison the town. The report apparently was based on the fact that a sailor gave a Filipino boy part of an apple he had been eating.

In the fight one sailor received a broken hand and another a black eye. Insular authorities here had heard nothing of the reported attack.

NINTH WORLD DISCOVERED AFLOAT IN SOLAR SYSTEM

Lowell Observatory's Finding of New Planet Greatest Feat in Century of Astronomy

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) March 13. (AP)—Another step toward understanding of the vast mystery of the planetary system of the heavens was heralded here today with the discovery of a ninth planet, regarded as the outstanding progress in astronomy in nearly a century.

Throughout the world scientific interest turned to the announcement by Dr. V. M. Slipher of the Lowell Observatory near here that the staff of astronomers there had become absolutely sure of the existence of a planet beyond the hitherto outermost celestial body, Neptune.

Working on mathematical theories developed twenty-five years ago by the late Dr. Percival Lowell, eminent astronomer, who predicted the existence of such a planet, the astronomers first uncovered the actual presence of the body January 21, last. Since then, Dr. Slipher said, it has been seen "dozens of times" through special telescopes.

The location of the planet on January 21 was fixed at three hours Greenwich mean time, seven seconds west from Delta Geminorum with Lowell's predicted longitude. It is approximately forty-five times farther from the earth than the sun. Like Neptune, it cannot be seen by the naked eye and it may be as large as Jupiter, the greatest planet hitherto known, which is 1300 times the size of the earth, but the new planet is at least no smaller than the earth.

FOUND BY PHOTOGRAPHER

A name has not been given to the new body and temporarily it will be known by the designation made by Dr. Lowell, "the trans-Neptunian planet." Dr. Lowell, a brother of A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, founded the observatory here principally for this research. He died in 1916.

First to notice the new planet was C. W. Tombaugh, a photographer at the observatory. He saw a "blotch of light" on a plate which had recorded a picture of the heavens through a delicate photographic telescope, especially developed to seek out the planet.

Highly elated over this clew, the astronomers followed the planet in its course across the heavens, photographically by a large reflector and visually with a refractor of greater size. The task remains now to determine its size, exact distance from earth, its orbit and other planetary characteristics.

DISCOVERY LIKE NEPTUNE'S

The discovery was accomplished in much the same manner as the finding of Neptune in 1846. Then a French and an English mathematician and astronomer provided scientists with calculations which enabled them to train their telescopes on the probable position of Neptune and eventually it was found. Two years before his death, Dr. Lowell announced similar calculations on the trans-Neptunian planet, although he never had seen it, his computations solely indicating that such a planet must exist.

The astronomers participating in the discovery were C. C. Lampland, E. C. Slipher, J. C. Duncan, K. F. Williams, E. A. Edwards and T. S. Gill.

OBSERVATORY'S STATEMENT

The announcement from the observatory follows:

"The announcement is made by the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff of the discovery of a celestial body whose rate and path among the stars indicates a new planetary member of the solar family beyond the outermost known planet, Neptune.

"Twenty-five years ago, Dr. Percival Lowell, who founded Lowell Observatory, began a mathematical investigation for a planet beyond Neptune. The probability of locating such a body, however, was difficult and involved enormous and intricate computations.

"In 1914, he announced as the result of his calculations, the possibility and distance of the predicted body in a large memoir, a Lowell Observatory publication."

GLOOM LIFTS IN LONDON

Navy Conference Still Afloat

MacDonald Encouraged by Day's Events and Briand Expresses Hope

Stimson Attempts to Modify Italy's Insistence on Parity With France

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—The London naval conference is fighting for its life and apparently with hope of success. Tonight Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain authorized a statement that he was encouraged by the day's events.

Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister and head of the French delegation, received the journalists just to show them that he is not so gloomy as he was yesterday. He is confident, he said, the conference can achieve definite results in the general interests of peace.

The events of the day to which Mr. MacDonald referred were a series of conversations held at No. 10 Downing street. He began with Reijiro Wakatsuki of the Japanese delegation. Dino Grandi of the Italian group followed. Then came M. Briand, who stayed an hour and three quarters.

Lastly came the Americans, Secretary of State Stimson and Senator Reed, who hurried to Downing street after a full meeting of the American delegation. This meeting followed upon a significant conference between Senator Reed and Ambassador Matsudaira and the activity of the American and Japanese delegates today caused a feeling that announcement of an American-Japanese agreement is imminent.

ITALIAN DEMANDS

This agreement, as has been indicated from time to time, still will be dependent upon a general five-power understanding.

It is understood that intensive conversations today were largely directed to obtaining some modification of the Italian delegation's rigid attitude for parity with France. Mr. Stimson has been engaged in this work and tonight he smilingly said he had had a splendid day.

The French have insisted emphatically that with their navy facing three fronts—the English Channel, the Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea—parity cannot be accepted with Italy, whose fleet is concentrated in the Mediterranean.

The Italians just as strongly have stood upon a blanket demand for parity with France regardless of the tonnages arrived at.

NO DEADLOCK

While Mr. MacDonald makes no effort to minimize the grave conference difficulties as they existed this morning, he considers that progress is being made and firmly asserts that no deadlock exists.

M. Briand today lunched with the British and American newspaper men who are here from Paris and during the meal did much to

SANDMAN'S SECRETS SIFTED

Sleep Habits of 509 Noted Men Show Counting of Sheep Improved on by Novel Devices

HAMILTON (N. Y.) March 13. (AP)—The sleep habits of 509 distinguished American men were made public at Colgate University today and upset some popular notions.

The critical age when it is unsafe to lose sleep is 35 years. Contrary to classical anecdotes, men of important affairs sleep about the full eight hours. It is youth instead of age that sleeps the least.

Then that old-fashioned way of getting to sleep by counting sheep jumping a wall is as out of date as Mary's lamb. Not that the fundamental method has changed, but today only a sheep herder should pick on the dream sheep. For the rest of us there are more effective sleep potions.

GENERAL INCLUDED

The survey was made by Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the Colgate University Psychological Laboratory. The ages of the men ranged from 20 to 95, and some gave permission to disclose their identities. One 95-year-old subject is Brig.-Gen. Aaron S. Daggett, U.S.A. Younger men include William Allen White and Rev. S. Parkes Cadman.

Dr. Laird finds thirty-five years "the critical period when loss of sleep, or sleep on a train, shows most noticeable ill-effects. At this age poor sleep seems to bring more widespread bad effects than at other ages. Before and after this age sleep

NONE MORE THAN TEN

No one reported more than ten nor less than five hours habitual sleep. The average sleep for twenty-five years is seven hours twenty-five minutes. The minutes sleep over seven hours then increase to forty-five at 35 years, to fifty at age 45, drop to forty-five at age 55, to forty minutes at age 65 and rise to forty-five minutes at age 75. At 85 the sleeping time is eight hours ten minutes.

Wakefulness at night, however, is a prerogative of age. At 25 years the majority told Dr. Laird they sleep through the night without awakening. A uniform increase in wakefulness follows with age and in the 95-to-100-year age bracket wakefulness was reported each night.

More than 70 per cent reported sufficient difficulty in going to sleep to cause them to develop "special of the presentation of testimony by women witnesses yesterday. Representative Celler asserted that the official stenographic report would show that several times during yesterday's session she told witnesses being cross-examined what question to answer and what to ignore. Chairman Graham suggested that the committee allow the record to speak for itself and this probably is what will be done. "We'll cool off by tomorrow morning," remarked the chairman.

Others who testified today were Charles M. Hay, St. Louis attorney and Democratic Senatorial candidate in 1928; Arthur H. Hood of Philadelphia, representing the men's Bible classes of the city; Carlton M. Sherwood, executive secretary of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand of New York City, and John A. McSparren, past master of the Pennsylvania Grange and Democratic candidate for Governor of his State in 1926.

FISHER STATEMENT BARRED

Earlier in the hearing Chairman Graham had refused to permit Edwin C. Dinwiddie to read a statement on prohibition by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, holding that Fisher is so prominent as a dry advocate he should appear in person so that he can be cross-examined. If he cannot come, however, the chairman said, the statement could be filed later.

Coach Stagg, who is known by college men and women throughout the nation and whose voice has barked sharp commands to athletes at Chicago University for thirty-eight years, said he was interested in young people, playboys, and that it was his firm conviction that the young people of today are fortunate in growing up in a land where the open sale of intoxicants is prohibited.

GOT DRAMA RAW

He pictured the transition from the old saloon days, especially as it has shown up in college campus. He said that in preprohibition days he was familiar with all the consequences wrought by the saloons and that as a "poor boy" he got his "drama raw and first-hand."

"My interest in the welfare of young men," he said, "is the outgrowth of gratitude that I was fortunate enough to escape the effect of environment and conditions to which so many of my playmates were subjected and by which they were handicapped for life.

"My home training in comparative poverty was all that could be desired, but the environment in which I played was far from helpful. The saloons were our substitutes for the motion pictures, the theater, the motor car, the radio, the seashore, reading and all. In bad luck men drowned their sorrows at the bar; in good luck, they celebrated it there.

FAMILIES AFFECTED

"The children of most families of our block grew up under the shadow of these recurring debauches, in which they and their mothers ran the chance of a beating. Nobody can paint the effect of those conditions on the growing boys and girls, of which there are many.

"For more than thirty-eight years, I have been connected with the University of Chicago, and I have happened to live near one of the main thoroughfares. Before prohibition drunken men were quite common on the street, now only occasional.

"There has been a tremendous gain in social and economic conditions among the poorer classes as a result of prohibition and the children have profited thereby. Children are growing up with a much fairer chance to bridge the span between childhood and manhood.

SMALL CITIES DRY

"It has been my good fortune to travel considerable about the United States. I am convinced that in most cities of 10,000 to 25,000 and less, there is no serious prohibition problem. That does not mean there is no drinking or bootlegging. We shall never be able to stop them completely, no more than the government is able to stop the bootlegging and use of opium.

"In my judgment, since prohibition has been put in, hundreds of thousands more children have had a fairer start in life than existed in preprohibition days. With the breaking down of the home life with all the complexities of new opportunities for being misled, I tremble to think what this revolt of youth might have led to were prohibition laws not in operation.

FOUR CLASSES

"As I see it, the prohibition law is not observed, first, by 'the idle rich;' second, by the 'ne'er-do-wells,' Pegler calls them; third, by the class who demand special privileges for themselves, and fourth, by the follow-tails, that is, the weak ones who just go along.

"The great mass of people in the United States, in my judgment, are strong for the law and will continue to be despite the massed attack which is being made upon it."

Asked if he objected to young men drinking, Stagg shot back:

"I'd cut their heads off if they drank while they were trying for the team. A drinking man hasn't clear sight, and an athlete must have that. A drinking man hasn't his full capacity of nerves and an athlete needs all the stuff that is in him."

LEADER'S VIEW CITED

Mr. Sherwood incorporated in his testimony messages upholding the dry laws from more than a score of prominent business, religious and political figures, including Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ; former Gov. Donahey of Ohio, Prof. Henry W. Farnam of Yale University and Capt. Robert Dollar of the Dollar Steamship interests.

Mention of Dollar's name brought a demand from Representative La Guardia as to whether the witness knew that the Dollar steamships carry bars in violation of the law. Sherwood said he did not know that. "Do you know," asked La Guardia, "that young Dollar asked Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, to keep me from making this charge because it would damage his business if he had to close the bars?"

DYER DENIES CHARGE

Again the witness protested ignorance, and Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, asked that the question be stricken from the record, adding that he had traveled on six of the Dollar ships, and knew the charges were unfounded. La Guardia retorted that the presence of bars on the Dollar boats had been "admitted" to him, but the matter was dropped there.

The message from former Gov. Donahey said:

"Prohibition, in my mind, has been successful and in Ohio is being as well enforced as any other criminal statute."

FANATICISM CHARGED

Prof. Farnam called for greater co-operation from the States, asserting that only in this way could the liquor problem be properly handled as contemplated under the Eighteenth Amendment and enforcement acts. Sherwood, in his own testimony, turned the tables on the wets, saying that while charging the drys with fanaticism, they have themselves become fanatics. "I hesitate to use the word fanatic," he said, "just as I would hesitate to use the word bigot, as both terms are used for the most part by folks who live in large and very spacious glass houses."

Sherwood said he was concerned mainly about refuting arguments made by the wets that the business men of the country are generally violating the prohibition laws. Denouncing the hearings as "primarily for publicity purposes," he declared "if business men generally thought the repeal or modification measures had any chance of passage, the Capitol would not be large enough to hold those who would be here to defend prohibition to the last ditch." He added that although the business men "know the wets do not have a chance" they were "not entirely willing to let even this publicity case go by default." He then presented brief statements from numerous outstanding business executives denying that their class has turned against prohibition.

MAJORITY OBEY LAW

"The facts are," said Sherwood, "that the vast majority of American people are law-abiding and observe the prohibition law and all other laws. This includes the business executive at the top, the day laborer at the bottom, and those in between. It is true we have a bad problem of lawlessness in the country, but it is restricted to a comparatively small, though dangerous, class."

Under questioning by La Guardia, Sherwood said that among the members of the executive committee of his organization are Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho, and Glass, Democrat of Virginia; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania.

DRY STAND DEFENDED

McSparren defended the drys against charges of unfairness in opposing a national referendum on prohibition. The biennial election of Representatives, he said, supplied ample opportunity for the wets to test out the strength of their cause.

Mr. Hay testified that in his unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic Senatorial nomination in Missouri in 1928, he traveled 1200 miles by automobile and did not see a "single place in any county or small town or city which I could identify as a place for the sale of intoxicating liquors." He concluded from his experience that the rural sections and small towns were dry, although he admitted liquor is a problem in the larger cities.

"It is doubtless true," he said, "that had I been hunting for liquor I could have found it in many places, but in the old days I would not have had to hunt for it.

OPEN DAYS GONE

"I say emphatically that in the rural sections and smaller cities and towns, in my State, liquor plays a very minor part in the lives and the habits of the people. In most of those sections the people would deem the question settled beyond recall, if they didn't get the newspapers from the large cities.

"In the larger cities—St. Louis, for instance, where a vote showed a majority of nearly three to one for repeal—the saloon is gone from the main corner and the main streets. There are numerous places undoubtedly where liquor is sold; perhaps many where it is openly sold; but they are not flaunting themselves as they did formerly. Saloons no longer constitute our standing committee to welcome the rest of the world. I think that is a very great accomplishment."

EARLY POLL GIVES LEAD TO REPEAL

Kansas Only Dry State in Literary Digest Figures on Liquor Question

NEW YORK, March 13. (Exclusive)—The first returns on the prohibition poll being conducted by the Literary Digest were made public today. Of the 291,586 votes received from ten States, 80,739 are for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, 91,915 for modification and 118,934 for repeal.

Stress is laid on the fact that these early figures are by no means to be regarded as a certain indication of the poll's final results, even in the ten States listed.

The following table shows the votes tabulated so far:

State—	For enforcement.	For modification.	For repeal.
Illinois	11,201	14,480	21,175
Indiana	6,194	4,236	3,839
Iowa	10,150	7,394	6,607
Kansas	6,789	2,739	2,110
Minnesota	8,223	8,084	9,625
Missouri	9,626	8,432	13,101
Nebraska	3,047	1,990	1,664
New Jersey	1,742	3,844	5,650
New York	11,534	27,547	42,228
Ohio	12,893	13,199	12,935
Totals	90,739	91,915	118,934

LEAGUE SAYS POLL NOT FAIR OR CONCLUSIVE

The Literary Digest prohibition poll is neither fair in form nor conclusive in results, the board of directors of the California Anti-Saloon League declares in a statement issued yesterday following its annual meeting here.

"Many drys will vote, but a multitude of drys will not vote," reads the statement in part. "The nation has an opportunity to express its views on this subject every two years in the Congressional elections and most fair-minded people will feel that every Congressional election is a real national referendum."

Besides its reference to the poll the statement commends every movement looking to support and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

NINTH PLANET FINALLY FOUND the best available instruments, the search covering that band of the skies in which the known planet traveled.

"Early last year, the Lawrence-Lowell telescope, a highly efficient, special instrument for the search, was put in operation. Some weeks ago (January 21,) Mr. C. W. Tombaugh detected an object on a plate made with the telescope which has since been followed carefully here.

"It has been observed photographically with the large Lowell reflector by C. O. Lampland and it has been observed virtually with the larger refractor by the various members of the staff.

"All observations indicate the object to be the one which Lowell saw mathematically."

VERY FAR AWAY

Dr. Slipher said the planet appears about as an ordinary star of the fifteenth magnitude, but so far away that a telescope does not reveal anything of its surface.

"It will take observations over some months to determine accurately its position in the solar system, but there can be no doubt as to its being a member of the solar family.

"This whole matter is very much like the discovery of Neptune in which Leverrier, French mathematician, and Adams, English mathematician and astronomer, determined mathematically that there must be a planet beyond Uranus and as a result of their calculations, they both independently told astronomers where in the skies to point their telescopes which revealed the planet, Neptune."

The special telescope through which the discovery was made is designed for charting the stars in the skies over large areas and is unusually sensitive. Attention now is being directed toward following every action of the planet in order that more of its character may be learned.

PLANET THIRD FOUND BY MAN IN 300 YEARS

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP)—Discovery of the unnamed planet far out beyond the hitherto known boundary of the solar system is the third major planet found by man in about 300 years of star study.

The ancients knew all except the last three. The first of these modern planets, Uranus, was discovered by Sir William Herschel in 1781. It is estimated at 1,782,800 miles from the sun.

Next came the discovery of Neptune by one of the most astonishing calculations man ever had made. Certain irregularities in the motion of the new planet Uranus troubled astronomers for years. The key to their solution was found about simultaneously by two astronomers working independently of each other. Both said it must lie in another planet out even farther from the sun than Uranus. Both calculated correctly where a telescope could be pointed to discover it.

STAR FIRST NOT NOTICED

One of these astronomers, U. J. J. Leverrier, a Frenchman, asked the Berlin Observatory to look in this spot. In 1846, on a date now believed to be September 23, a German astronomer looked, but did not see the planet. However, when he compared this section of the sky with some charts showing previously observed stars, he found he had a new one. This new pin point of light proved to be the planet Neptune.

At the same time John C. Adams, an Englishman, had made similar predictions unknown to the Frenchman, and a British telescope, turned upon the right spot in the sky on the night of August 4, the same year, had located the planet, but as in Germany, the astronomer had failed to note its presence. The Frenchman's discovery was published first.

FIRST FOUND IN 1801

In the discovery of new planets the first discovery of the asteriods was found in 1801 by Piazzo These are very small planets farther from the sun than the earth, occupying a space between Mars and Jupiter. A host of these since has been found.

The planets, beginning nearest the sun and their diameters in miles are:

Mercury, mean distance 36,000,000 miles, diameter about 3000.

Venus, 67,200,000, and about 7500.

Earth, 92,900,000, and nearly 8000.

Mars, 141,500,000, and about 4200.

Jupiter, 483,300,000, and about 86,000.

Saturn, 886,100,000, and about 72,000.

Uranus, 1,782,800,000, and about 30,000.

Neptune, 2,793,500,00, and about 32,000.

DISCOVERY STIRS INTEREST AT MT. WILSON

PASADENA, March 13. (AP)—Frederick H. Seares, astronomer at the Mt. Wilson Observatory here, received with great interest today information of the probable discovery of the ninth planet of the solar system.

After listening to Associated Press dispatches Prof. Seares said: "The information tallies closely with established beliefs. The discovery is very interesting and should prove of immense importance to us. We have not concentrated here on that particular piece of work but we will give the report close study."

Dr. Mars Baumgardt, noted California astronomer, was elated at hearing the report.

"The main reason the find is valuable," he said, "is because it bears out astronomical calculations by which we have known for a long time that another, a ninth, planet existed. Because of its size and great distance from the earth, we have been unable to see it heretofore."

BRITISH WOMEN HIT LONG SKIRT

Sensible Dress Society Will Advocate Briefness in Female Garments

LIVERPOOL, March 13. (AP) Formed to fight the new long-skirt fashions, "the Sensible Society" came into being at a meeting of about 100 women and a dozen men here last night.

Mrs. Bessie Harrison, the president, relies mainly on hygienic and freedom-of-movement arguments as the main weapons. On the economic side, she maintains it is a fallacy to imagine longer dresses will assist the cloth and silk trade, because the modern woman can afford two short dresses against one long one.

CAMPBELL GLAD EXISTENCE PROVED

BERKELEY, March 13. (AP)—The reported discovery of a new planet in the solar family was greeted here today with enthusiasm by Dr. W. W. Campbell, president of the University of California and director of Lick Astronomical Observatory. The observatory is on Mt. Hamilton, near San Jose.

The planet, however, is not strictly speaking a new discovery, Dr. Campbell said, astronomers have known for some time, he said, that such a planet existed or rather have deduced that it existed, largely because of its effect in perturbing Neptune, but definite proof of the existence of a new planet will be welcome to all who have been searching for it, he added.

ITALO-FRENCH PACT PROPOSED AT LONDON

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—An Italian proposal for a non-aggression pact with France stood in the offing of the naval conference tonight as one possible solution for the Italo-French disagreement over naval parity.

The Associated Press correspondent learned authoritatively that Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister and chief delegate, is envisaging the possibility that the French may regard such a pact as meeting their desires for security guarantees if no more extensive solution can be found with other countries.

In a conversation with Prime Minister MacDonald this afternoon, Signor Grandi laid before him several suggestions for solution of the problem on which the whole success of the five-power conference now hinges. While emphasizing Italy's demand for parity with France, he suggested that no matter what figure was agreed upon for this levee of parity Italy might be willing to withhold part of her construction program and keep on the same basis as France.

"It is interesting," says Dr. Laird, "that approximately half those reporting use of alcohol to insure sleep were college professors of considerable distinction.

"A large number of unusual personal idiosyncrasies are reported in inducing sleep. One editor of a national magazine sticks his feet out from under the bed clothes. One Supreme Court justice buries his face in his pillow. A young writer strains to keep his eyes open.

Scientifically sound variations of the sheep counting idea appeared. One philanthropist reviews Blackstone's analysis of real estate law. A chain store executive thinks of many things rather than concentrating on one subject. A scientist thinks of star spaces in astronomy. A rabbi counts the beats of the clock pendulum, which runs sixty to the minute and by the time he has counted 300 he usually is asleep.

RITUALS REPEATED

"Three men repeat Masonic rituals. Four either repeat or concentrate on the word sleep. Geographic names are recalled by two. An actor-playwright repeats Christian names in haphazard fashion. A judge counts backward, or repeats the alphabet backward. A college professor repeats the Apostles' Creed over and over.

"A journalist thinks over plans for an ideal home. A judge thinks about the binomial theorem or extracts a few square roots in his head. A Texas author extracts square roots also. A Pennsylvania author tries to remember his latest golf strokes.

"A college professor eats onions. A writer of detective stories thinks about the futility of everything. One bishop thinks about things accomplished rather than those ahead, another bishop smokes and a third bishop prays.

"A few wisely solved the problem by not going to bed until they were sleepy. There are only scattered results on the difficulty of getting up mornings. No direct question was asked regarding this."

NATIVES IGNORE GANDHI'S MARCH

Peasants Continue Work as Pilgrimage Passes

Moslem Influences Check General Celebrations

Mystic Continues Journey of Disobedience

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—Dispatches to the Daily Mail from Bombay, India, today said that the villagers of Bareja showed only a faint interest in the pilgrimage of Mahatma Gandhi and his seventy-nine volunteers when they passed through the village.

According to the Daily Mail correspondent, most of the peasants in the district round about paid no attention to Gandhi's march of civil disobedience and continued unconcernedly at work.

Messages from other parts of India indicate that general celebrations in connection with the campaign have been checked by the influence of the Moslems and other non-Brahmin groups.

The Moslem influence, which is largely predominant in Northern India, is said to be dead against Gandhi's crusade.

Gandhi and his marchers reached Narwagon tonight on their way to Jalalpur, where they will attempt to manufacture salt in defiance of the government monopoly. They settled down there for the night and will resume their march early tomorrow morning.

MAYOR OF CALCUTTA TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

CALCUTTA, March 13. (AP)—J. M. Sengupta, Mayor of Calcutta, was taken into custody today when he refused to furnish bail on a charge of sedition. He was directed not to leave his house until tomorrow, when he will be taken to Rangoon.

Addressing a public meeting last night Mayor Sengupta appealed for volunteers to join the army of civil resistance and carry out the program of Mahatma Gandhi in behalf of Indian independence.

BECKER FORCED OUT OF OFFICE

Oakland Sheriff Ousted by Superior Court Order

He Enters Plea of Guilty to Misconduct Charge

Inquiry Begun When "Fixer" Gave Graft Evidence

OAKLAND, March 13. (AP)—Sheriff Becker was removed from office today on an order issued by Superior Judge Wood after pleading guilty to one of thirteen counts in the formal accusation charging misconduct in office returned against him February 28, last, by the Alameda county grand jury. The count, the fifth in the list, charged him with "visiting bootlegging establishments and failing to make arrests."

He was succeeded by Coroner Miller, whom the law designates as acting Sheriff until a successor is appointed by the county Board of Supervisors. Miller immediately swore in all of Becker's paid deputies excepting J. J. Collier, J. L. Davis and A. R. Shurtleff, who were indicted by the grand jury on charges of conspiracy and bribery.

"FIXER" CONFESSES

Becker, who was elected in November, 1926, over former Sheriff Barnet, was first linked to an asserted conspiracy to protect Alameda county bootlegging and gambling establishments by the testimony before the grand jury of Fred C. Smith, confessed "fixer" and collector of graft. Smith was brought back here from Los Angeles to testify by operatives of Dist.-Atty. Warren after having been missing for two years.

Smith told the grand jury that graft collections were to be divided three ways, 50 per cent going to Collier and Davis, 25 per cent to himself, and 25 per cent to a permanent campaign fund which would be used in behalf of approved candidates. He testified he had turned over to Becker $4200 collected from Cromwell L. Ormsby, former Oakland attorney and once attorney for Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, as payment for protection to be accorded by the Sheriff's office to Chinese lotteries.

ORMSBY INDICTED

Ormsby also was indicted by the grand jury, as were Frank and Jack Sardella, asserted bootleggers. All surrendered and were released on bail.

Meanwhile, City Commissioner Parker, indicted by the grand jury yesterday on charges of conspiracy and bribery in connection with alleged graft in street paving construction, began preparations for his defense.

Flood of Telegrams and Letters Sent to Governor Over Sheep Killer's Fate

SACRAMENTO, March 13. (AP)—Letters and telegrams continued to arrive at the office of Gov. Young urging that he prevent the execution of Tim, a police dog belonging to Donald Diffenbaugh of Santa Rosa. Tim was sentenced in court to death following conviction of killing sheep.

Letters were received today from dog lovers in Shreveport, Iowa; St. Louis, College City and Santa Rosa, Cal; Gainesville, Tex., and San Francisco.

The Governor has not committed himself on Tim's fate, but Vincent Kennedy, the executive's secretary, has asked the District Attorney's office of Sonoma county to do what it can to save the animal.

SHEEP MEN URGE SENTENCE BE CARRIED OUT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13. (AP) Members of the California Wool Growers' Association today requested Gov. Young to make no move in an effort to save the life of Tim, convicted Sonoma county sheep-killing police dog, who is awaiting determination of his fate in the Santa Rosa pound.

W. P. Wing, secretary of the association, in a letter to the Governor, declared sheep-killing dogs have caused considerable loss to wool growers throughout the State, and cited one instance of where a pioneer sheep raiser may be forced out of business by their depredations.

MORALE OF KEYES GOES DOWNGRADE

Cold Contributes to Loss of "Chin Up" Attitude on Second Day in Prison

SAN QUENTIN, March 13. (Exclusive)—Suffering from a cold and shorn of the intermittent contact with relatives and friends, Asa Keyes was reported to have experienced a sharp recession of his "chin-up" morale today, his second in prison on his one-to-fourteen-year bribery sentence. The greater part of his day was said to have been spent reading and resting.

Although no decision has been reached as yet regarding the work the former Los Angeles county District Attorney will do in the prison, indication was given a clerical activity will be assigned so he can be kept constantly under the eyes of guards.

"I feel this is necessary," said Warden Holohan. "We do not expect any personal attack upon Keyes, but we will make every effort to protect him as we would any other prisoner under the circumstances."

Mother in Custody as Reports of Intoxicated Youngsters Multiply

ALBANY (Or.) March 13. (AP)—The investigation of Mrs. J. E. Moe of Crawfordsville, Or., mother of two children, which placed her in the Linn County Jail, continued today as reports drifted into the Sheriff's office regarding children in various stages of intoxication who appeared in public places.

Sheriff Shelton said many children have appeared in church under the influence of liquor. Following complaints of parents, the Sheriff arrested Mrs. Moe at her home, where he confiscated a large quantity of home brew and asserted liquor.

On her appearance in Justice Court Mrs. Moe was fined $200 and remanded to jail in default of payment. Welfare agencies started efforts to deprive her of a boy, 7 years of age, and girl, 9. The father is said to have deserted the family.

DOHENY'S STORY OF GIFT RETOLD

Three Take Stand in Trial of Local Oil Magnate

First Pictured as Briber and Then as Samaritan

Case Relates to Lease Given by ex-Secretary Fall

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—The oft-told conflicting versions of that $100,000 transaction between Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall in 1921 were begun anew today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court with the government seeking to convict the oil operator of bribery.

Defense counsel insisted again that Doheny advanced the money as a loan and was moved by friendship for the then Interior Secretary, instead of considering it a bribe for the lease to the Elk Hills (California) naval oil reserve which went to his company.

THREE GO ON STAND

After opening statements by counsel, three witnesses testified. From these government attorneys established that Doheny's son, now dead, had withdrawn the $100,000 from the private bank of Blair & Co. of New York November 30, 1921. Later they read to the jury Doheny's testimony before the Senate Oil Committee that he loaned Fall the $100,000 in cash on that date.

Graham Youngs, New York investment broker, who, as treasurer of Blair & Co. nine years ago delivered the cash to Edward L. Doheny, Jr., briefly described that transaction.

The government also called Ernest K. Hill, clerk to the Senate Oil Committee, when Doheny appeared and told of his loan to Fall. He identified the note Fall gave Doheny and which the latter presented to the committee.

DIFFERENT PICTURES

Theodore Mack, clerk of the Interior Department, identified vouchers Fall turned in for travel expenses.

Prior to the beginning of the testimony Doheny was depicted to the jury as a briber of a Cabinet offices and as a patriotic citizen who shouldered himself with an unwanted contract to help the government meet a menace from a foreign power in the Pacific.

Owen J. Roberts, as the special government prosecutor, gave the first picture while the second was given by Frank J. Hogan for the defense. Justice Hitz instructed the jury of three women and nine men to consider these statements only as to what each side would seek to prove.

SIGNATURE PUT ON YOUNG PLAN

Von Hindenburg Gives Final Approval to Bills

American Reparations Pact Also Acted Upon

Statement Urges All to Unite in National Task

BERLIN, March 13. (AP)—President Von Hindenburg, Germany's venerable Chief Executive and great wartime general, today signed the bills approving the Young reparations plan, already passed by the Reichstag and the Reichsrat.

A few hours later he signed the separate German-American reparations agreement.

Thus in one day's work he took the final steps necessary for Germany to set in motion the machinery for her payments to the Allies on her indebtedness arising out of the World War.

An urgency clause makes the Young plan immediately effective as far as Germany is concerned.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Immediately after signing it he issued a statement saying: "With heavy but staunch heart, and after mature and conscientious examination, I have set my signature on the Young plan laws." He appealed to the German people, including the Nationalists who have bitterly opposed the plan, to forget party strife and work together for reconstruction of the country.

Up to the last minute he was besieged by urgent appeals not to sign the plan from his former followers, many of them his trusted officers during the war and others his vigorous supporters in the Presidential campaign.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Casting aside his wonted reserve in political matters, President Von Hindenburg called upon all Germans to co-operate in the common task of reconstruction and to forget their dissensions in one thought "Deutschland Uber Alles."

The German-American debt liquidation agreement, separately concluded by the United States and Germany on December 28, 1929, also was approved. It provides that the German annuities to the United States be paid directly instead of through the bank for international settlements, which will handle the annuities to the other allied nations.

OTHERS HELD UP

A whole series of liquidation agreements that came up at the same time as the German-American settlement was held up. The agreements, including the British, Canadian and Polish ones, will be studied by the President to see whether they involve a constitutional amendment. His legal advisers, who have said they do not involve such an amendment, have been summoned to meet Monday and will probably maintain their opinion.

In that case, President Von Hindenburg, having formally satisfied himself about their character, will be in a position to sign them.

EARLY VOTE PROMISED FOR BILLS

Hoover Gets Assurances on Buildings and Roads from Senate Leaders

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Early action on the public buildings and Federal road-aid measures in the Senate was assured President Hoover today at a conference with Senate Republican leaders—Watson of Indiana and McNary of Oregon.

Discussing the legislative program at a White House parley, the Senate leaders informed the President that the tariff bill probably will be passed by the Senate about the middle of next week. After that general legislation will move along quickly, they reported.

However, Watson and McNary said they believe it will be five or six weeks before the tariff bill can be remolded in conference between the Senate and House and finally sent to the President. Adjournment of the session before June 25, next, was held to be unlikely.

Eaton Address Again Delayed

Delivery of an address in the House of Representatives at Washington by Representative Eaton of New Jersey reviewing the accomplishments of the first year of the Hoover administration has been postponed again. The address was prepared for delivery first on the 4th inst., the anniversary of President Hoover's inauguration, but adjournment out of respect to a Representative who had died prevented it.

Deaths of another Representative and of former Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Sanford interfered with the House's business to such an extent that he was compelled to postpone it several days, finally scheduling it for Wednesday, the 12th inst. Press of other business again interfered, and information from Washington last night indicated that the House will not get to hear the address until early next week.

Representative Eaton had given a copy of his address in advance to the Associated Press, which supplied a summary to The Times for publication when it was actually delivered. Through misunderstanding The Times published it yesterday as having been delivered Wednesday and regrets its error.

SELECTED FOR POST ON FEDERAL BENCH

George Cosgrave

WASHINGTON, March 13. (Exclusive)—Senator Shortridge of California is preparing to urge speedy and favorable action in Congress upon the name of George Cosgrave, of Fresno, Cal., whom President Hoover has nominated as United States district judge to succeed former Judge Henning. It is understood here that Cosgrave's appointment is acceptable to Congress, and that his nomination will be confirmed without delay.

FLOOD LOSS BACKS FIRE BILL NEED

Condition in San Gabriel Valley Cited to Support Forest Protection Plea

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13. (Exclusive)—Huge losses in the San Gabriel Valley from flood and soil erosion, due to fire sweeping the watersheds clean of water-retaining forests, was cited as one of several examples of pressing need for increased forest fire protection, by C. G. Dunwoody, conservation director of the California State Chamber of Commerce, in a statement filed today with the House Committee on Agriculture, in support of the Englebright bill, on which the committee concluded a three-day hearing.

"Our government in past years has maintained the policy of suppressing forest fires at any cost, but has expended very little money to prevent these fires from starting," Dunwoody said.

The Englebright bill provides for $4,500,000 a year for the first three years after its passage, and $4,000,000 annually thereafter for increased fire prevention work in the national forests.

Other witnesses in the final hearing today included Representatives from the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Campfire Club of America, and the American Forestry Association. More than 250 national organizations, including the American Automobile Association, have indorsed the measure. There was no opposition to the measure, and it is expected that the committee will report it out favorably the early part of next week.

ACTION ON DAM FUNDS PREDICTED

Imperial District Counsel Confident Congress Will Make Appropriations

BRAWLEY, March 13. (AP)—Charles L. Childers, chief counsel for the Imperial Irrigation District, today expressed confidence that Congress will make appropriations necessary to finance the construction of Boulder Dam as provided in the Swing-Johnson bill.

Commenting on a statement made at Phoenix last night by John Mason Ross, member of the Arizona Colorado River Commission, to the effect that it is "extremely doubtful" that Congress will make any appropriations for construction of the dam, Childers said conditions now are the same as when the Swing-Johnson bill was passed and "it is not to be assumed that Congress will change its mind."

"All points now being debated in Arizona were debated then in Congress, and, following this debate in Congress, Congress made its decision by passing the Swing-Johnson bill," Childers said.

FOX NOW FACES ANOTHER FIGHT

State Court Action Filed to Halt His Federal Suit

Trustees Take Latest Step in Dispute Over Stock

Ruling on Question Involved Already on Record

NEW YORK, March 13. (Exclusive)—The seeds of dissension sown at the stockholders' meetings of the Fox Film and Fox Theaters corporations last week blossomed into another legal contest today—an action by the trustees in State Supreme Court to halt by injunction an action brought by William Fox in Federal Court.

Mr. Fox's suit was scheduled to be heard in Federal Court tomorrow on an order issued by Judge Coleman requiring John E. Otterson and Harry L. Stuart to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain them from voting Mr. Fox's stock in the two companies in accordance with the terms of a trustee agreement.

Messrs. Stuart and Otterson, instead of waiting until tomorrow to answer the suit in Federal Court, went into the State Supreme Court and obtained from Justice Levy an injunction to restrain Fox from proceeding with his suit. The order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent is returnable Monday.

This unusual procedure of an action in State court to restrain proceedings in Federal Court results from a decision made last week by Justice Levy, in which he refused to enjoin Messrs. Stuart and Otterson from voting the stock. That decision was on an application brought by Mr. Fox. The bone of contention—Fox's stock—is valuable because it gives control of the two companies, comprising a majority of the "B" or voting stock.

FRIEND IN COURT LOST TO GANGS

Judge Who Hobnobbed With Racketeers Ousted

New York Supreme Tribunal in Radical Action

Vitale Denounced for Link With Underworld

NEW YORK, March 13. (Exclusive)—Albert H. Vitale, who dined with seven racketeers and borrowed money from Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, was removed as a city magistrate today by a unanimous decision of the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

The five justices who had listened for three days to the magistrate's plea for "mercy" found Vitale guilty of one of the two charges which the Bar Association made the basis for its petition for his removal. Vitale was told he had "undermined the integrity of justice."

Vitale was fired from the bench with a scathing denunciation but he walked smiling from the courtroom. He is expected to seek permission from the court to appeal the verdict.

The dismissal of Vitale marked the first time in thirty years a magistrate has been unseated for cause and presaged the fall of a number of other jurists in a general clean-up of the city's courts.

The act that bounced Vitale from his magistrate's seat, with a loud plop, was his acceptance of a loan of $19,940 from the gambler, Rothstein, who was murdered. The loan was exposed during the last mayoralty campaign by Major La Guardia and involved the magistracy in a "loathsome scandal."

Nothing Is Too Good To Say Of New Sargon"

When I began Sargon I'd been failing health for the past ten years and looked it. I was nervous, gassy and wornout from suffering. Now all my friends are commenting on how well I look.

I had chronic constipation so badly it was often necessary to take enemas twice a day, and then not get satisfactory results. I could not rouse my liver to healthy action, and the top of my head ached continually. I lost my appetite and food lay like a rock on my stomach and would not digest. To add further to my distress there was a severe rheumatic condition in my leg that kept me in bed most of the night. I'd have to massage it to ease the pain. In the mornings my feet and ankles would be so swollen I couldn't get on my shoes, and my hands and arms were always so stiff it hurt to use them. My kidneys annoyed me every hour of the day, and my head ached frightfully all the time. I tried all manner of medicines without relief until I took the Sargon treatment.

Before I'd finished the first bottle of this wonderful medicine I had a decided improvement. The Sargon Pills quickly ended my constipation and the tonic gave me a good appetite, and relieved me of indigestion. I can eat anything I want now and enjoy it thoroughly. My liver was also stimulated to normal action and I never have those awful headaches any more. My leg is free from pain, the swelling is gone from my hands, feet and ankles and I can get about with perfect ease. My kidneys do not trouble me as they did and those terrible backaches have disappeared. My nerves are steady, I sleep well, and my strength returned rapidly.

"There's nothing too good for me to say about Sargon, and I will always recommend it."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. James A. Smith, 1711 Hofman St., Long Beach.

The Sargon Man at the Owl Drug Store, 6th & Broadway, is meeting the public daily and telling just what this revolutionary new medicine means to weak, sick, debilitated men and women. He cites actual facts, for Sargon's great reputation is based on actual results accomplished; not empty promises. Sargon may also be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett's Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—Advertisement.

PROTECTIONISTS HIT TARIFF FOES

Republicans Deal Two Blows to Senate Coalition

Sugar Duty Rise and Cement Impost Retained

Democrats in Heated Row Over Changing Vote

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—The rejuvenated Republican protectionists dealt a double blow to the Senate tariff coalition of Democrats and Republican independents today by retaining in the Hawley-Smoot bill an increased sugar duty and an impost on cement, leaving only two major rate proposals to be disposed of—oil and lumber.

Preceding a heated controversy within Democratic ranks over the propriety of changing votes, the Senate vote, 47 to 28, against a motion to reconsider the sugar increase and by a similar vote, kept in the bill the duty of 6 cents a hundred pounds on cement, now on the free list.

DUTY ON CUBAN SUGAR

The duty on Cuban raw sugar thus was fixed definitely in the Senate measure at 2 cents a pound as against 1.76 cents now in effect. The House bill provides 2.40 cents, so the rate finally to be enacted is certain to be an increase. The House and Senate conferees will have to choose either the two or 2.40-cent rate or compromise.

The House bill provides a duty of 6 cents a hundred pounds on cement and the differences between the Senate and House rates on this commodity also will have to be threshed out in conference. The only other important action was a 44-to-32 vote to sustain a previous decision to levy a duty of 7 cents a pound on long stable cotton, or cotton of a staple of one and one-eighth inches and over, which is used in tire fabrics and fine cotton threads and goods.

COTTON RAISED HERE

This cotton, which is imported largely from Egypt by textile manufacturers, is now on the free list. It is being produced extensively in California and Arizona.

Previous increases on wool waste and wool rags also were concurred in.

Thirteen Republicans and twenty-five Democrats voted for the motion of Senator Nye, Republican Independent, North Dakota, to take another ballot on sugar. Thirty-eight Republicans and nine Democrats opposed it.

Senators Nye and Frazier of North Dakota, were the only ones to vote for reconsideration of sugar after having voted for the increase. Senators Copeland, Democrat, New York, and Meyers, Republican, New Hampshire, who opposed an increase, also voted against reconsideration, offsetting the other two votes.

COTTON DUTY SCORED

The vote to keep long staple cotton on the dutiable list in the bill came after a denunciation of the rate by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts, who said it would have a "very depressing effect on the cotton textile industry."

"I cannot describe the unemployment in this country," Walsh said, adding that in the last two years 100 large factories have closed down.

Senator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, replied that on that theory the manufacturers ought to "cheer up wonderfully now over the drop in prices of cotton."

Favoring the duty, Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, author of the 7-cent amendment, said:

"We have the climate, the soil and the people to produce this cotton and the question is whether we or others are going to supply the home market."

Attempt to Gain Action in Congress Revealed

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Facing the Senate lobby committee for the second day, Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, testified today that the Tennessee River Improvement Association could be described as a "lobby" organization.

He is a former president of the association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid Company to lease Muscle Shoals. He said it is not a political organization.

The witness, whose activities on Muscle Shoals legislation are being investigated by the committee, also testified that two men have called to see him since he became Republican chairman to discuss the Alabama power and nitrate project.

He said Chester Gray of the American Farm Bureau Federation spoke to him and that he saw C. W. Ashcraft of Albama. Both have advocated the Cyanamid company proposal.

CANADA LIQUOR PROFITS LISTED

Ontario Control Commission Reports Year's Sales

Drunkenness "Still With Us" Statement Declares

Day of Large Bootlegger Declared Ended

TORONTO, March 13. (AP)—With sales totaling $55,360,569 the Ontario liquor-control commission has reported to the Legislature a profit for 1929 of $9,661,448. Commenting on operation of the control system, the report said:

"Evils resulting from the abuse of liquor have ever been present. The sin of drunkenness is still with us and probably will remain with the host of other sins."

The commission declared the day of the large bootlegger is ended. "He is regarded today as the common enemy," it said.

Use of rubbing alcohol and other substitutes is held by the commission as responsible for a large percentage of drunkenness in some sections, and stated measures are being taken to eliminate this abuse.

Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the commission, also said a new plan will be put into effect in an endeavor to prevent abuse of the permit privilege. Under the new regulations a person buying beyond his means or for bootlegging purposes will be limited to purchases at the store nearest his home, thus permitting a closer scrutiny of his purchases.

During 1929 there were 543,044 permits granted. Sales from the 123 government stores totaled $37,626,779, with the balance from 105 brewery warehouses and breweries.

The report showed that the per capita consumption of alcohol in Canada had fluctuated from .703 gallons in 1917 to a low of .325 in 1919 to a high of .723 in 1921. The consumption in 1928 was .435 gallons per person.

Employment conditions in Michigan developed marked improvement in February. LITTLE MONACO ANNOYS FRANCE

Proclamation of Republic Would Raise Problem

Treaty Recognizes Only Louis Dynasty

Prince Pierre Popular With Opposition Party

PARIS, March 13. (AP)—Little Monaco, famed chiefly for the gambling casino at Monte Carlo, is giving almost more trouble to France than all her other problems put together.

Should the Monacan elections the 30th inst., result in the proclamation of a republic, France, which exercises complete domination over the principality, will be placed in an embarrassing situation because her treaty with Monaco recognizes only the dynasty headed by Prince Louis.

If the people vote to overthrow the dynasty, it is believed that France will assure Louis's place as Prince, or if he abdicates will probably arrange a regency for his grandson.

A report reached Paris today that Prince Pierre, husband of Princess Charlotte, is liked by the party which is striving for a republic, and that in the event of a republic he might even be proclaimed the first president.

At the conclusion tonight of a meeting of the Paris Bar Association, it was announced unofficially that former President Poincare had been requested to referee the matrimonial controversies of Princess Charlotte, who is Prince Louis's daughter, and Prince Pierre; and also the dynastical controversies between Prince Louis and Monaco's two organized legislative and administrative bodies.

When questioned, M. Poincare refused to discuss the matter beyond saying that he is merely an attorney, retired from public life.

Vanderbilt Airs Amity Race Plan

MEXICO CITY, March 13. (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., American journalist and publisher, announced before leaving for the United States tonight that he will offer a silver trophy as a prize in a nonprofessional automobile race from New York to Mexico City through Laredo, Tex., shortly after the Laredo-Mexico City highway has been completed late this year.

He hopes to make the race an annual event for the promotion of Mexican-American friendship.

FIRE RAZES THOUSANDS OF HOMES

Laborers' Dwellings in Singalong District of Manila Destroyed

MANILA, March 14. (Friday) (AP) Flames roared over the Singalong district of this city last night and early today, destroying the flimsy homes of 5000 Filipino and Chinese laborers. One person is known to have perished and scores were injured. Several children were missing hours after the flames had died to embers.

One thousand Nipa houses of woven grass blazed like paper, only sheet-iron roofs remaining to mark their location.

The Philippine constabularly and Manila police, helpless to halt the flames, charged after them and searched the smoking ruins for the missing children or other possible casualties.

On the edge of the burned area the Red Cross erected a tent city and ministered to sufferers.

From across the Pasig River, where the more prosperous of Manila's residents live, there came crowds to aid or merely look on.

Guards were posted to prevent looting as the Filipino and Chinese laborers struggled to save their poor possessions.

Adams Tariff "Hogs" Letter Put in Record

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—A letter attributed to Secretary Adams of the Navy, advocating free trade and characterizing tariff advocates as "thieves" and "hogs," was placed in the Congressional records today by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas.

The letter, written in 1906 to a member of Congress, was published today in the New York World.

BOSTON, March 13. (AP)—The Boston Herald tomorrow will say that a letter calling tariff advocates "thieves" and "hogs" and attributed to Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, was, in fact, written by the Secretary's father, also named Charles Francis Adams.

Social Leaders Taken in Raid on Costly Home

OAKLAND, March 13. (AP)—Entering the $40,000 home of Tom C. Turner in the exclusive Montclair district here early today, operatives of Dist.-Atty. Warren's office lined up a score of Alameda county business and social leaders, men and women, and then arrested Turner on a charge of maintaining a nuisance and possession of liquor.

Names of some of the guests are said to appear in the social register. They were not revealed by authorities. They departed in limousines.

A search, officers said, revealed scores of empty bottles in the basement that once contained rare vintages, a whisky "cutting plant" and a small amount of liquor. In a room upstairs was found a bar.

Butler Will Run as Dry Advocate

BOSTON, March 13. (AP)—William M. Butler tonight announced the platform on which he will seek the Republican nomination for the United States Senate.

He said he is opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and stands without qualification behind President Hoover's views on prohibition.

BUDAPEST, March 13. (AP)—Capt. Lorant, Srader, song composer and violinist, died today. He was a distant cousin of Queen Mary of England.

SPAIN ELECTION PROMISED SOON

Republicanism Discounted by Duke of Alba

Says Monarchy Has Deep Devotion of People

Transition Achieved With Little Disorder

MADRID, March 13. (AP)—Spain's Minister of State believes that Republicanism does not present a serious prospect for realizing in his country, and that the monarchy is deeply rooted in the real heart of Spain.

The Duke of Alba so expressed himself today in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press. He believed, too, that the prospect for tranquility in Spain is such that the present government will adhere to its determination to hold general elections as soon as possible, restoring the parliamentary government which the Primo De Rivera dictatorship abandoned.

IN DUE COURSE

"But time is required to do this," he added. "We cannot work magic. Suppose that for six years in the United States all political parties, organizations and electoral machinery had been suppressed or nonfunctioning.

"You are the most practical people on earth for doing things. But could you—or any country—organize elections overnight under such conditions? Of course not. We are doing our best, and elections and restoration of Parliament will come in due time. Parliament will then decide what government shall succeed."

Then the Duke referred to recent agitation for a Republican government following the end of the dictatorship.

PROUD OF ORDER

"Spain cannot live without order," he said, "and the monarch means order. The heart of Spain is unchanged on this question; it is overwhelmingly for its King. More than 800 years' service by my family to the monarchy and my devotion to King Alfonso is why I am a monarchist.

"It is curious, this conviction foreign countries seem to have had that disorders were inevitable in Spain in connection with a change of government. We are exceedingly proud that Spain was able to effect such a change of government with astonishingly little disturbance, and that of minor nature.

"As you know, we have removed the foreign press censorship. We only ask each correspondent to be personally responsible for the truth; all we want is that the world have the facts."

Italy Unveils Stone in Honor of Stanford

FLORENCE (Italy) March 13. (AP) A stone tablet in the memory of Leland Stanford, Jr., of San Francisco, who died here on March 13, 1884, was dedicated this afternoon.

The stone is in the external wall of the Grand Hotel, where Mr. Stanford died.

The Mayor of Florence, Count Della Charardesca, the American Consul, Joseph E. Haven, rector of the university, Prof. Enrico Burci, and others attended.

S. I. Schwabacher of San Francisco, secretary of the class of 1907, Leland Stanford University, spoke.

Jail Breaker Shot to Death

BRAWLEY, March 13. (AP)—Walter Sinclair, 42 years of age, alias Joe McFarland, escaped convict from the Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus, was shot and killed by Police Officer Robert Cordill here tonight. He had been arrested and was making a dash for freedom from the Brawley City Jail.

FOUR MILES PER MINUTE, DON'S GOAL

British Speed Wizard to Pose for Pictures and Test Silver Bullet Today

DAYTONA BEACH (Fla.) March 13. (AP)—Four miles a minute—240 miles an hour—is the goal Kaye Don, British racer, hopes to attain when he sends his powerful twenty-four-cylinder Silver Bullet roaring over the ocean speedway soon in an effort to shatter the world's automobile speed record.

He expressed that opinion tonight, shortly after mechanics pronounced his huge, stream-lined machine ready for a series of preliminary runs to test out the performance of the car before he attempts his official trials, probably early next week.

The British driver, who has been racing automobiles in England for the last ten years, expects to take the giant iron steed on to the beach tomorrow to pose for a battery of cameramen and then probably will send it skimming along the speedway at a fairly rapid clip for the first time it has been run since it left its factory in England. Before the test, the car will be christened by Don's sister, Mrs. Rita Livesy, who accompanied him here from London.

GOVERNOR ACTS IN COTTON-PEST FIGHT

PHOENIX, March 13. (AP)—Gov. Phillips today issued a proclamation for an emergency appropriation of $3500 to construct four quarantine stations to combat the pink boll worm infestation in this State.

ERLANGER WILL FIGHT STARTED

Attorney for Actress Files Objection to Probate

Document Refers to Her as Widow of Magnate

Unsound Mind and Undue Influence Charged

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP)—Although Abraham L. Erlanger, theater magnate, stated specifically in his will that he was unmarried, a former actress who declares she is his widow today filed, through her attorney, an objection to probate of his estate, variously valued at from $10,000,000 to $75,000,000.

The objection is based on the contention that Erlanger was of unsound mind and incapable of making a will on the day the document purports to have been executed, October 18, 1917. It also is contended that he was subjected to undue influence from other heirs.

The document filed today by Max D. Steuer, who announced the day after Erlanger's death that he had been retained to protect the interests of "the widow," refers to his client all the way through as "Charlotte F. Erlanger." "Mrs. Erlanger," he said, is Miss Charlotte Fiscal, an actrses, known on the stage as Charlotte Leslie.

RICHFIELD WINS AGAIN ...and AGAIN!

2 New World's Records with RICHFIELD

ELINOR SMITH, daring 18-year old aviatrix, in a sensational new altitude record for women at Roosevelt Field, N. Y. on March 10th! George W. Haldeman in a new altitude record for commercial planes at Wilmington, Del., on February 28th! Two world's records within two weeks for Richfield motor products!!

Miss Smith climbed to an altitude of between 30,000 and 32,000 feet in her Wright-motored Bellanca monoplane—fighting faintness due to failure of oxygen supply—shattering the old record for women by more than 6,000 feet. She used Richfield Gasoline, Richlube Motor Oil and Richlube Rocker Arm Grease and paid a high tribute to these products at the conclusion of the flight.

"Richfield Gasoline and Richlube Motor Oil functioned perfectly in my record-breaking altitude flight. I always use Richfield products because all tests have proved them to be the best, on the ground and in the air. No little share in my success is due to them."

In establishing a new world's altitude record of 33,500 feet, George Haldeman broke the old record of Martin Jensen by nearly 8,000 feet. Haldeman, too, relied on Richfield to carry his Wright-motored Bellanca monoplane to a new world's record.

Use Richfield products for your own car and find out why the world's great pilots use them exclusively. Fill up at any station with the blue and gold Richfield shield!

GRAPE GROWERS ORGANIZE PLAN

Teague Proposal Being Put Into Execution

State Districted in Drive for Signatures

Committee of Fifty Names Giffen Chairman

FRESNO, March 13. (Exclusive)—With the future of the grape and raisin industry clarified as it never has been before by the exposition yesterday by the Federal Farm Board's rehabilitation plan, conceived and presented by C. C. Teague, member of the board and a Californian, the machinery to bring about the plans' consummation was set in motion today without loss of time.

A committee of fifty men actively engaged in the industry in one form or another, meeting with Teague and sharing the benefit of his advice, elected officers, split the State into four sections for concentrated work, laid down the first rules of activity and prepared to swing into the campaign to sign 85 per cent of the grape growers to the suggested ten-year co-operative contract, which is the farm board's condition to aid.

GIFFEN CHAIRMAN

Wiley M. Giffen of Mendota, one of the most widely known men in the industry and a popular choice, was named chairman of the committee. He will be assisted by Benton Ballu of Ontario for the Southern California district; A. L. Paddleford of Lodi for the San Joaquin Valley; Albert Haentze of San Jose for the northern district, and Dalles Gray of Armona for the central district.

H. Parker Frisselle of Fresno was named treasurer and Dr. Theodore Macklin of the Federal Farm Board's organization, secretary.

A State-wide executive committee also was formed, composed of Walter Jehant of Lodi, W. A. Collins of Fresno, H. W. Wrightson of Fresno, Von Whitmore of Modesto, and Lealie Einstein of Reedley.

Executive Secretary Stewart, it was decided, shall assume the responsibility of contacting local grower groups, advising and aiding in the formation of community committees.

That accomplished and the personnel of the machinery set up, the committee of fifty plunged at once into the sign-up campaign.

GROWER CONTRACT

The initial point of discussion is the grower contract which is to be offered by Control Board, Inc., the $20,000,000 organization which Teague proposed as the co-ordinating body for all the units of the industry. Terms of the contract as now drawn up were gone over in detail, thoroughly discussed and the representatives of the three existing co-operatives — Sun-Maid Raisin Growers' Association, California Vineyardist Association and the California Fruit Exchange—requested to present the terms of the document to their respective organizations immediately for consideration and action. It is probable this action will be forthcoming next week.

Present indications point to favorable consideration, despite some differences in the past. Outstanding, perhaps, in the reaction to Teague's exposition of the industry plan is a general sentiment that members and nonmembers of co-operatives are closer to a give-and-take attitude on the problem than ever before.

Teague remains in direct touch with the situation. He plans to start back to Washington tomorrow night, but M. J. Newhouse and Dr. Macklin will remain. They are both connected with the farm board, thoroughly familiar with the Teague plan and in a position to give counsel at all times.

PARALYSIS PREVENTION PREDICTED

London Student Believed to Have Discovered Germ of Disseminated Sclerosis

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—Miss Kathleen Chevassut, young pupil of Sir James Purves-Stewart, widely known British medical authority, was reported today to have discovered what may prove to be the germ of "disseminated sclerosis." This disease is often responsible for paralysis and its causes have hitherto been obscure and its treatment unsatisfactory.

The discovery was published in the medical journal, the Lancet. If it is substantiated, the Lancet believes it will rank among the foremost achievements of bacteriology. Experiments are being made in treating the disease with vaccines prepared from cultures of minute bodies that Miss Chevassut discovered.

The results have been encouraging. Disseminated sclerosis, a degenerative disease of the brain and spinal cord, slowly, but steadily, progresses in most cases, chronic nephritis or tuberculosis frequently developing and causing death.

Prisoner Takes Own Life After Slaying Guard

TRENTON (N. J.) March 13. (AP) Charles F. Evans, a young prisoner who had rounded out the eleventh year of a double life term, late today made a break for liberty from State prison, the attempt ending in his suicide, the fatal wounding of a guard and injury to two other guards.

Cornered in a cell by three keepers, Evans shot it out until one slug remained in his weapon. This he sent through his brain. The slain guard was Frank Butcher, who received a number of bullet wounds in the exchange of shots. Ernest Gordon received a superficial shoulder wound and Thomas Foren was struck on the head with an improvised blackjack.

WHY TODAY'S BEST INVESTMENT IS HUNTINGTON PALISADES

"On Santa Monica Bay"

The foundation of all wealth is real estate. Population enhances realty values. Los Angeles is growing at an unprecedented pace. Any carefully selected property here is a safe and sound investment.

But, a careful analysis discloses factors at work today that make Huntington Palisades "On Santa Monica Bay" the best buy in Los Angeles real estate.

At the outset, the investor can purchase property in this superb residential development away under the market... on the basis of comparison. A potential profit accrues the instant a purchase is made.

$1,100,000 Expended for Improvements

■ ■ ■ More money has been expended here for improvements per front foot than is customary elsewhere . . . these improvements costing $1,100,000 are completed and paid for . . . there are no assessments. This is a reality, not a promise.

■ ■ ■ All utilities are installed underground . . . no poles to mar the view . . . no need to cut up the paved surface of the curving drives.

Deed Restrictions are Protective

■ ■ ■ The deed restrictions are perpetual . . . and an architectural committee has absolute control over building. This insures a harmonious ensemble of beauty.

■ ■ ■ Homes costing from $10,000 to $200,000 are completed and occupied . . . their owners are worthy people with whom you will be glad to associate.

■ ■ ■ Trees fifty years old and appraised at $750,000, dot the property. Huntington Palisades is the only tree covered mesa fronting on the ocean within 20 miles of downtown Los Angeles.

Fronting Fortunately on the Ocean

■ ■ ■ Huntington Palisades fronts directly on Santa Monica Bay . . . it occupies a gentle sloping sunkissed mesa . . . 180 feet above the sea.

■ ■ ■ The climate is typically Southern California . . . warm in winter and cool in summer.

■ ■ ■ Three boulevards afford ready access to downtown and country, Beverly Boulevard, Wilshire Boulevard and the Roosevelt Coast Highway.

Unequalled School Facilities

■ ■ ■ There is a grade school nearby where children may safely go unattended by their parents. No dangerous boulevards to cross.

■ ■ ■ It is only an 8 minute drive to the new University of California at Los Angeles.

Diversified Recreational Opportunities

■ ■ ■ The Riviera Country Club . . . where many of the 1932 Olympic contests will be held . . . the famous Uplifters Club and numerous Beach Clubs are nearby. . . . and the privelege of the private bathing beach is vested with each site.

Low Prices Based on Sound Policies

■ ■ ■ You ask, "How can property with so many advantages be purchased at such moderate prices?"

■ ■ ■ The answer is simple . . . This property has changed ownership, but three times in fifty years. It is not burdened with a succession of profits that must be absorbed. It's present owners are ably financed . . . they are developing it and selling it on a sane basis. The selling costs are low. . . . Modest returns on the investment is all that is expected. These basic factors represent economies that we pass on to today's purchasers. Hence you make a potential profit the instant you buy in Huntington Palisades.

Before you make any investment, drive down and investigate Huntington Palisades.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Lord Greystoke raised his wife's head and looked down into her eyes; his own eyes filled with the light of happiness. His voice was husky with emotion. "My dear," he said. "I have found her, and—him!" So great was Lady Greystoke's joy that she forgot the sad messages that awaited Meriem. And so, an hour later, Korak, the Killer, rode home to his mother and found in her arms and her eyes the love and forgiveness that he longed for.

And then the mother told Meriem that Morison Baynes had not survived his wound. The expression in Meriem's eyes was only the sorrow she genuinely felt, but it was not the pain of a woman bereft of her best beloved. "I am so sorry," she said softly. "He loved me—but I did not know what love was until I knew that Korak lived." Lady Greystoke looked quickly at her son, the son who one day would be Lord Greystoke, and gave a little cry of joy.

The love she saw there answered the question in her heart. No thought of the difference in the stations of the girl and her boy entered her mind. To her, Meriem was fit for a king. She only wanted to know that her son loved the little Arab waif. Throwing her arms about them both she kissed them repeatedly, exclaiming: "Now I shall really have a daughter." A few days after the marriage ceremony, they all started for the coast to take passage for England.

Those days that followed were the most wonderful of Meriem's life. She had not dreamed, even vaguely, of the marvels that civilization held in store for her. The great ocean steamship filled her with awe. And then came London where the luxuries of the Greystoke town house quite took her breath away. Only one secret trouble tore at Meriem's heart. If only she knew that by birth she was worthy of her husband! Who and where were her own father and mother?

NEW SHIP YARD PROGRAM SOON

Manager Armes Expected at Plant This Morning

Announcement of Operating Plans Due Shortly

Early Return Hooked Up to Panama Mail Deal

BY WALDO DRAKE

Final plans for operation of the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation by George A. Armes, leading San Francisco shipbuilder, in a new construction program are expected to be completed today. Mr. Armes will arrive in Los Angeles this morning and is scheduled to go into conference immediately with present executives of the local concern.

His early return to Southern California is taken by local shipping men to portend almost certain construction in the Los Angeles yards of the three $5,000,000 express liners for the Panama Mail Line. In an interview during his last visit to secure the contract to build the Panama Mail ships took a favorable trend he would return to Los Angeles about the 20th inst. Since then, Postmaster-General Brown has announced award of the California-Puerto Colombia mail contract to the Panama Mail Line and subsequently indicated that the Parent Committee on Ocean Mail Contracts would recommend favorably loan of three-quarters of the ships' construction cost under the provisions of the Jones-White Bill.

Advices from the San Francisco headquarters of the Panama Mail Line yesterday said that Edward T. Ford, president of the line, now in New York, will sign the mail contract and construction loan authorization in Washington early next week with the Postmaster-General. Plans for the three new ships have progressed to such point, said the San Francisco dispatch, that they are ready for approval of the Navy Department and Shipping Board, preparatory to bids being asked for their building.

Pending Mr. Armes's arrival newspaper men were yesterday excluded from the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation.

NEW ERA SIGHTED FOR COASTAL SHIPPING

Pacific Coast shipping is at the beginning of the best period in its history, according to Thomas Crowley, dean of San Francisco shipping men and commander-in-chief of the Red Stack tug fleet. Mr. Crowley arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning for a week's survey of the shipping situation in Southern California and for a conference with Capt. William McGillivray, district manager of the Red Stack fleet.

"The Coast has escaped the troubles of the shipping depression that has hit most of the sea-going world during the past two years and as a result we are strengthened for the good days just ahead," he said. "Our fast-growing foreign trade and the beneficent legislation of the Jones-White bill have already started building of modern American-flag ships for all trades.

"I think those of us lucky enough to be doing business at Pacific Coast ports will find ourselves with a place in the sun. That is because the Coast ports will be the cross-roads or terminus for every trade route in the Pacific; to China, the East Indies, the Antipodes, South America, or out from Europe."

Mr. Crowley was the guest last night of William H. Wickersham, local customs broker.

An impressive passenger terminal, which the port never has had, where travelers may embark or debark without climbing over and dodging cargo, is an important feature of the intercommunity committee's recommendations for taking over Southern Pacific frontage at San Pedro.

"Including Catalina travel, the port handles more than 1,000,000 passengers yearly," according to Chairman Mott, "and we are agreed on some such utility commensurate with this vast sea travel.

"The site is contiguous to electric and steam railway and vehicular transportation, and with the shoving back of present tracks will afford ample parking space for a metropolitan terminus. Alongside also would be the ferry slip for passage direct to Terminal Island."

Arriving at nightfall yesterday, the Panama Mail liner Ecuador disembarked ninety-one passengers from New York and Central America, the largest number ever leaving the ship here. The vessel was to discharge cargo last night and sail this morning for San Francisco. Travelers include R. G. Bonham, president of the Jersey City Stock Yards Company, largest in the East; L. C. Tarlton, Montreal contractor and golf and curler sportsman; Noah Smith, Halsel and Eugene Canavier, engineers for Tropical Oil Company bound home from Colombia, and Edwin Sherman, banker of Evanston, Ill.

Three hundred and twenty-five passengers are due from Hawaii this morning on the Lasco liner City of Honolulu which concludes its quick turn-around program and will not sail back until the 22nd inst. Voyagers include W. H. B. Fowler, assistant publisher and general manager of the San Francisco Chronicle; J. S. Smart, Santa Ana banker; Harry L. Block, president of Missouri Portland Cement Company, and C. W. Cummings, Chicago banker executive of Cudahy Packing Company.

Lassco's cabin liner Calawaii will sail for Hawaii at noon tomorrow with seventy-five passengers, including Will C. Crawford, superintendent of public instruction at Honolulu; Miss Edna M. Coulter, Long Beach aviatrix; L. B. Armstrong, Santa Ana banker, and Clifford Knight, Long Beach author.

FINANCIAL

GAIN REPORTED BY SIGNAL OIL

Statement of Operations in 1929 Given Out

Consolidated Net Earnings of $1,280,828 Shown

Equals $6.12 Per Share on Capital Stock

Consolidated net profits of the Signal Oil and Gas Company and subsidiaries for 1929 amounted to $1,280,828.71, after all charges, including abandonments and reserve for Federal income taxes, equivalent to $6.12 a share on the 209,175 average shares outstanding during the year, according to the annual report issued yesterday by S. B. Mosher, president.

This compares with $1,267,979.17 reported earned for the preceding year which was equivalent to $6.11 a share on the 207,940 average capital shares then outstanding, the increase being accomplished after a deduction of $732,296.52 for depreciation, depletion, abandonments and reserve for taxes, which is $184,-974.13 more than was charged off in 1928.

Gross operating income for the year aggregated $5,050,950.33, as compared with $4,610,097.84 in 1928, an increase of $440,860.49. The net income before fixed charges amounted to $2,013,127.23, an increase of $197,823.67. The company has no funded debt.

CRUDE SALES GAIN

In spite of the general overproduction of casinghead gasoline in 1929, with a subsequent lowering of prices for this product, increased revenue from the sale of crude oil more than offset the reduction in income from gasoline, Mr. Mosher stated.

Quick current assets as of December 31, last, amounted to $1,894,-360.89 as against total liabilities of $949,633.53, a ratio of two to one.

The profitable reinvestment of a large proportion of the earnings in additional oil properties has greatly strengthened the company's position and added to its potential earning capacity from properties yet to be developed, Mr. Mosher said.

"The natural gasoline department has continued to expand with the acquisition of new gas contracts and the further development of properties which are now being drilled for deep-sand production. Natural gasoline production in 1929 aggregated 39,676,635 gallons, as compared with 34,106,261 gallons in 1928, an increase of more than 15 per cent. The company's eight natural gasoline plants maintained a daily average production during 1929 of 110,000 gallons from its properties under lease in both California and the Midcontinent."

OUTLOOK IMPROVES

The recent advance in the price of crude oil will add considerably to the company's income from its producing properties, according to Mr. Mosher, who said that the production in 1929 from its wells at Maricopa Flats and Mt. Poso Creek had jumped to 462,524 barrels or 1270 barrels per day from a total production in 1928 of 21,906 barrels. At the close of the year its thirteen wells in these districts were averaging 2500 barrels a day.

In addition the company has an eight-acre lease on Sec. 36 21-17 at Kettleman Hills near the Petroleum Securities Felix No. 1, and at Elwood it is constructing a pier for the immediate drilling of a well near the Pacific Western Oil Company's well now producing 6300 barrels daily.

With plans for a continued aggressive development of its oil properties consistent with curtailment measures, and with the subsequent increase in revenue from oil production, the prospects for 1930 appear better than at any period in the company's history, Mr. Mosher said.

"The marked success," he stated,

IDEAS ON AIR RISKS DIFFER

Limited Policies Written by Some Companies, But Many Rates High; Pacific Mutual's Program

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Insurance companies differ widely on aviation risks. Some, like the Pacific Mutual Life of Los Angeles, are willing to write regular policies without extra premium for a moderate number of flights by fare-paying passengers, but pilots, student flyers, instructors, aerial photographers, etc., are compelled to pay almost prohibitive premiums if they want insurance protection.

Fare-paying passengers flying only with licensed pilots over established lines are accepted by the Pacific Mutual, for illustration, as regular risks only up to ten flights yearly. Over ten flights, the company charges a graduated extra premium and limits the policy.

RESTRICTIONS IMPROVED

Nonpaying passengers, who may be employed by corporations owning and operating an airplane used in the regular course of business, are accepted by the Pacific Mutual as a regular risk only for a limit of five flights yearly. Policy limits are fixed and extra premiums charged for more than this number of flights.

While this company declines to insure army and navy officers, airmail pilots, students, instructors, testers, owner-pilots, owners employing professional pilots, etc., there are numerous companies that do write such policies. A total of 109 companies in the United States and Canada are listed as writing some form of aviation risk.

Sixty companies, according to a recent survey for the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, will write policies for pilots; eighty-four will cover passengers; sixty both pilots and passengers; fifty-seven airplane owners; thirty-two student pilots, etc.

Capt. Ray A. Dunn of the United States Army, who made the survey for the Guggenheim fund, charges insurance companies, however, with not possessing a true conception of the hazards of aviation or the relative degrees of risk.

PERSONNEL INEXPERIENCED

"Only eight of the general companies underwriting the aviation risk," he reports, "have enlisted in their home offices the services of employees who are experienced in aviation. They are in many cases men who were in military service during the late war and now judge flying by the haphazard flying of war days and the disastrous barnstorming or gypsy flying done immediately after the war."

His report says further that, while in most cases coverage can be obtained, the costs are often prohibitive, with the result that the majority of those engaged in aviation are not now properly protected by insurance.

"To the general public," he adds, "the aviation risk appears greater than it is, because of the reluctance on the part of the insurance industry to protect the risk." The remedy he proposes is the establishment of a centrally located statistical, rating and legal agency to maintain aviation mortality experience tables and to select, classify and adjust all aviation risks.

Aviation mortality figures compiled by Capt. Dunn for the last ten years, with complete figures only for 1927, 1928 and the first half of 1929, show a reduction of one-half in the pilots' mortality rate for the first half of last year. The death rate was 11.869 per 1000, compared with 27.820 in 1928 and 23.448 in 1927. Passenger mortality in 1927 was .106 per 1000; .133 in 1928 and .146 in the first half of 1929.

SCREEN UNIT HOLDERS TO GET RIGHTS

Issue of Consolidated Film Industries Offered at $20 a Share

NEW YORK, March 13. (Exclusive)—Common and preferred stockholders of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., of record the 18th inst., will be offered the right to subscribe to 100,000 shares of additional preferred stock at $20 a share in the ratio of one share of preferred for every seven shares of common or preferred stock held. The rights will expire April 10. The funds to be derived through this offering will be used to pay for acquisitions already secured and those in contemplation.

H. J. Yates, chairman of the company, stated that it would soon supply a color printing process of outstanding importance. He added that assurances had been received that this process will be enthusiastically received by the entire motion-picture industry. Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., expects to have exclusive control of the process, he said.

The company recently closed a contract with Universal Film, whereby all of its negatives will be processed and this has resulted in an increase of approximately 25 per cent in the company's business, February bookings having been 45,-000,000 feet, an increase of 10,000,-000 feet compared with the best previous month. Consolidated Film also acquired from Universal its modern laboratory at Fort Lee, New Jersey, which fits into the expansion program.

During the past year Consolidated Film purchased the Bennett Film Laboratories, which own joint control of the leasing and manufacture of the Spoor-Thompson developing machine. Consolidated Film is expected soon to acquire complete ownership of the Spoor-Thompson patents which with the Gaumont and Erograph patents already owned control of all patents on machines for developing negatives and positives.

Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., for 1929 showed net income of $2,389,000, an increase of 51.6 per cent over the 1928 net of $1,576,000 for 1928. The net income for 1929 was equal to $7.86 a share on the preferred stock and $3.41 a share on the common stock.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NUMBER 31

Several salient facts are to be remembered by the taxpayers in claiming deductions for taxes. Taxes on personal property or real estate, whether business or residential, are deductible. So-called taxes which are assessed against local benefits, such as street, sidewalks, drainage, and other like improvement, which tend to increase the value of the property assessed, are not deductible, since they are considered as constituting the cost of a permanent improvement.

The Federal income tax may not be deducted. However, income taxes paid upon the incomes of individual to States may be deducted by an individual on his Federal income-tax return.

The deduction of estate and inheritance taxes is confined to the estate. Retroactive provisions pertaining to deductions of estate and inheritance taxes are found in the revenue act.

Postage is not a tax. Automobile license fees are ordinarily deductible. Customs duties paid by a person on articles for his own use are deductible. Import or tariff duties paid in the operation of a business are deductible as taxes, provided they are not added to or made a part of the expenses of the business or the cost of the merchandise with respect to which they are paid.

Admission taxes are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid. Guesswork will not be accepted.

NUMBER 32

The tax on dividends is an important item in the returns of many taxpayers. As defined by the revenue act the term "dividend" means any distribution made by a corporation to its shareholders, whether in money or other property, out of its earnings or profits accumulated after February 28, 1913. If a dividend represents profits earned by a corporation prior to March 1, 1913, there is no tax.

A dividend may be payable out of current profits or accumulated surplus, but it has no legal existence until it is "declared" by a formal resolution of the directors of the corporation. The ordinary form of a dividend is a periodical cash distribution of current profits. However, dividends may be paid in securities or other property. For example, a corporation may distribute among its stockholders securities in which it has invested its earnings. Such securities are to be reported as dividends by the stockholders at the fair market value on the date the dividends become payable. Dividends paid by a domestic corporation are subject to surtax only, which is imposed upon net income in excess of $10,000.

The rate of tax on the income of corporations is reduced to 11 per cent.

Various penalties are imposed by the statute for failure to file a return and pay the tax on time, and for making a fraudulent return. Distinction is made between failure and "willful failure" to file a return. For failure to file a return on time, the penalty is 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, unless a return is later filed and it is satisfactorily shown to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that such failure was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. If a taxpayer exercised ordinary business care and prudence, and nevertheless was unable to file a return within the prescribed time, the delay is due to a "reasonable cause."

For willful failure to make a return the penalty is not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and in addition 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. For willfully making a false or fraudulent return, the penalty is not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, and in addition 50 per cent of the amount of the tax.

NEW YORK BANK RATE REDUCED

Federal Reserve Unit Cuts Rediscounts to 3½ Per Cent Basis

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP) The New York Federal Reserve Bank today reduced the rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent.

The 4 per cent rate had been in effect since February 6, when the rate was reduced from 4½ per cent. The new rate of 3½ per cent is the lowest since January, 1928, and marks a return to the low rate inaugurated in August of 1927, when business trends were somewhat reactionary, as they have been recently, and low credit rates were administered as a remedy.

LONDON, March 13. (Exclusive)—Bank of England minimum rate of discount remained unchanged today at 4 per cent.

Allyn & Co., Inc.; $750,000 Philippine government 4½ per cent bonds due 1959, which were offered at 103.33 and interest to yield 4.30 per cent by C. F. Childs & Co., Inc., and $419,000 Miami (Fla.) 4 3-4 per cent bonds due 1936 to 1953, inclusive, which were marketed by B. J. Van Ingen & Co., at prices to yield 3.50 per cent.

Fight on Wool Plan Brewing

SAN ANGELO (Tex.) March 13. (AP)—The directors of the Wool and Mohair Association of Texas last night issued a statement saying the organization did not believe the National Wool-Marketing Corporation under the auspices of the Federal Farm Board was for the best interests of the grower.

"We intend to begin a campaign showing the services of warehouses and what they can do and have done for the grower," the statement said. The directors said they had formulated a plan for wool and mohair marketing.

LEGGE'S STATEMENT FRANK

Letter to North Dakota Governor Suggesting Cut in Wheat Acreage Held Sound Business

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, March 13.—Dig up Chairman Legge's letter to Gov. Shafer of North Dakota, and read it—nothing political about it—just a heap of common sense backed up by a world of experience.

The straight-shooting Legge told the Governor that the Federal Farm Board did not intend to make any effort to maintain wheat prices at the present level of $1.25 a bushel, Minneapolis, in the face of another surplus this year. Farmers must expect to see prices at a lower level, should no reduction in acreage take place.

"The 10 per cent reduction in acreage we are now suggesting," said Mr. Legge, "would, in our judgment, put the trade on a fairly healthy basis."

Mr. Legge was frank to admit that the present program of the stabilizing corporation would result in having upwards of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand at the close of the season.

Even the business enemies of Chairman Legge — and they are many—admit that no man has entered public life in recent years who has been more candid, sincere or frank with the people than this former big business leader.

H. Parker Willis, New York economist, first secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, has come out in favor of branch banking.

"Already we have had a successful experience with branch banking on the Pacific Coast, where Statewide branch banking, (notably in California,) has done much to develop the industry and business of the various communities," says Dr. Willis.

Anti-branch bank leaders fear that the larger banking units will play into the hands of Wall street, drain the local funds from local communities, and limit still further local development and expansion.

That conclusion does not necessarily follow, rejoins Dr. Willis.

"In showing the needs of local export trade, facilitating the movement of stable crops, drawing off surplus funds in the off season and encouraging funds in the active season of the year, the branch bank supplies an enormous support for the local community," says the doctor.

It was Controller Pole who recommended to Congress that branch banking be restricted to the Federal Reserve district lines, except in certain cases where a single economic area overlaps the borders of two or more districts.

But Dr. Willis does not believe the Federal Reserve system has any bearing one way or the other on the problem.

This aggressive editor of the New York Journal of Commerce thinks the United States ought to recognize the basic facts and provide legislation of a nature necessary to square the facts with the conditions. Every month's delay in grappling with this problem will make it harder.

Branch banking is as inevitable as tomorrow's sun.

Turn for Better in Industry Stimulates Buying

Standard of California Up to New 1930 High

Irregular Gains Recorded in Other Groups on Board

NEW YORK, March 13. Aided by sudden reports to speculative favor of the petroleum shares and short covering in anticipation of the lower rediscount rate announced after the close, quotations for the rise regained control of the price movement in today's stock market. Trading quieted down considerably, but was comparatively active, 3,853,580 shares changing hands.

The market was subjected to further selling pressure for a time, but eager bidding for the oil issues finally turned the tide. Prices in regularity persisted at the close, the majority of shares closed higher, regaining, on the average, one-half of yesterday's losses. The movement in the oil group, which reached impressive proportions yesterday, continued to gain momentum. Gains were by no means large, but nearly a score of issues were pushed to new 1930 high levels. The advance was aided by announcement of judicial progress in the California production curtailment plan, and further firming of gasoline prices.

RATE CUT CHEERS

The reduction in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate to 3½ per cent, with one exception to the lowest level since formation of the Federal Reserve system, had been widely forecast, and while viewed with great favor by stock market factors for the rise, was regarded as lacking an adequate element of surprise to be an important help to development. Nevertheless, the development was sufficiently favorable to cause the shorts to cover in expectation of it. There had been considerable clamoring for a further rediscount rate, in the hope it would provide a needed stimulus to business, as it largely failed to gain momentum the past few weeks, although March is the month in which the spring acceleration is expected.

The weekly Federal Reserve brokerage loan figure showed another startling gain, even in view of the large amount of redemptions which had to be paid for, having jumped $137,000,000, the largest gain since last September. Loans remain comparatively low, the gain was entirely provided by the New York banks, which, in addition, made a reduction of $31,000,000 in loans provided from nonbank sources.

OILS LEAD ACTIVITY

In the oil shares, Standard of California and New York Central gained 2 and 1¾ points to new 1930 high levels, while New Jersey equaled its previous maximum for the year at 66 1-4 with a gain of nearly 3 points. Most of the other leading independents rounded out the day high ground with gains of a point or two. United States Industrial Alcohol rallied more than 4 points in short covering on announcement that the alcohol price structure had been stabilized, but lost [illegible]

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP)—The strengthening bond market moved upward at a vigorous pace today, bringing the average for thirty issues to a new 1930 high, or within one-fifth of a point of the 1929 peak, attained in January of last year.

Demand for the rails was particularly aggressive and once again two-score bonds in that group made record levels for 1930 or considerably longer. The market's total turnover of slightly more than $16,000,000 was the year's largest.

Money was particularly easy. Another cut of an 8 per cent in bankers' acceptances was accompanied by a drop in time loan charges, the 30, 60 and 90-day maturities being quoted at 4 to 4¼ per cent and the longer dates at 4¼. Sat. A year ago, 7½ to 7¾ per cent rates prevailed.

The accumulation of funds here for the March 15 income tax payment resulted in an abundance of call funds, which dropped to 3½ per cent.

A score of rails rose a point or more. All the listed United States governments touched new highs. The Treasury 3½s advanced 11-16, but the improvement in the other obligations was smaller, averaging about ⅛ point.

One of the strongest rails was the Santa Fe general 4s, up 1¼ points on sales of about $168,000, principal amount, the largest turnover in some time. Other active issues included Central Pacific 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio "B" 4½s, Missouri-Pacific general 4s, Missouri, Kansas and Texas adjustment 5s and first 4s and New York Central debenture 4s and general 3½s, most of which rose at least a point.

Industrials, especially steel company bonds, pulled up another notch or two. The firmer issues included Chile Copper 5s, International Match 5s and Republic Iron and Steel 5½s.

Investment demand for utilities brought out several 1930 record prices. The American Telephone debenture 5s of 1965 scored a new top at 103¾. Columbia Gas and Electric 6s, Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s, and Utah Power 5s also reached maximums for the year.

German bonds led the foreign list, many State, municipal and corporation issues showing buoyancy. Numerous South American issues were active and sharply higher.

The prompt oversubscription on the $60,000,000 issue of Pennsylvania Railroad 40-year debenture 4½s reflected the current taste for high-grade securities and the new bonds, offered at 94½, sold up to 94¾, on the curb market.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars), and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

Brown Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds
Series B, 5½%, Due March 1, 1950

Price 95 and interest, Yielding 5.93%

The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%

An annual sinking fund will be provided for the retirement of Series B Bonds beginning on March 1, 1931, aggregating $2,500,000 or 50 per cent of Series B bonds by maturity.

The following information is taken from official sources:

Brown Company, founded in 1852, and since 1868 continuously controlled and operated by the Brown family, is the largest manufacturer in this country of bleached sulphite pulp. It is also a large manufacturer of Kraft, specialty papers, electrical conduit, a product known as Onco used in the shoe industry, and other special processed products manufactured from cellulose. The Company also does an extensive business in the manufacture of chemicals produced as by-products.

The properties of Brown Company, located at Berlin, Gorham and Shelburne, New Hampshire, include two paper mills, two sulphite pulp mills, a saw mill and hydro-electric power and steam plants having a total of 70,472 developed h.p. Through its wholly owned subsidiary, Brown Corporation, it owns and operates a sulphate mill of 300 tons daily capacity located at La Tuque, Quebec.

Timber holdings of the Company and its Canadian subsidiary cover 5,900 square miles, an area substantially larger than the State of Connecticut.

Total Net Income of Brown Company and of Brown Corporation before depreciation and depletion, but after Federal and Dominion Income Taxes, for the past three years, as officially reported, has averaged $4,054,223 annually or 3.05 times the annual interest charge of $1,328,828 on its presently to be outstanding Bonded Debt of $24,160,500, and for the year ending November 30, 1929 was $4,059,655 or 3.05 times such charge.

These Series B Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, equally with the Bonds of Series A ($19,160,500 of which are now outstanding) by a direct First Mortgage upon the fixed property of the Brown Company now owned or hereafter acquired located in the States of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, and will be further secured by pledge with the Trustee of all first mortgage bonds now to be issued by Brown Corporation, and by deposit under pledge with the Trustee of the entire $14,000,000 par value capital stock of Brown Corporation.

The combined fixed properties of the Brown Company and of Brown Corporation, were appraised as of March 1, 1926 by independent Engineers and Appraisers at an amount in excess of $73,000,000. Since then these Companies, in addition to large sums expended for liberal maintenance and replacement, have acquired additional property as defined in the Trust Deed securing these First Mortgage Bonds costing over $10,000,000. This indicates a property value in excess of three times the amount of all First Mortgage Bonds outstanding.

The Sinking Fund for East Bay Municipal Utility District Bonds contains cash and bonds of the District, at par, amounting to $656,302.05.

The East Bay Municipal Utility District, through the acquisition of the property of the East Bay Water Company, owns and operates the water system serving the nine contiguous cities on the east shore of San Francisco Bay. The District has developed a mountain water supply from the Mokelumne River Water Project in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The first unit, now in operation, provides a supply of 60,000,000 gallons daily, ample for the needs of a population of 650,000 after allowing for a substantial increase in per capita use of water. The full development of the Project will provide a water supply of approximately 200,000,000 gallons daily, sufficient to meet the needs of 1,750,000 people.

These bonds are the direct obligations of the District and, in the opinion of counsel, funds for the payment of the principal and interest thereof are made available through revenues from the water system owned by the District and an unlimited ad valorem tax on all the taxable property in the District.

This offering constitutes all of the remaining authorized and unsold bonds of the East Bay Municipal Utility District.

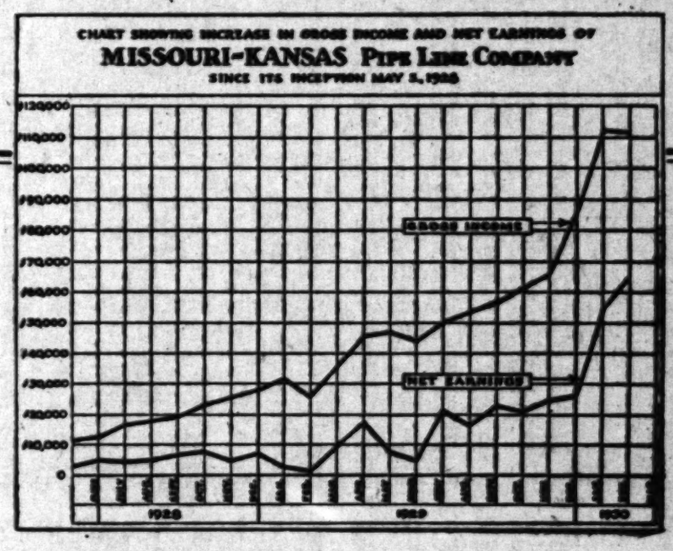
SINCE ITS INCEPTION MAY 5, 1928



Chicago, Illinois, March 10, 1930.

To the Stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company

In order that you may be informed as to the Company's financial position and past earnings, we are submitting a graph showing by months the gross income and net earnings from the Company's inception May 5, 1928, to February 28, 1930.

We wish to emphasize the fact that the earnings from the first month have been sufficient to more than cover all operating expenses. In view of the large expenses incurred in organizing a new company, and the many heavy non-recurring charges which have been met, we feel that this report is evidence of stability and sound management.

Gross income and net earnings have been rapidly increasing. Net earnings from operations and interest earned for the month ending February 28, 1930, were $65,789.25, which is equivalent to $1.33 annual earnings per share of stock on 593,095 shares outstanding.

The Company is in a strong cash position, and when this cash is invested in the business, greater returns from these funds can be expected.

Depreciation and depletion is charged annually, the rate being determined by Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Garner & McKee, Petroleum Engineers and Geologists of New York, the total amount for 1929 being $113,935.09. All property and equipment owned by the Company is carried on the books at cost, appreciation created by new wells drilled and negotiated contracts not being reflected in the balance sheet.

On March 1st the new 10" line connecting the Blue Springs field to the main pipe line system was completed, adding three million feet to the present daily deliveries. Accordingly, a further substantial increase in the earnings can be expected for the current month.

The Company has important plans for new projects and further expansion of its present system during the year 1930.

The Company owns very large natural gas reserves in Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Kentucky, which assures the Company's future position in the rapidly expanding natural gas industry.

The Company has paid a regular quarterly dividend of 2½% in stock, conserving its cash for future development.

With well organized executive and operating staff, thoroughly experienced engineering department, large natural gas reserves, and adequate capital, the Company is in a splendid position to become the outstanding leader in the natural gas industry.

FRANK P. PARISH,
President.

Arizonan Who Starved Leaves Small Fortune

PHOENIX, March 13. (AP)—Thomas Reynolds, 85-year-old Civil War veteran and pioneer Arizona mining man, died at his Phoenix home today in apparent poverty, but shortly after his death relatives found $20,000 in cash secreted in his one-room cottage.

In a will drawn less than a month ago, when Reynolds believed he was near death, he bequeathed $5 each to two nephews, Frank and Art Williams of Los Angeles, $50 to a brother, Henry S. Reynolds of "somewhere in the East," and the residue of his estate to his niece, Miss Annie Williams of Los Angeles. A Phoenix attorney was named as executor.

The man, according to a physician who saw him a few minutes before his death, died as the result of being undernourished. He lived alone.

AID IN CANCER BATTLE ASKED

Doctors Join in Appeal for Government Help

Senators Hear Testimony on Fight Against Disease

Coffey and Humber Among Those Making Plea

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Doctors high in their profession after lifelong efforts to stem the ravages of cancer today pooled their judgment on the disease and man's chance for ultimately conquering it, in testimony before Senators who hope to line up the Federal government with the combatants.

They expressed divergent views on causes and possible cures, but they urged unanimously that the government take steps immediately to assist in fighting the disease that yearly takes the lives of more than 100,000 Americans.

Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber of California told of relieving pain and of breaking down cancerous tissue in more than 1300 sufferers previously confidered hopeless. They said those afflicted with cancer had been chosen from hundreds who came "grasping at a straw" to a hospital in San Francisco with which they are associated; but they emphasized that they are working on a "theory" and that they claim "neither treatment nor cure."

HARRIS PUSHES MOVE

Senator Harris of Georgia, Democrat, who initiated a movement for Federal participation in search for a cure, said afterward he will continue inquiry into the matter, hearing other scientists within a few days. He is chairman of a subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee, which today heard the scientists.

Surgeon-General Cumming of the public health service, concurred in the opinion that the government should line up with private and institutional efforts against the disease.

The witnesses were unanimous also in pleading for a national institute of health with fellowships and other machinery for combatting all diseases and for a proposal for co-ordination of all public health activities of the government.

Senator Harris said the proposals for greater participation by the government in fights against all disease will be pressed, but that he will push independently a bill that will be drafted by the committee to provide immediate steps with respect to cancer.

TREATMENT EXPLAINED

Drs. Coffey and Humber described their discovery of an "active principle"—a "stabilizer" — which they sai dthey believed nature set up in the human body, particularly in two ductless glands above the kidneys, to regulate the growth of cells, the smallest unit of human tissue.

They made an extract of this material, Coffey said, and gave it to patients whose families understood that the work was experimental and that no cure was promised.

"After the first injection," Coffey added, "the patient, usually suffering great pain, has a relief. After the second and third, pain disappears. Also as a result of the injection of the extract there is the result that the malignant tissue begins to slough or to break down."

COMEDIES NEAR ON STREET LAW

Committee Will Urge Legislative Action

Codifying of Improvement Procedure Planned

Bond Issue Problems Discussed at Hearing

A joint legislative committee on improvement laws now conducting State-wide public hearings as a fact-finding body on the subject of improving the special assessment situation, will recommend to the forthcoming Legislature the repealing or repeal of all California improvement statutes and the enactment of as few such laws as may be found to cover the subject adequately.

This was indicated by Chairman Wilson Waldwing during the hearings of the committee, which completed its work here yesterday, will go to San Diego for a session next week.

Spokesmen for associations representing thousands of Los Angeles property owners appeared before the committee in an all-day meeting at the City Hall. Various complaints were voiced and remedial suggestions offered.

RETIREMENT URGED

There was unanimous agreement that the situation is much in need of improvement. Outstanding suggestions for improvement are:

Uniform method of notification before the improvement procedure. A limitation of expenditure. Notification of actual improvement cost. A limitation of cost of projects and the approval by the community in advance of costs exceeding such estimates. The payment by the city of a major part of the costs in the case of major projects. The refunding of all existing street improvement bonds and the enactment of as few laws as possible to supplant them. A revolving city fund to handle street improvement bonds. A postal-ballot system for indicating approval or disapproval in proposed projects. The payment of bonus payments in settlement for outstanding bonds. The abolition or reduction of bond-interest penalties.

Commenting City Attorney Werdin and Assistant City Attorney Neal issued a statement which says:

"We consider that for the past several years in the city of Los Angeles special assessments have been averaging approximately 6 per cent, and when we consider the fact that there are outstanding in the district of 300,000 separate issues of bonds chargeable against individual parcels of land in amounts in amounts ranging from $1 to $40,000, we begin to realize the amount of work which has been done, and the number of persons and the amount of property affected in any remedial legislation recommended by your committee to the State Legislature at its next session."

PROGRAM SUGGESTED

The City Attorney's program for special assessment improvement includes the following suggestions, in accordance with or variations of those offered by the other representatives:

That the ordinances of intention be so framed so that the property owners may know what work is proposed and be enabled to make an intelligent protest to the body conducting the proceedings. That the notice of street work named in the line of the assessment and in the assessment district set forth a diagram of the proposed assessment district. That from the present detailed legislation. That the legislature set the protest hearing be changed to change the work or modify the assessment to conform to the desires of the property owners as represented by their protests. That after the filing of the assessment roll be submitted to the property owners stating the amount and giving notice of the time for hearing of appeals relating to the same before the City Council. That the City Council be given authority to extend the term of bonds issued for improvements, other than the acquisition of lands, to a period of not to exceed fifteen years, in place of the present ten-year term.

CONSOLIDATE STATUTES

That provision be made for the consolidation of bonds issued for the acquisition of lands for public street purposes, extended for a period of not to exceed forty years, at the discretion of the City Council, and that such bonds be issued automatically without requiring the property owners to make special application therefor. That certain statutes providing for the same be repealed.

ACTRESS TO GET FINAL TRIBUTES

Maude Leone

FUNERAL OF MISS LEONE TO BE TODAY

Willard Mack's ex-Wife Will be Laid to Last Rest in Angelus Abbey

The body of Maude Leone, actress and first wife of the much-married Charles Willard McLaughlin, famed as a playwright and actor under the name of Willard Mack, will be laid to rest today in Angelus Abbey, Compton. A Christian Science rite will be conducted at 11 a.m. in the J. J. Mottell Mortuary, Long Beach, preceding the burial.

Miss Leone died in General Hospital early Wednesday morning of pneumonia, after admission nine days previous to the psychopathic ward. She had been living at 126 Daisy avenue, Long Beach, with her mother, Mrs. Ella Leone, and brother Harry. C. C. Pike of Glendale, an uncle, is the nearest other relative. The actress was 44 years of age.

One year ago Miss Leone appeared for the last time in the prints when the story was told of her admission to the State Hospital at Norwalk for mental treatment. She was declared to be suffering from delusions about attorneys and persecution. A few months before she was loser in a $100,000 damage suit against the Los Angeles Railway for injuries asserted to have been caused by the sudden stopping of a bus on which she was a passenger.

Five years ago she attempted a "comeback" in a production by Marjorie Rambeau, who also had been one of Mack's wives, but she was not successful. Once she and Miss Rambeau had played together. She is said also to have co-starred with Madge Kennedy. Her stage career began at the age of 9 years. She divorced Mack twenty years ago. She was 15 when they were married.

Mrs. McCan to Go Home Soon

Mrs. Martha Nelson McCan, prominent club woman and civic worker who has been at the Good Samaritan Hospital for the past ten days, was reported as being much better yesterday and attendants said it is hoped she will be able to go home shortly.

Mrs. McCan is past president of the Friday Morning Club and former chairman of the Playground Commission, besides being prominent in many other organizations.

GAS WASTAGE FIGURES GIVEN

Testimony of Experts Heard in Injunction Action

Hearing Follows Upholding of Conservation Law

Attorneys Offer Suggestions on Plan of Procedure

A maximum of 9000 and a minimum of 3000 cubic feet of natural gas blown with each barrel of petroleum produced would constitute a fair gas-oil ratio for the Clarke zone of the Santa Fe Springs field, according to R. E. Allen, oil engineer, who testified late yesterday at the hearing of the petition of the State for an injunction to restrain operators in the Santa Fe Springs field from wasting an unreasonable amount of natural gas in the production of their oil.

The taking of testimony as to the amount of natural gas produced, marketed and blown as waste in the field was begun yesterday after Superior Judge Hazlett, on the preceding day, had declared the new Gas and Oil Conservation Act, the law under which the proceedings are being held, valid and constitutional.

STATE'S WITNESSES

Practically the entire morning was taken up with figures from officials of oil companies and absorption plants in the field showing just how much natural gas was produced, how much was marketed and how must was wasted in the field during the year 1929 and up to February 1, last. The witnesses who produced these reports for the State's side of the case were T. E. Huff, auditor of the Standard Gasoline Company; J. C. Rector, Union Oil Company, and R. C. Wheeler of the General Petroleum Corporation.

The fore part of the afternoon session was taken up with statements of numerous attorneys representing defendant oil companies, relative to how the problem before the court should be approached. That is, what sort of testimony should be offered in order to get at the desired data in as short a time as possible.

ATTORNEYS' SUGGESTIONS

Some of the attorneys present were of the opinion that the problem should be approached with testimony tending to show the marketable value of petroleum and then meet the market. That is, any natural gas produced over the amount necessary to produce the oil for the market would constitute a waste.

Others, however, objected to this manner of approach on the grounds that there is a danger of construing the act as one curtailing the production of oil instead of an act to stop wastage of natural gas, which construction higher courts would hold unconstitutional, they said.

James S. Bennett, attorney prosecuting the case for the State, declared that construing the act so as to curtail oil production might be a basis for a temporary injunction to stop wastage of gas, but it certainly should not be so construed in the matter of a permanent injunction.

More experts will follow Engineer Allen today, to present to the court their ideas relative to the varying conditions in the Santa Fe Springs field, and the kind of a gas-oil ratio that should be established in the field.

PLANT GUILD GROUP WILL GREET VISITOR

Members of the Los Angeles branch of the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will meet at luncheon on Tuesday noon at the City Club, 833 South Spring street, to greet Mrs. George E. Hill of New York City, special representative of the guild, who arrives here tomorrow for a ten-day visit. Mrs. Hill has just returned from an extended trip to Europe, during which she made a study of foreign gardens. She will show slides of a number of these gardens and tell local members of their outstanding features.

REILLY WILL HANG TODAY

Gov. Young and Fitts Argue Over Slayer's Case But Dispute Fails to Affect His Status

A flurry of words between Gov. Young and Dist.-Atty. Fitts on the mental status and crime of Alphonse Reilly, 22-year-old condemned murderer, yesterday failed to bring the youth nearer a reprieve or commutation of sentence and he is scheduled to be hanged today at San Quentin penitentiary.

The dispute between the officials arose when Fitts declared Gov. Young misquoted a letter from the District Attorney's office in reference to the Reilly case when the Governor announced Fitts as saying: "I beg to advise you that the record itself discloses that this man was guilty of a well-planned, deliberate, premeditated and cold-blooded murder. Our office is of the opinion that the sentence originally imposed upon Reilly should in no way be modified." Reilly was convicted of killing Abraham Sandelman in a shoe-store robbery.

STATEMENT BY FITTS

"It is difficult for me to believe," Fitts wrote to Gov. Young, "that the Chief Executive of California would deliberately misquote a statement in a matter of the extreme importance of this case. Under date of March 1st, Mr. McKay of this office, long before the question of the defendant's insanity was raised, or suggested, sent to you a letter regarding this matter. In your quotation released to the press, you have taken a sentence contained in Mr. McKay's letter and cut it in half, using only that part of the sentence which tends to sustain your public position, and abandoning the remainder. Subsequent to that date, and for the first time in this case, the question of the defendants mental condition at the time of the commission of the crime was presented to this office."

Shortly before entraining for Sacramento last night Gov. Young issued a statement in which he extensively quoted from the letter from the District Attorney's office in which the phrase was used in the sense that Gov. Young originally referred to it in a statement.

YOUNG'S ANSWER

"My responsibilities," Gov. Young said, "as Governor in dealing with the lives and liberties of condemned men are far too sacred to permit me to cheapen them by controversies with the District Attorney or anyone else.

"Since the question had arisen of the taint of insanity in Reilly's family I wrote to Mr. Fitts on the 8th inst.," the Governor said, "directing his attention to this new issue. It was Mr. Fitts's legal duty to make his recommendation for or against the application for commutation, together with his reason for such recommendation. Mr. Fitts wrote me on the 11th inst. and again today. In neither of the letters does he suggest or recommend

FRANK H. MELLUS TO WED SOON

Local School-Teacher Will be Bride

Miss Vera Bayard and Mr. Mellus

A YEAR'S romance was climaxed last night with the announcement of the engagement of Frank H. Mellus, Los Angeles sportsman and widower of Myrtle Mellus, for whose death nearly two years ago Leo Kelley is serving a prison sentence, and Miss Vera Bayard, local school-teacher of 1132 Browning Boulevard.

The couple will be married on the 22nd inst., either in Santa Ana or Riverside. They plan a three-weeks honeymoon trip by automobile to Vancouver.

On their return to Los Angeles they will reside in their new home at the northwest corner of Country Club Drive and Wilton Place.

Miss Bayard is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Bayard and will resign her position at the Trinity-street school today.

Although Mellus resided next door to the Bayard family in Glendale fifteen years ago, it was not until a year ago that he met Miss Bayard again at the home of mutual friends.

They have plans for a quiet wedding with only one or two intimate friends in attendance. A reception will be held for them en route to Vancouver by sportsmen friends of Mellus's in Sacramento.

Mellus is head of Mellus Brothers & Co., tent manufacturers here. He resides at the Jonathan Club.

COSTLY NEW THEATER TO BE ERECTED

Structure to be Built at Wilshire Boulevard and Western Avenue

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., has taken a long-term lease on a theater to be built for the corporation at a cost of more than $1,000,000 at the southeast corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Western avenue, it was announced yesterday by the Henry De Roulet Company, which handled the deal. The theater and commercial building will be erected by the Serrano Corporation, owners of the land.

The theater and first unit of the commercial structure will be two stories in height, with a frontage of 174 feet on Wilshire Boulevard and 220 on Western avenue. The theater entrance will be diagonally across the corner, facing what is said to be the world's heaviest traffic intersection.

Morgan, Walls & Clements and G. Albert Lansburgh will be associated architects and are to plan a Class A structure. The theater will have approximately 2500 seats and will be equipped with the latest projection and sound devices.

"The new theater will be the home of Warner Brothers and First National feature photoplays, and their Vitaphone Varieties," said J. L. Warner, vice-president. "Wilshire and Western is an outstanding theater location."

De Roulet said the commercial part of the building will feature large shops, second-floor space to be leased in conjunction with ground-floor shops, each with private elevator and staircase. The leasing of shops will be handled by Elmer H. Tyner, manager of the Henry De Roulet Company.

Fire Battalion Chief Approved

Capt. Victor E. Pierret, who topped the civil service eligible list for the new position of battalion chief in charge of the fire-prevention bureau, yesterday was approved by the Fire Commission for the appointment. He is credited with having much to do with the creation of the bureau and has been fifteen years in the department.

The commission set next Thursday as the time for hearing the appeal of Fireman Lathean E. Johnson against his dismissal on the 6th inst., on the ground that he had failed to pay debts incurred for necessities.

MARY NOLAN IN ROW WITH STUDIO HEADS

A clash between Mary Nolan, actress, and executives of the Universal Pictures Corporation over her removal from the cast of a picture now in production reached a crisis yesterday when she announced she will file suit to break her contract and for damages. She said her attorney, W. I. Gilbert, has been instructed to file the action.

Charges made by Miss Nolan that she is a victim of unfair treatment at the hands of a director, which led to a refusal on the part of executives to permit her to resume her work although she appeared on the set and announced herself as ready, were answered by Carl Laemmle, Jr., chief of production at the studio, with an emphatic denial.

Laemmle attributed the trouble to Miss Nolan's temperament and not to any actions on the part of an employee.

"Her charges are ridiculous," he said last night. "We have lived up to every clause in Miss Nolan's contract. By the terms of her contract with us we reserve the right to remove her from a cast at any time we see fit to do so. We were merely exercising that right.

"It's merely a matter of too much temperament. We have taken only thirty scenes in nine days on the picture."

It was announced Pauline Starke had been signed to replace Miss Nolan.

The latter charged last night the action of Universal executives in removing her from the cast and from refusing to permit her to return to work when she presented herself in readiness yesterday morning at 9 a.m. is tantamount to a breach of contract.

"I consider my contract as broken as a result of their refusal to allow me to return to work yesterday morning and I'll never set foot on the lot again even if I have to

SIX ON TRIP SUDDENLY BECOME ILL

Motorists Overcome After Luncheon at Country Club in Ojai Valley

Stricken suddenly as they were motoring in the Ojai Valley five prominent Toledoans and one man of the Ojai are ill in the Hollywood Hospital suffering from what physicians said is poisoning.

They are Mr. and Mrs. William Walbridges, Miss Sally Libbey, Mrs. Charles S. Ashley and Mrs. May King, all of Toledo, and Leonard Ten Eyck of the Ojai. Walbridges is a retired glass manufacturer of Toledo. Miss Libbey is Mrs. Walbridge's sister. They are sisters of the late Edward Libbey, known as the Toledo glass king who founded the Ojai Country Club. Ten Eyck is a wealthy resident in the Ojai.

The Walbridges have a winter home at Coronado and Miss Libbey is their guest. Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. King were wintering at Coronado. On Wednesday they motored to the Ojai and had luncheon with a party of five others at a country club.

Later in the afternoon the six were stricken and hastened to get relief in Los Angeles. They received preliminary aid at Thousand Oaks and then hurried on to Hollywood Hospital where they arrived about 9 p.m.

Drs. John C. Irwin and Hugo M. Kersten are treating the patients. Dr. Irwin said he believes they will be able to leave the hospital today.

Manager Louis Kessing of the club said that on hearing of the illness of the party he sent samples of all the food from which the party had been served to a Los Angeles laboratory for examination. He said none of the other five members of the party had suffered ill effects. He did not disclose the identities of the other persons. He said that the Walbridges party left the club and went to the home of a wealthy Ojai member of the luncheon party but he did not disclose this person's name.

KING VIDOR SQUARES UP HIS TAX BILL

Deficiency Sum for 1925, Penalty and Fine Paid; Sedgwick Also Settles

King Vidor, motion-picture actor and director, yesterday settled his income-tax accounts with the government. He pleaded guilty in United States District Judge James's court to one count of an information charging failure to pay the full amount of his income tax for 1925.

King Vidor

It was stated by U. S. Atty. McNabb that Vidor voluntarily aided the government in the recent prosecution of J. Marjorie Berger, income-tax adviser. It also was said that Vidor paid $6651.26 in deficiency tax and a penalty of $3325.63. He was also fined $400, which he paid.

Edward Sedgwick, Jr., a motion-picture director, also pleaded guilty of failure to pay the proper amount of his tax. He was fined $250 and paid $2100 deficiency tax and a penalty of $1050 for 1925.

TWO IN EXPOSE 'PLOT' INDICTED

Reporter and ex-Lewis Aide Charged With Extortion

Arraignment Set for Today Before Judge Wood

Lavine and Miss Johnson Furnish Bail

A joint indictment charging Morris Lavine, newspaper reporter, and Miss Leontine Johnson with extortion was returned in open court yesterday by the grand jury.

The true bill, which was voted a short time after the jury convened, asserts that Lavine and Miss Johnson committed the felony when the former accepted $75,000 from Charles Crawford, politician, after threats had been made to "expose certain secrets" affecting Crawford, Abraham Morris, former stock broker; Kent Parrot, attorney; Jacob Friedlander, former State Corporation Commissioner, and others.

Conviction on the charges is punishable by a sentence in the prison at San Quentin for a term not exceeding five years.

BAIL POSTED

Lavine and the woman, who is a former confidential secretary of S. C. Lewis, appeared before Superior Judge Wood, who received the indictment, and posted bail in the sum of $10,000. This amount was set by the grand jury. The accused pair will be arraigned before Judge Wood at 10 a.m. today.

Efforts of Lavine to produce additional testimony during the investigation was blocked by the rapidity with which the grand jury voted the indictment. He appeared at the jury room with his proposal, only to be informed that the inquiry was closed and the true bill ready for formal filing with the court.

Lavine did not detail the nature of the evidence he desired to produce, but intimated that it concerned documents and papers found in two grips seized by the authorities Monday afternoon when Miss Johnson was arrested.

DOCUMENTS CHECKED

The documents, which are being checked by investigators from the District Attorney's office, are reported to contain confidential information on the manipulations of the stock issues and sales of the defunct Julian Petroleum Corporation.

An informal study of the documents was made yesterday by members of the grand jury, it was learned. Some of them glanced at the pile of letters, stock certificates, and other papers said to be from the files of Lewis, ex-head of the oil corporation, after they were brought into the room.

It was reported that the jury may attempt a formal investigation at a lated date of the information set out in the documents in order to reveal any acts that may constitute a criminal offense. The full agenda of the jury precluded such action yesterday, it was announced.

BASIS OF CHARGES

The indictment against Lavine and Miss Johnson is based on an asserted scheme to collect $300,000 from the four men mentioned and a large group of other business and professional men. The money was demanded under an asserted threat of an expose planned by the pair in a series of articles dealing with the "inside" of the Julian failure, which were to appear in a morning newspaper. (Not The Times.)

Lavine, who is asserted by District Attorney's investigators to have concocted the scheme with the woman, was arrested Monday afternoon as he left the office of Crawford. In his inside coat pocket the officers found $75,000 in $1000 bills. The currency, all new, was in two packages wrapped in newspaper. One contained $50,000 and the other $25,000.

The grand jury true bill charges that the $75,000 accepted by Lavine was the property of Crawford, Morris, Parrot and Friedlander, and that it was obtained through threats.

WITNESSES HEARD

Witnesses, heard by the jury and named in the indictment are Crawford, who assertedly gave Lavine

OLYMPIC PROBLEM CLEARS

Bowen's Proposal of Temporary Pool for 1932 Games Tentatively Agreed to by Committee

A definite step toward obtaining a suitable pool in Exposition Park for holding the swimming events of the Tenth Olympiad to be held in Los Angeles in 1932 was taken yesterday when William M. Bowen, president of the Sixth District Agricultural Board, appeared before he Playground and Recreation Commission with a proposition for a temporary fifty-meter pool for the games only.

On motion of Commissioner Haight, seconded by Commissioner Lamport, the commission appointed President Robert Weaver a committee of one to confer with Bowen on a resolution. The resolution is to be passed on by the Playground and Recreation Commission and then handed to the City Council for action.

The proposition of Bowen, who was accompanied by Zack Farmer of the Olympic Games Committee, is that the Sixth District Agricultural Board will be allowed to arrange for the removal of the isolated grand stand in Exposition Park, after the Olympic Games are over, that the ground in front, where the temporary pool would be erected, will be restored to its original condition by the Olympic Games Committee, in order that a building for the State Motor Vehicle Department may be erected thereon.

The Playground and Recreation Commission tentatively agreed to the plan with the proviso that the grand stand shall be turned over for removal and erection on the Silver Lake Playground tennis courts, after the Olympic Games. Bowen signified that this would be satisfactory to the Sixth Sixth District Agricultural Board, which, with the city and county, controls Exposition Park. This would give Silver Lake one of the finest tennis grand stands in the West, with a seating capacity of more than 8000.

The city has a fifty-year lease on the area in question and for this reason the approval of the playground department and the City Council is necessary for the agreement to allow construction of a temporary pool by the Olympic Games Committee. The plan also will have to be approved by the County Supervisors.

MATTER MUST BE SETTLED

Farmer explained to the commission that it is absolutely necessary that the matter of a pool for the games be settled very shortly, or Los Angeles stands a chance of losing the 1932 Olympics. He and William M. Garland, he said, will be required to inform the Tenth Olympiad Congress, which meets in Berlin, Germany, in May, of the actual preparations Los Angeles has made for holding the Olympics here.

He explained that the congress

THE fact that most of them are my intimate friends does not restrain me from saying that the movie stars and producers who have tried to prevent the hanging of one Alphonse Reilly ought to be ashamed of themselves.

This miserable wretch deserves no consideration whatever. He had had excellent opportunities and turned to crime and murder from perversity.

The Navy offers all kinds of chances to boys in the way of learning trades and getting an education; seeing the world. They are treated well; clothed and cared for. He deserted.

In civil life he had a good job and a considerate employer. He left his job for the deliberate purpose of banditry and murder.

It is fortunate that Gov. Young had the courage to turn down all the avalanche of sloppy melodrama from the movie studios.

SAVE THE SEWAGE!

The idea that a boy should be saved from the gallows because he comes from a family tainted with insanity is a weird doctrine. Sociologists have discovered that most of the crime in the State of Indiana (where the experiments were made) came from the spawn of 150 rotten families. The idea of my movie friends is that the Reillys of this world should be turned loose with sentimental tears to carry on the evil blood.

A RED HAND

The hand of Russia is in the revolt of Gandhi; that's a cinch.

These Gandhi revolts follow too closely upon the steps of the diplomatic fracas between Downing street and the soviets.

The hand of Russia was also in the career of the Ameer of Afghanistan; but Downing street outmaneuvered the Reds in that and His Highness lost his job for his effrontery.

For a century Russia and the British Empire have been glowering at each other through the window of the Khyber Pass. One day it will come to a war that will involve all Western Europe. With a very fine chance of Western Europe coming out at the little end of the horn.

Senorita Julia Salazar Loria, beauty prize winner from Costa Rica, has staggered the eager world by refusing to appear in the Miami beauty pageant in bathing trunks. She says that bathing trunks are to bathe in, but she has not made it plain what beauty pageants are for. Until now it has seemed they were mostly intended for pulchritudinous young ladies to wear bathing trunks in.

NATURE'S BALANCE

The insensate and stupid slaughter of snakes and coyotes has resulted in a havoc-raising epidemic of ground squirrels in some parts of the State. Nature can manage her own affairs. The balance of animal life is perfectly self-adjusted. Bounties for the destruction of wild animals always results eventually in disaster. In the West Indies are whole islands laid waste as a result of the bright inspiration to import mongoose to kill snakes. If you could trace back the Mediterranean fruit fly you would find the blame is at the door of the bird killers. Man is almost the only brute low enough to kill for the mere pleasure of seeing things die.

COUPLE ROBBED IN THEIR HOME

Four "Federal Officers" Get $3000 from Trunk

Husband Then Taken in Auto and Later Ejected

San Gabriel Citizen Vague on Where Men Took Him

Sheriff's office investigators yesterday conducted an inquiry into the story of Gorgonio Medrano, 404 El Monte street, San Gabriel, to the effect that four unidentified men posing as Federal officers entered his home last Wednesday night and after robbing him and his wife of $3000, mostly in gold, took him from his home in an automobile, hit him on the head and kicked him from the moving car.

Medrano told officers he and his wife were awakened about 9:30 p.m. by the four men who stated they were Federal officers in search of guns, liquor and marihuana and demanded entrance to the house. On being admitted to the house they conducted a thorough search, shaking cans, opening trunks and moving furniture and fixtures, he said. One trunk being locked, they compelled Mrs. Medrano to open it and took from it $3000 in money, $2750 of which was in gold pieces, Medrano said.

Medrano and his wife further related that the money and two guns found by the men in the house were placed in a gunny sack and Medrano ordered to carry the sack out to the car and go with the men. Medrano stated that after he had been in the car for some time he was hit over the head with a gun and kicked from the car while it was in motion. He returned home at 5 a.m. yesterday, he said, but was unable to tell the officers where he was ejected from the car or how far he walked to get home.

The story was obtained by Deputy Sheriffs Thompson and Gaff of the Temple substation through an interpreter, neither of the victims being able to speak English.

Couple Married for Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fernoltz, residents of Los Angeles for nearly a quarter-century, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next Sunday with a reception in their home at 949 South Gramercy Place. The affair will be attended by more than 150 guests, many of whom are coming here from Chicago and St. Louis.

The couple were born in Germany both in 1856, and married there March 16, 1880. They came to the United States in 1882, settling in St. Louis, where Mr. Fernholtz established the Fernholtz Machinery Manufacturing Company. In 1906 they arrived in Los Angeles, the husband launching a branch of his business here.

Four children and four grandchildren will be among the guests. The children are Mrs. Raymond Lowe, E. G. Fernholtz, Jr., C. Walter Fernholtz and Gene Fernholtz.

HOTEL GUESTS WILL MAKE WHOOPEE

"Huntington Hilarities" on in Pasadena Tonight

Beauties as Bell Hops

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 13.—Bankers costumed as kings and soldiers, and a bevy of society beauties dressed as bell hops will feature the Third Annual "Huntington Hilarities" tomorrow night in the Hotel Huntington ballroom.

The program will be given exclusively by the hotel guests, who will appear in unique costumes, the success of which will be judged by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, who are expected to be guests of A. J. Seligman of New York City.

George M. Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, is keeping the nature of the costume he will wear as a deep, dark secret.

A chorus of eight girl guests has been practicing diligently a varied assortment of dances for the occasion. The girls ordered regulation chorine costumes, but found them to small to contain all their pulchritude, so adopted bell hop coats and trousers.

The "Hopping Bell Boys," are: Priscilla Stevens of New York City, Virginia Willock of Sewickley, Pa.; Martha Robinson of Minneapolis, Minn.; Irene Victor of Evanston, Ill.; Esther Carrott of Greenwich, Ct.; Mrs. John C. Riddell of New York City, and Ruth Welsh and Dorothy Williams, both of this city.

Curly-Haired Baby Girl Not Yet Claimed

She's too young to tell who she is or where she lives—she's only about 3 years of age—and so far nobody has reported a missing child answering her description; therefore, she remains in official care—a pretty little lost girl with wistful brown eyes and lovely brown curls.

Traffic Officer C. G. Hamilton noticed the child about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday while directing traffic at Seventh and Los Angeles streets. At first he thought a rather careless mother had left the child at the curb while she entered a store, but when time passed and the bewildered baby continued to loiter about the corner he picked her up in his arms and turned her over to Policewoman Proffitt of the Juvenile Bureau.

The little miss's raiment consists of a black and blue checked gingham dress and bloomers to match.

HARD OF HEARING TO MEET

Cries of "Louder, please," will not interrupt the speaker tomorrow night at the clubhouse of the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, 2026 West Ninth street. The speaker announced is Earnest Elmo Calkins of New York, head of a national advertising agency and author of "Louder, Please." Mrs. Mary Rogers Miller, president, will introduce the speaker as a friend of the hard of hearing.

Victim of Crash Sues Air Line

Harry See, passenger in an Alameda-bound airplane that fell 500 feet September 20, 1929, yesterday sued the Continental Air Express for $10,270 for injuries suffered in the crash.

See, who is an agent for an organization of railroad men, says his nervous system was permanently injured.

that I grant a reprieve or commute the sentence, nor does he retract his former attitude that Reilly's crime was a well-planned, deliberate, premeditated and cold-blooded murder.

"The final responsibility, however, rests with me alone. I have given every phase of the matter, including the question of Reilly's sanity, my personal and exhaustive care. The case is too clear to admit of mistake."

Gov. Young has been implored by hundreds of letters and telegrams to intercede.

YOUTH IN DEATH CELL AWAITING HIS FATE

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, March 13. (AP)—Resigned to his fate, Alphonse Reilly, 22 years of age, was in the death cell here today awaiting the march to the gallows expected to begin shortly before 10 a.m. tomorrow. He was removed to the death cell from condemned row at lock-up time last evening.

The youth, sentenced to hang for the killing of a Los Angeles shoe clerk, took the news calmly when told by Warden Molohan that Gov. Young had refused commutation or reprieve. His last hope had been that efforts to prove him the victim of hereditary insanity would gain a stay of execution. Alienists failed to find any evidence of insanity.

Inquiry in Girl's Death Unfinished

Investigation into the death of Zoe Miles, 21-year-old stenographer, of 731 North St. Andrews Place, will require a few more days, it was announced yesterday by the Coroner's office. A chemical analysis is being made.

The girl died Tuesday night in the Dickey & Cass Emergency Hospital, presumably after swallowing poison. An autopsy failed to reveal the cause of death, and no poison was found in her apartment.

CURB URGED ON DRUNKEN MOTORISTS

Fire Commission Will Ask Law Denying Use of Cars to Inebriates

In an effort to do all it can to curb operation of motor vehicles by intoxicated drivers, the Fire Commission yesterday directed Secretary McKeag to request the City Council to pass legislation making it a misdemeanor to sell gasoline, make running repairs or deliver a machine to persons under the influence of liquor or narcotics.

The action was taken on motion of Commissioner Laws after an opinion had been received from Deputy City Attorney Kitzmiller that such legislation would be legal and that the commission would not be responsible for any action growing out of the retention of cars of intoxicated persons by garages or parking stations.

Commissioner Laws reported he had conferred with President Thorpe of the Police Commission on the matter and was informed that the Police Commission is in favor of such action.

Under the charter permits for operation of service stations, garages or parking stations may be revoked by the Fire Commission for unlawful conduct of such places. Should the Council pass the requested measures, it is contended, the commission then could revoke permits for its violation.

The program also states:

"Due to the practice of certain persons, commonly known as 'lien sharks,' obtaining cash assessments on assignment from the contractor and thereafter bringing foreclosure actions in the Superior Court against the property and running cost of redemption of a $5 assessment up to $50 or $75, the City Attorney is of the opinion that the municipalities should be given authority to take over all cash assessments prior to delinquency and thus prevent such assessments from falling into the hands of such 'lien sharks.' The city would be amply protected by such procedure in that the statute provides for interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month on such delinquent assessments."

The program also advocates a reduction of the bonus for paying off bonds, from six months to three months.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

Attorney Marshall Stimson detailed remedial suggestions pertaining to the protection of property owners in connection with the levying of special assessments.

County Assessor Hopkins gave instances of large increases in tax rates on properties due entirely to a multiplicity of special tax assessments. He advocates the bettering of the situation by a cessation of public work except the conservation of water and actions pertaining to the public health. He said the situation was serious enough to warrant a special session of the Legislature to alleviate it.

Other speakers were: Clarence W. Horn, president of the Apartment-House Association; Hugh Pomeroy, representing the Los Angeles City Planning Association and several other organizations; S. Sklar, Frank Brooks, representing the California Real Estate Association and the Los Angeles Realty Board; Manager Williamson of the civic development and real-estate department, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; B. H. Rooker, Central Improvement Association, Boyle Heights; C. N. Kempton, Hollenbeck Heights Improvement Association; W. L. Rosenthal, Mt. Washington Improvement Association; H. W. Derry, Solano-avenue District Improvement Association; Mary Wirth, Joseph Messmer, Walter Danburg, George W. Scott, Councilman Barnes, Mrs. Hill, L. A. Williff, Minnie Ross and others.

The members of the joint legislative committee are: Clare Woolwine, Los Angeles, chairman; Assemblyman Lyons, Los Angeles, secretary; Senators Weller, Glendale; Lyon, Los Angeles; Murphy, San Francisco, and Assemblymen Little, Santa Monica, and Arnold, Los Angeles.

DIPLOMATIC ISSUE CREATED

Japanese Embassy in Washington Asked to Compel Tanker to Submit to Plant Inspection

Refusal of the Japanese navy tanker Erimo to submit to plant quarantine inspection on arrival at San Pedro yesterday prompted a message to Washington asking that the Japanese Embassy advise the tanker to comply.

The message was sent by A. C. Fleury, supervisor of plant quarantine for California, who was here from Sacramento.

"I believe the infraction is due to the tanker captain's lack of familiarity with our inspection, which is Federal as well as State, rather than due to any malicious evasion," Fleury said.

"The incident was aggravated, however, by the apprehension of several forbidden horticultural products and dwarf pines which the Coast Guard seized from a small boat just leaving the Ondo, another Japanese navy tanker. The Ondo already had been inspected and its officers had been intrusted to keep the forbidden products aboard ship.

"It was just such an insignificant shipment from Europe a few years ago which introduced the white pine blister rust, now raising havoc throughout Oregon."

JURY TO HEAR MURDER STORY

Mrs. Minser to Repeat Tale of Mucich Slaying

Investigators Will Get Her Testimony Tuesday

Woman's Statement Causes Suspect's Arrest

Mrs. Addie Minser, whose story caused the arrest of Philip Stickels as a suspect in the murder of Mike Mucich who was "taken for a ride" eight years ago, appeared at the county grand jury rooms yesterday afternoon prepared to repeat her story. The case was continued, however, until the grand jury meets again next Tuesday afternoon.

MRS. ADDIE MINSER.

The Mucich murder case has lain in the files of the police department for eight years defying the efforts of police to solve it. The police records show that the man's body was found on August 6, 1921, 200 feet east of the Ninth-street bridge. Two bullet holes in the man's head caused death, according to the Coroner's report.

Stickels and another man named Charles P. Stevens, a former police officer, were questioned by investigators at the time of the shooting but obtained their release.

Recently, however, the case was revived when Mrs. Minser is asserted to have made remarks that she witnessed the shooting. According to Detective Lieutenant Paul Stevens and Ed King of the District Attorney's office, Mrs. Minser told them that she was riding in the car with the three men at the time Mucich was shot and thrown into the street.

After being questioned last night the woman was released from custody with the understanding that she will reappear before the grand jury or in court whenever her presence is needed.

TAXI LINES LEGAL FIGHT UP IN COURT

Argument on Demurrers to be Heard Today Before Judge Westover

Argumeno on five demurrers to the petition filed by the General Cab Company, against the Yellow and Checker Cab Company, in which the plaintiff asked an injunction and $400,000 damages for what is termed unfair competition, will be heard in Superior Judge Westover's court today.

The defendants, included with whom are George Settle, George Worster, S. C. Kendrick and William Cleaves, through their attorney, McIntyre Faries, contend that the petition is defective and does not state a proper cause of action. No answer to the plea has yet been filed.

In the original complaint, the General Cab Company, which operates Red Top Cabs, claimed the Yellow company tried to "run the plaintiff out of business" because the Red Top cabs charge lower rates.

OLYMPIC POOL KNOT LOOSENED

has ruled that the swimming events must be held in the same park in which the stadium or coliseum is located. He declared the swimming events are considered among the most important of contests, but that arrangements had been completed for all except the swimming contests.

For years the playground department and other organizations have been seeking to have a pool established in front of the handsome, but idle, grand stand in the park, but without success, due to the opposition of the Sixth District Agricultural Board, which opposed a pool and sough to have a hothouse or some structure of the kind placed on he area sought for the pool.

Consequently the commission was agreeably surprised yesterday when Bowen agreed to at least a temporary pool. He explained that the object of placing a State structure on the site, after the games are over, is to locate it where individuals or concerns could not start rival motor-vehicle registration offices as under present conditions.

Mayor Frowns on Port Refuse Contract Plan

Mayor Porter yesterday returned to the City Council without his approval a resolution offered by Councilman Henning last week authorizing the Board of Public Works to enter into an emergency contract with the San Pedro Commercial Company for the disposal of garbage and rubbish in the harbor district.

The Mayor quoted a section of the charter, declaring that the organic law does not contemplate the granting of emergency contracts for five-year terms. He added, in his message, that if the Council feels under a moral obligation to continue the service of the company, it can be done by exercising an option contained in the original contract. The Council referred the matter to the Health and Sanitation Committee.

LIGHT MAP REFERRED

ORATORS MEET AT LOYOLA HIGH

Private Schools Busy With Contest Preliminaries

Belmont Has Reduced Its Contestants to Four

Seventy-five Answer Call at Inglewood

The Oratorical Contest on the Constitution is not confined to the public high schools by any means. Of the thirty-eight districts into which Southern California is divided one of the mist interesting is District No. 16, comprising private high schools.

Loyola High School is one of the private schools that are taking a leading part in the contest. This school held its preliminary try-outs yesterday and of the many contestants the following were selected to compete in the finals, which are set for the 18th inst:

Paul Alcazar, who spoke on the "Adaptation of the Constitution to the Changing Needs of the People;" John Corcoran, who spoke on the same subject; Russell Wilson, "Preservation of the Constitution;" Darrell Finnegan, "The Constitution and Its Enemies in Ambush;" Edward Higgins, "The Constitution and its value to the American People;" John Caplis, "The Constitution, the Bulwark of Democracy and the Safeguard of Civil Liberty;" Carl Beneke, "The Restrictions to the Constitution," and Fred Gambold, "The Origin of the Constitution."

FINALS ON TUESDAY

Last year Fred Von der Ahe of Loyola took second place in the district, which comprised a long list of private schools throughout Southern California.

The school finals will take place Tuesday at Immaculate Heart College. The winners will compete with other private high schools at the contest to be held at St. Agnes's High School, April 11.

Belmont High has held its preliminaries and reduced contestants for the finals to four. Mrs. Nicholson, in charge of the contest, sees in these candidates embryonic talent of great promise. They are Fred Cordoner, Mario Sylvestri, Edward Schotland and Leon Rudleson. Schotland and Cordner are among the school's prize debaters. Sylvestri takes a leading part in the school's dramatic and operatic activities, and is also one of its best public speakers. Leon Rudleson is a "comer," not greatly experienced as yet but showing unusual aptitude in all forensic affairs and much is expected of him.

AGE BARS TWO

Belmont is bewailing the fact that its two leading orators, who have heretofore competed in the oratorical contest on the Constitution, are disqualified this year because of age limit. They have just passed their nineteenth year, which is the dead line.

Belmont will act as host school at the district finals and Mrs. Nicholson has been appointed supervisor. District 33 comprises Belmont High, Fremont High, Garfield High and Fairfax High, a somewhat different grouping from last year.

Victor Valley High School at Victorville went at the oratorical contest this year in a very thorough manner. All the four classes of the school held their own contests and the winners of the class contests meet in finals to select the school representative of the district. About fifty wrote orations. Of the fifty, nineteen were delivered, and two speakers were selected from each class to meet in final contest.

INGLEWOOD ANSWERS CALL

The winners in the freshman bracket were Erma Hartman, first, and William Pruett, second; sophomores, Clarice Smith and Donald Dewett; in the junior bracket, Francis Bowers and Louis Cloutier tied for first place, seniors, William Payette and Geneva Neilson, first and second, respecsively. William Payette is the student body secretary. The judges were Mrs. R. H. Webb, Miss Mildred Blanchard and Dr. L. W. Gilliland.

A total of seventy-five students responded to the call for entrants in the Constitutional contest at Inglewood High School. Out of this number twenty-five orations were chosen by the history department and in turn were submitted to the English department. From these, six will be selected for the local try-out the 24th and 28th inst. "The Constitution contest has attracted the efforts of the best literary and speaking talent of the school, and we expect to make a very creditable showing with the other schools of our district," declared Miss Elsie Jewel, in charge of the work.

Brokers Held On Charge of Check Misuse

Police investigation into an asserted irregularity in the disposal of a $3000 note yesterday resulted in the arrest of Douglas Jarmouth, 38 years of age, of 330 North Fuller Drive, and his brother, Jack, same age, of 142 Parkgrove avenue, Beverly Hills, brokers with offices in the Merritt Building, on charges of grand theft and suspicion of issuing a check with insufficient funds. The arrest was made by Detective Lieutenants Posner and Crowley of the police forgery detail.

The victim, according to the detectives, Fred Rupnow of 846 South Broadway, was approached by the brothers for a loan of $100. Rupnow, the detectives say, gave a $3000 note which the brothers are said to have discounted at the Highland Park branch of the Security National Trust and Savings Bank for $375, obtaining $2625 in cash. They then, the detectives say, gave Rupnow only $400 and kept the remainder.

INVESTIGATION OF GAS COMPANY POSTPONED

Investigation by the State Railroad Commission into the rates, rules, contracts, and practices of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation was continued until the 27th inst. yesterday by Commissioner Carr after engineers for the company and the commission reported they were not prepared to testify.

Today's Bible Text

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose.—Romans viii, 28.

OR MAY BE COLIC

Why Does a Baby Cry? asks a headline in a worried way. A safety pin is sticking him, would be our hasty opinion.

PASSING THE BUCK

A doe having a perfect pair of antlers was recently shot for a buck up in Tulare county. Evidently one of those modernists!

A POOR BRAND

A California man was jailed for branding his wife. A Hollywood husband innocently asks, which one? He evidently has difficulty distinguishing Alimony from Parsimony.

GIVE 'EM GAS

The Trojans had tanks of oxygen handy in the Washington basketball game the other night. They resuscitated themselves during times out. Wait till Congress hears about this!

LION TAMERS

Arizona hunters killed thirty-six mountain lions in January. If the Prince of Wales wants excitement and must have a new British lion, he might come to Arizona for his big game. And he wouldn't get anything but buck fever either.

CROSSING THE BREED

A rancher, near Merino, Colo., bought a superannuated Dodge and a retired Ford with a total outlay of $27. Out of the wrecks he built a farm truck with power transmission through the middle of the wheels. Luther Burbank was not the only person to cross plants successfully.

SCIENCE VS. SOLDIERS

Dr. Millikan and Michael Pupin say in a recent Scribner's that before science came, war was the chief occupation of civilization. With its advance, war becomes more and more inglorious. In a recent poll of Stanford girls, Lindbergh was chosen the ideal. Any wonder the boys now prefer to fly with Lindy than fight with Old Bony?

NO JOKE

A Washington wise-cracker announces with considerable enthusiasm that a man was frozen to death in California. He doesn't know that a man may have his coat off down in his orange orchard in the San Gabriel Valley and jump into his car and motor up behind Baldy in an hour or two into the winter snows. Our climate can be not only flat as Florida, but also stand on end like the Alps.

DO COURTS WASTE TIME?

The situation in which the Berman-Getzoff bribery case finds itself must seem very peculiar to anyone not a lawyer. When Judge McComb declined to dismiss the indictment against these men two separate actions were taken—affidavits of prejudice were filed to take the case to another court and a writ of habeas corpus was sought in the Court of Appeal. In the writ case, the court has held that the indictment must be dismissed because Berman and Getzoff have been in jeopardy. But Judge McComb is precluded from dismissing it because the case has been taken from his hands by the prejudice issue.

So Judge Doran, assigned to try the latter issue, must spend all day listening to arguments as to whether or not Judge McComb should try a case that cannot be tried by anybody. If ever there was a "moot question" it would seem to be this one—and courts are not supposed to pass on moot questions.

As for Judge McComb's original ruling that Berman and Getzoff had not been in jeopardy, it was made before the Supreme Court ruled on the Keyes case holding that there is no substantial difference between the crimes of bribery and bribery conspiracy. This ruling was the basis of the decision of the Court of Appeal and was not available to Judge McComb.

The layman's way of meeting this situation would be withdrawal of the affidavits of prejudice so that Judge McComb could obey the mandate of the Court of Appeal, but apparently such short cuts are not possible in law.

UP TO THE GRAPE GROWERS

Both as a member of the Federal Farm Board and as the head of the two most successful co-operative marketing associations on earth, C. C. Teague is qualified to point out to the grape growers what they must do to avoid the marketing difficulties they have met with in the past, and the plan he outlined at Fresno Wednesday seems to meet the requirements. But Mr. Teague cannot put the plan into effect and make it work; only the growers can do that. It is up to them to get together in the organizations he suggests. If they will do so, they will be assured of his invaluable advice and assistance and such financial aid as the Farm Board can extend under the law.

The grape growers of California happen to be more diverse than the citrus and walnut growers, whose co-operatives have proved so successful, and have in the past failed to pull together, with the result that they have pulled against each other in the markets with such results as might be expected. It will be more difficult to cure them of this habit than it was the citrus and walnut growers, but they have the advantage of a good example and this should prove a powerful argument.

It is necessary, in Mr. Teague's opinion, for 85 per cent of the production to be represented in the new co-operative organization. This does not mean 85 per cent of the individuals producing grapes, among whom it might not be possible to obtain 85 per cent agreement, but it does mean practically 100 per cent of the big vineyards and a large proportion of the smaller ones. Probably the bigger operators will be easier to convince, so that this program will not be as hard as it sounds. The producers will have to sink petty differences, disagreements and rivalries, here and there perhaps reconcile themselves to temporary disadvantages, for the general good of all and in the long run the advantage of each individual.

Diversion of a large amount of the surplus production of grapes to by-products plants is contemplated in Mr. Teague's plan. The only alternative is grubbing up approximately 15 per cent of the acreage devoted to grapes—which would be even more difficult to obtain. It is believed the by-products plants can absorb 100,000 tons annually, a figure which might be increased, presumably, by market development. The remainder of the surplus is to be so handled as not to disturb the market unduly. Under such a plan, expansion of production would necessarily wait upon increased demand, which will come naturally through increased national population and may be expanded by advertising on the scale that will be possible through this new co-operative effort.

In formulating his plan, Mr. Teague has spent several months in interviewing the leaders of the grape industry in all its branches and has obtained agreements and concessions which look extremely valuable. The growers will have the choice of falling in with this plan, which may be reasonably expected to lift their industry out of the doldrums in a few years and put it on a prosperous basis, or of permitting the present disorganized condition to continue.

The Federal Farm Board, it is made plain, will not help growers not willing to help themselves.

JUDGE COSGRAVE

Judge George A. Cosgrave of Fresno, nominated by President Hoover to fill the vacancy on the United States District Court bench caused by the resignation of Judge Henning, was indorsed for the place by an impressive list of jurists and bar associations as well as by Senator Shortridge. He is well and favorably known throughout the district and is eminently acceptable to the people of Southern California and the rank and file of the Republican party. Though a few party men favored another candidate the difference is not likely to prove serious.

Judge Cosgrave is personally as well as officially dry, which will be good news to the majority of a section that favors overwhelmingly a rigorous enforcement of the prohibition law. He has had an excellent record as an attorney, and though he has never held public office, his career and character guarantee that he will fulfill the duties of this high post as it deserves.

The filling of this vacancy has been needed, since the work of the United States District Court in this district has become increasingly heavy with the growth of population and wealth, and it is necessary to have a full quota of judges if the court is not to be far behind its schedule. Probably it will soon be necessary to add a fourth judge. It is to be hoped, therefore, that there will be no undue delay in Judge Cosgrave's confirmation.

OUR RICH UNCLE

Uncle Sam's big pocketbook bulges with $360,000,000,000. At least this is the size of the strap that it takes to hold it.

While his potential wealth may stir the imagination, yet these given assets are tangible and physical. Three-fourths of his holdings are in homes, industrial and transportation enterprises. He is canny and does not gamble; but salts down his money in values that cannot run away.

The per capita wealth of the country is estimated at $3000. California's per capita wealth is said to be $3725. This is one of the reasons why it may be called the Golden State.

Our sister commonwealth, Nevada, however, goes us one better with $7338 for each man, woman and child. It is the richest State in per capita wealth among the entire forty-eight. And yet most folks think it is a desert.

Uncle Sam has doubled his values during the last two decades. However, this statement has to be modified to a certain extent, because the purchasing power of the dollar has diminished in that time. But even with this discount in mind, a 37 per cent increase in estimates is phenomenal.

Uncle Sam has made the best use of labor-saving devices. He allows his coal beds, oil fields and mountain streams to turn the wheels of his enginery for him. He thus multiplies his output many times for each worker.

His natural resources are stupendous; and yet they are not greatly superior to some other countries. But Uncle Sam has exploited his allotment to the full. He is not lazy; but he takes nature's prodigality into partnership with him. When he can make oil drive his car, he never walks. When he can make electricity carry his messages, he does not run on his own errands. While he is not afraid to take off his coat and pitch in in his shirt sleeves, yet he never sweats down his collar if he can help it. Yet the gentlemanly loafer of Europe does not appeal to him.

We are proud of our big uncle and are happy to be under his wing. He is not a bad sort of a fellow and is as generous as he is rich.

BARGAINS ARE BARGAINS

More than 1500 persons took advantage of the cent-a-pound offer at the Grand Central Airport to enjoy an airplane trip. Officers at the field concluded that it was the price and not the fear of aerial voyages that has kept people from swarming the field. But wise merchants will tell you that it was newspaper advertising of a bargain that produced the crowd. They know because they have the same experiences.

NATURE'S REMEDY

Dry parties are becoming the vogue in Philadelphia, according to a society leader. Too many headaches beget wrinkles and face-lifting operations are painful and costly.

DAN

By James J. Montague

There's something wrong with little Dan—
He wouldn't give a cent,
When he's a big and husky man,
To be the President.
Ambition's loftiest aims, indeed,
He looks on with a sneer,
And we're afraid he means to lead
A criminal career.

He likes to wear a handkerchief
To cover up his face,
Pretending he's a greedy thief
Whose heart is bad and base,
Or flash, when we are passing by,
A gleaming carving knife
And in determined accents cry:
"Your money or your life!"

He doesn't care for tales that tell
Of boys with hearts of gold,
Who learn to read and write and spell
Before they're six years old.
He'd rather lead a band of men
Of wild and evil fame
And make the whole world tremble when
It hears his very name.

He wants to wander through the West
And live a life of stealth,
And, with a gun in hand divest
The public of its wealth.
But, though his soul seems set on crime,
His parents hope and pray
That he may be reformed in time;
He's only five today.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

LOS ANGELES is about to lose one of its pleasantest vices.

No, that's a mistake, for he isn't a vice any more—hasn't been for a long time. The more accurate statement is that Los Angeles is about to lose His Majesty's personal representative, Mr. Godfrey Fisher, British Consul. Fisher has been transferred to Naples, Italy, and will leave for that post about April 1, as his successor here, R. L. Nosworthy, is expected to arrive from his present post in Berlin, about March 29.

Raised Standard of Post

Before Fisher came in 1923, Great Britain maintained only an honorary consulate here, in charge of an honorary vice-consul. The late White Mortimer, attorney, held that honorary post for forty years. Then the growth of the post and the growth of the British population made it necessary to bring in a full-time consul, and Fisher was selected. In the seven years he has been here the importance of the post has doubled and the British population has greatly increased. In fact, he has had something to do with the latter himself. At a reception in his honor just after he arrived, attention was called to the fact that he was a bachelor and that possibly the future Mrs. Fisher was among those present. That caused all the young ladies present to blush, especially the daughter of retiring Consul Mortimer, who had just been introduced to Fisher and was sitting beside him. They were married in 1925 and have two daughters, both registered at the consulate as British subjects.

Many British Here

At present, it is believed, there are more than 100,000 British-born residents of the Los Angeles district. It is said that 10,000 Canadian ex-soldiers came here after the war.

That is only one thing which has made the consulate grow, however. The growth of trade with Australia, India and South Africa, as well as with Canada and other British possessions, has multiplied the number of consular invoices, and the increase in round-the-world tourist travel has greatly increased the number of visas.

Consul and See the World

It's a hard life, consuling. Before coming here, Fisher served in Baltimore, Santo Domingo and Tahiti. After his children have had the benefit of a few years of Italian musical training, with side trips to Pompeii, Rome, Florence and spots like that, we suppose he'll get himself transferred to Paris or Berlin.

Well, wherever he goes he'll give his country good service. And a lot of us here will miss him.

No Foolin'

No matter what the weather men say, when you go to the seed company and see tomato plants for sale you know it's spring. And they're there.

How the Meek Get It

Was this warning: "The meek shall get all the dirt."

Truly a Model Husband

Right from the heart unfolds this tale,
A lesson neat for those who fail.

Her eyes were gray, her tongue was white,
Her hair was false, her face a fright.

But love is blind. I married her

But when I saw her at her worst
With promptitude I got divorced.

My new stenog I married soon—
And hired ex-wife that afternoon!

Less Truth Than Poetry

You simply can't believe these poets. The writer of the foregoing is a girl-proof, girl-shy bachelor who quit newspaper work back East to practice law. But last week he was admitted to the bar here, so we suppose we'll be the first victim of his fickleness.

Apropos of Nothing

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

HITCH-HIKING AND THE LAW
[Boston Transcript]

Pity the poor motorist. Hitch-hiking and thumbers ask him for rides. He is so tender-hearted that he cannot refuse. Something should be done to protect him. Pass a law! Then the fear of the penalty may prevent his being annoyed by the ride beggars. So the bill against hitch-hiking is again before the general court. Perhaps it will not be enacted this year. If not and the agitation for it persists good-natured legislators may yet place it on the books.

The law proposed might fail of its purpose, but what of it? Why object to one more useless law when we already have so many? If there are motorists who think such on enactment would give them aid and comfort why discriminate against them while passing all sorts of laws on all sorts of subjects to please other folks? What is one more law among friends?

THE POINT IT EVADES
[Detroit Free Press]

The Detroit News continues to wail about the iniquitousness of the suggestion by the D. S. R. auditor that the street car fares be raised to seven cents in order to make financial ends meet and at the same time give good service to the public. It keeps on talking about the wickedness of the practice of requiring the city-owned lines to bear the cost of paving between rails and meet the cost of other charges made against them in accordance with the provisions of the municipal charter. But the News has not yet undertaken to explain why, with a full knowledge of what the charter provides and being perfectly familiar with the legal demands that would be made upon revenues from car fares, it nevertheless championed municipal ownership under the charter conditions, insisted that the D. S. R. lines must be purchased and run by the city, and asserted that the financing would be easy and the service wonderful. Why doesn't it come out and acknowledge that it grossly misrepresented things?

MEXICAN LABOR
[Sioux City Journal]

Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board, in protesting against drastic restriction of immigrant Mexican labor, logically followed a line of economic reasoning that is both important and interesting. He showed how in particular farming areas of the Southwest conditions were such as would bring a serious shortage of farm labor if Mexicans were held to a low quota.

In the areas described by Mr. Legge, production is devoted to vegetables and small fruits. The work of cultivation requires much stooping, bending, and working on the knees. It is not attractive to American farm labor, and for years it has been done by Mexicans.

Obviously such a condition as Mr. Legge has described ought to be considered as affecting proposals to limit immigration from Mexico. Yet if a quota arrangement were made it should not exceed the actual needs of the farmers of the Southwest. Immigration restriction from the first has been for the double purpose of protecting the country from undesirables and of safeguarding American labor. It should not be employed at any time to work a hardship on American business.

That Straw Ballot

OAKLAND (Cal.) March 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The straw ballot undertaken by the Literary Digest reminds me, and I want to remind your readers, that nearly all dry organizations urge their members to take no part in straw ballots on the prohibition question. There is no sufficient protection against fraud. One of our San Francisco newspapers took such a straw vote and posted in several places about its office bundles of blanks. One could attach fictitious names to a score of them and drop them into the receptacle. Of course the result was an overwhelming wet majority.

Let me give the result of a straw ballot taken in June, 1928, in Delaware. This is the State of Capt. Stayton of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment—of Du Pont, the $50,000 contributor to the wet campaign of Al Smith—and the State of Raskob, wet Republican chairman of the National Democratic Committee. This questionnaire was sent out, the directors of the above "association" say in their report, to more than 100,000 voters of Delaware. The vote in favor of "government places of sale of spirits, wine and beer" was 31,603. The vote against these government saloons (excuse me, these government "places of sale") was 4977. This straw vote was over six to one against prohibition. "Proof of the opposition to prohibition in Delaware" and of our "accomplishments," said the directors of the above "association." The absurdity of this claim is easily shown. Out of 100,000 voters sent this question, only 31,603 voted wet. What about the more than 68,000 others who either voted dry or followed the advice of their leaders and refused to vote on the fool question?

But we do not have to investigate this straw vote taken in June to determine the wish of Delaware as to prohibition. In November, 1928, Delaware defeated its wet United States Senator Bayard, an active member of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and in his place elected by a large majority ex-Gov. John G. Townsend, a strong dry. She also re-elected her dry Congressman, Robert G. Houston, by a two-to-one majority over his wet opponent. Delaware declared herself not by a worthless straw vote in June, but by well-guarded ballot boxes sufficiently filled with dry ballots in November.

Too Much Efficiency

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Abe Lincoln once said, if he ever had a chance to hit the slave question, he'd hit it hard; and he did!

Today—if anyone had a chance to hit the efficiency expert question, it should be hit hard.

In a little milder respect, I've often wondered if the efficiency experts aren't a bunch of "reds." Their "time-saving, labor-saving" plan may be excellent in a few cases, but it is that same idea which is throwing thousands out of work. They are going too far—making mechanical apparatus of the young people in office buildings throughout the country.

This is a question which is more serious than the majority of persons realize. It is surely something which is taken far too lightly.

Since everyone reads what Will Rogers has to say (and being, as a rule, correct on any subject,) I'd like very much to know his view on the "Unemployed" situation—and I hope he hits the subject hard.
MISS VV.

Difficult to Decide

COMPTON, March 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In justice to The Times editors, I suspect that you print the pronunciation, "Loce Ahng hayl ais," merely as an oddity, for the purpose of giving your readers some inkling of the original Spanish pronunciation; very few people will attempt to put it into practice, as did the woman who wrote to Mr. Phelps. Even so, however, I beg leave to criticise your suggested pronunciation and offer in its place a spelling which many years' experience in Spanish and Spanish countries convinces me is a better approximation to the original than the one you have adopted. This is
Los Angeles (Loce Ahng hay lace.)

Spanish syllabification requires that the "l" in each instance begin a syllable. It would be quite unnatural for a Spaniard to say, "hayl ais." The "s" also in both cases is the same sound and, to be consistent should be represented in English in the same manner. A Spanish phonetician, such as Prof. Tomas Navarro Tomas, with whom I studied at the University of Madrid, would also criticise the English syllable "Loce;" the "o" is too much like the close "o" in French. Neither does this syllable rhyme with English "gloss" (as commonly heard here;) rather it is between "loce" and "gloss." Further, the English "h" is much too weak to represent the sound of "g" in Spanish "ge." And the "Ah" is probably too broad for the so-called "European a" as found in Spanish "an."

H. M. HALDEMAN

By Brigadier J. C. Bell, Divisional Commander, Salvation Army

In the performance of duty and in the midst of a busy and useful life, Harry Marston Haldeman, manufacturer, financier, civic leader, chairman of Los Angeles Salvation Army advisory board, passed into eternity.

I had been talking with him only a few hours before he passed away, and as on all occasions the sincere note in his voice spoke of his genuine appreciation of the opportunity of serving the army and its interests for humanity.

The army in the Southland owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. Haldeman. His beautiful thoughts, his cheerful views of life, his generous efforts extending over a period of a quarter of a century—his name is associated in our minds with all manner of kindness and generosity. It is the heart that makes life sweet and not the pocketbook; it is pure and happy thoughts, a well-stored mind and a genial nature full of sympathy for humankind. In these respects a happy lot has been that of Harry Haldeman. Such was the life of this eminently useful man, who by the exercise of industry, good sense and well-cultivated moral feelings was able to effect a large amount of good during his lifetime, and beneficially to influence the condition of mankind, and who knows but for generations to come.

He is gone from us, we shall miss him, but his works shall live on.

Let earth close o'er its sacred trust,
Yet goodness dies not in the dust."

STUDY IN FREE SPEECH

BY LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN

If anyone desires to make careful study of how Bolshevistic methods actually affect the morale of groups of people he has but go about to a variety of different gatherings and listen to discussion where so-called "free speech" is encouraged and no time limit is set.

In the old-time debates when young men lined themselves up on either the affirmative or the negative side of "Resolved that man is a free moral agent" the speakers seemed to understand that they were discussing an abstract subject with which personalities were not concerned. Each had given the question a little meditative consideration before he got on his feet, each was allowed a certain specified time in which to express his views, and a parliamentarian, or some sort of referee, enforced order, settled any acute controversial situation, and, usually, some definite conclusion was reached.

The proceedings were conducted according to law, according to rules, and ideas were created, opinions crystallised into clear, definite expression and each speaker, as well as the audience, knew what the other was talking about. But in the present "free for all" mode of procedure where unlimited discussion from the floor allows every unorganized mind to air its own peculiar grievance, mental chaos and anarchy in human relations are the result.

In the last thirty or forty years I have attended almost every sort of "salon," forum, every variety of philosophical, metaphysical, or psychological discussion open to the public, and I have never yet listened to a general discussion of an abstract subject in which the arguers were all talking about the same thing.

Invariably, it is the old story over again of three, or three times that many, blind men trying to describe an elephant. One has hold of the elephant's ear, one of his tusk and one his toe. No one has the slightest conception of the thing as a whole, each is fanatically intolerant of the other's assertion and the intolerance passes into vituperative, vindictive fury in which all perception, all judicial conclusion and all logical reasoning are lost.

The thing which an oustider, a mere by-listener, decides is that one faction is talking about concrete, material, objective things and situations and the other about subjective, abstract or purely psychological matters and that anarchy and intolerance always result.

Airplane Construction?

Students of a mechanical turn of mind who want a shop in which to work and the advice of an experienced war airplane motor man may go to the Gardena Evening High School, corner of Normandie and Palm avenues, and enroll in the class of Charles C. Loomis. All branches of machine shop, auto repair, blacksmithing and welding are taught free on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 7 to 9 p.m. Besides, there is free advice in the building of airplanes and gliders.

Loomis says that women can do as well as men in airplane factories and that in some departments they are even better, being more accurate in micrometric inspection and in fuselage or the stretching of fabric.

CRITICISM

The artist called me in to view a picture he had just completed; "How does this work appeal to you? Now, tell me truly," he entreated. "Express your honest sentiments, without a single thought of sparing." I would not give you twenty cents for compliments I'm not deserving." CLASSES OUTGROW BUILDINGS

Bouelle Says Lack of Funds for School Houses Has Become Acute

The situation caused by the lack of funds for an adequate school building program continues to grow more serious, it was stated by Superintendent of Schools Bouelle yesterday when he submitted his report on attendance figures for the month of February to the Board of Education. While the school-building program languished for lack of sustenance, the average daily attendance in all the city schools last February showed an increase of almost 20,000 over the corresponding month of 1929, he pointed out.

The total average daily attendance for last month was 230,426, while for February, 1929, it was 210,382. This figure includes kindergarten, elementary, junior high school, senior high school, and junior college students and also students of special classes, the majority of the latter being found in the evening high schools.

Superintendent Bouelle says the situation is particularly acute in the elementary schools, where the increase in the average daily attendance was almost 8000. This increase without a corresponding growth in school facilities has raised the number of part-time classes in the city, he said, from eighty-three in February, 1929, to 120 last month. Furthermore, he said, many school principals have hesitated to institute part-time classes, with the result that the classes in their schools are becoming so large that the interests of the individual student are bound to suffer.

Salvation Army to Observe Dual Event Sunday

Brigadier James C. Bell, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in the Los Angeles and South Coast division, announced yesterday that a dual celebration will be observed Sunday by all the corps in the division, which will include the "Prison Sunday" program, and, in addition, the day of prayer for the persecuted religionists of Russia.

"The Salvation Army is joining with other Christian bodies in protesting against the soviet tyranny," the brigadier said last night.

Adjt. Frank Howell, officer in charge of the Temple of the Army, 839 West Ninth street, announces that Brigadier Bell will occupy that pulpit for the special occasion, both morning and night. He will speak at the morning service on "The Kingship of Jesus," and at night on "The Seven Wonders of the World: Ancient and Modern."

BULLET FELLS LIQUOR SUSPECT

Ricocheting Missile Hits Leg of Fleeing Man

Victim Fails to Halt When Officers Give Order

Police on Guard at Garage After Liquor Find

A ricocheting bullet from the revolver of Officer Piening struck Luis Calderon, 28 years of age, bootlegging suspect, in the leg, when he is asserted to have attempted escape from Piening and Officer Brown early yesterday morning, according to the officers' report.

The officers had been placed on stake in a garage at the rear of 433 Cottage Home street with orders to arrest any one who appeared after ten gallons of alcohol had been found in the building.

Calderon approached the garage door and the officers said they stepped out and informed him who they were. Disregarding their command to "stand where you are," he turned and ran, the officers said. Brown said he fired one shot and Piening a second shot into the ground. Calderon dropped at the second shot. The bullet, Piening reported, apparently ricocheted, as neither he nor Brown had shot directly at the suspect.

Calderon, who lives at 424 North Hill street, was taken to the Georgia street Receiving Hospital and booked on a possession of liquor charge.

EARLY HEAD OF SCHOOLS SUCCUMBS

Request of Mrs. Jones to be Observed and Ashes Scattered Over Ocean

On a request made before death, the ashes of Mrs. Chloe Blakeman Jones, 86 years of age, who served as superintendent of Los Angeles city schools in 1880-81, are to be scattered over the waves of the Pacific Ocean. Mrs. Jones died Wednesday at Sierra Madre. The body is at Turner & Stevens undertaking company at Pasadena.

Mrs. Jones, who was one of the first woman school superintendents in the United States, came to Los Angeles in the early 70's and began teaching school for the somnolent little village of those years. She came here from Santa Rosa.

Scores of outstanding men and women in Los Angeles, many of them prominent in national life, received their first instruction in the early-day schoolrooms presided over by Mrs. Jones.

Of a retiring and modest nature always, Mrs. Jones, in her active years of teaching young Californians, shunned the public light and labored diligently and sincerely at the task to which she devoted her life.

MORE SPEED ON BUILDING PLAN URGED

Chamber Wants State to Start Projects Soon as Unemployment Solution

After listening yesterday to an itemized account of the State's projected building program in Southern California, calling for expenditure of approximately $3,500,000, the Chamber of Commerce directors passed a resolution urging the Governor and State departments to press work as soon as possible as a means of relieving the unemployment situation. The State construction program, outlined earlier this week in The Times, was presented by the chamber's government affairs committee headed by W. W. Mines.

The program covers construction to be started in the Southland this year. Items announced are as follows: State building in Los Angeles, $1,250,000; State hospital in Southern California, $1,000,000; improvements at Norwalk Hospital, $369,500; California Institute for Women, narcotic hospital, $475,000; State Teachers' College, San Diego, $25,000; additional land at Patton, $10,000; improvements at Whittier State School, amount not stated.

OUTSIDE CLASSES PLANNED

Community service of the University of Southern California will include late afternoon and evening college classes to be organized in the spring quarter in cities and towns outside of Los Angeles. Regular university instruction by Trojan faculty members will be available to groups of twenty or more.

ANTI-BELL PETITIONS FILL UP

More Than 43,000 Names Affixed to Pleas for Election, Which Will be Filed Tomorrow

Referendary petitions on the Bell cement plant ordinances bearing more than 43,000 signatures will be filed with City Clerk Dominguez tomorrow morning, it was announced yesterday by Thorwald Siegfreid, attorney for the Home Zone Defense Association which is backing the movement.

"We now have 41,013 names tabulated and precincted. Today the last of the petitions was called in and as there were a score or more out in all probability we will have from between 2500 and 3000 added names. We will work all night precincting these and will take the entire list to the City Hall early Saturday morning," Siegfried said.

That the association does not plan to disband its full force of men was made evident and in case something should be amiss the organization is prepared to obtain thousands of additional names to make sure of the election being held.

No action has been taken by the City Council in regard to the request that the election be set the same date as that of the water bonds, May 20. In a communication addressed to the Mayor and Council officers and directors of the Home Zone Defense Association pointed out that a large sum of money could be saved the taxpayers by having the election scheduled for that day and that it would be folly to ask the taxpayers to stand the expense of a special election when this date is available.

City Clerk Dominguez has announced that he can complete his checking within five days after the petition is filed, working a force both day and night.

It is necessary to have 25,801 bona-fide voters on the petition in order to have an election called on the cement ordinances. To make the election mandatory 37,000 names are necessary. It is expected that at least 6000 more names than will be needed will be on the petition, allowing a deduction through error of 15 per cent, which would invoke the mandatory clause.

LOCAL FILM PRODUCER IN LABOR ROW

Jury Trial Date Set on Pair's Charge He Left Them Stranded in Hawaii

Eska Wilson, Los Angeles motion-picture producer of 1906 South Vermont avenue, was charged with two counts of violation of the California State Labor laws in a complaint issued by City Prosecutor Nix yesterday.

Gladys McConnell, 23-year-old actress of 3242 Oakshire Drive, and Hugh Allan of 428 North Larchmont street, an actor, are the complaining witnesses. They charge that Wilson engaged them to work in a motion picture at Honolulu, but after taking them to the island city abandoned them and left them on their own resources.

Wilson pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Municipal Judge Curtis's court and demanded a jury trial. The court fixed April 10 as the date of trial and released the defendant on his own recognizance.

Cloudy Skies and Possible Rain Forecast

It may rain today, the Weather Bureau forecast last night. Yesterday yielded a bare trace of rain at 12:56 p.m. The season's precipitation now stands at 6.91 inches of water against a normal of 12.31 inches for this time of the year and 10.51 inches to correspoding date last year. March normally yields 2.7 inches of rain, but so far this month has supplied but .55 of an inch, which fell on the 5th inst.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 60 degrees against a normal of 67, and its minimum was 54 against a normal of 48.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow promises "mostly cloudy and unsettled weather with possible showers."

MRS. McPHERSON LEAVES SOON FOR HOLY LAND

Aimee Semple McPherson and her Holy Land party will leave Los Angeles the 24th inst. in special cars for New York, where on the 29th inst. they will sail on the steamer George Washington for Jerusalem.

"We will stand on Calvary on Good Friday, and at the hour He was crucified we will bow in prayer. At His tomb on Easter Sunday we will rejoice over the risen Lord," said Mrs. McPherson last night. "To the Christian this is ecstasy."

That the Los Angeles party will be augmented heavily all along the route was the information given the Four Square evangelist by the Thomas Cook & Son agency, which she says now has full charge of the tour. The party will land at Cherbourg, go to Paris and then embark for Egypt and the Holy Land from South France.

Mrs. McPherron will be accompanied by her daughter, Roberta. This will be her second trip to the Holy Land. Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, will remain at home and conduct the affairs of Angelus Temple.

The steps taken by the Christ during the last three days of his life will be retraced by Mrs. McPherson and her party. At night they will visit the Garden of Gethsemane and on the following day will visit the Hall of Pilate, where Christ was judged. On Friday, preceding Easter, they will be on Calvary, the scene of the crucifixion. On Sunday they will visit the tomb of Christ. Both at Calvary and at the tomb Mrs. McPherson plans to make a brief talk to her followers.

The home audience at Angelus Temple, however, will not be without Mrs. McPherson and her sermons. Four talkies have been prepared to be used during her absence and are arranged in the nature of sermonettes, Mrs. McPherson says.

The subjects, as given by her are: "Seven Cries from the Cross," "Barrabas," "The Four Square Gospel" and the "Second Coming of Christ." These talkies have already been completed.

Mrs. McPherson will be in Los Angeles again on June 21, she stated last night. Following her return actual filming of the motion picture "Clay in the Hands of the Potter," which will feature the Angelus Temple evangelist, will get under way, she says.

One of the lovely affairs of yesterday afternoon was the tea given by the Florence Nightingale chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, at the Windsor Tea Rooms honoring Mrs. Godfrey Fisher, wife of the former British Consul of Los Angeles, who with Mr. Fisher will leave for his new post at the general consulate in Italy.

More than fifty guests responded to invitations and a charming feature of the afternoon was the presentation to Mrs. Fisher of a beautiful traveling bag, the presentation being made by Mrs. E. R. Capstaff, regent of the Florence Nightingale chapter, of which Mrs. Fisher has been an active member.

The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Earl C. Corliss, Mrs. Joseph Cartwright and Mrs. J. A. McCord.

Formal announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Maxwell of 1490 Dickens street, Cahuenga Park, of the betrothal of their daughter Paulyn to Everett Glen Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Barnes of Nampa, Idaho.

The news was told at a beautifully appointed dinner party with which Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell entertained Wednesday evening at their home, the decorations being effectively carried out in spring flowers of white, pink and green tones, the secret unfolding from the centers of a small blossom entwined around the dessert glass. Twelve guests were bidden.

No date is set as yet for the wedding.

Fraternal Functions

With spring semester rushing and pledging already a thing of the past, fraternities and sororities at the University of Southern California are now devoting their time and interest to such social activities as dinner dances, initiations, founders' day banquets and bridge teas.

An interesting affair of the last week-end was the "hard-times dance" at the Sigma Chi fraternity house in Thirty-sixth street. Patrons for the evening were Mmes. Messrs. Roland Swanfield, Warren Bovard and Harry Lee Martin.

Delt Gamma Sorority entertained Saturday evening, the 1st inst., with a formal dinner-dance at the Westport Beach Club. Bronze, pink and blue, the sorority colors, were used to decorate the tables and the ballroom.

Gamma Eta chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity at the University of Southern California conducted its annual Founders' Day banquet at the Jonathan Club Saturday evening of last week, the event being attended by many alumni members, as well as the active chapter. Harold Hollister, president of the Trojan chapter, and Bill King, president of the alumni, were speakers of the evening.

Preceding the banquet, initiation was conducted by Pi Kappa Alpha for John Rains, Robert Gardner, Browning Baymiller, Francis Gardner, William Welland, James Booth, Robert Towne, Tom Moore, Carl White, William Barr, Gordon Glenn and Beverly Quekemeyer.

Preference Banquet

In the Chinese Room of the Mary Louise a formal preference banquet was given Friday, the 7th inst., for Pi Sigma Gamma rushees by Delta chapter at the University of California at Los Angeles, as the closing event of rush week. Mrs. Grace Anderson played the wedding marches and the accompaniment for Mrs. Thelma Green, who sang Cadman's "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, was gowned in ivory satin. YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

GIVE BABY OPPORTUNITY FOR GROWTH IN MASTERING SIMPLE ACTIVITIES

Many mothers are possessed of the attitude that since the child has a whole lifetime to grow up in, it doesn't matter particularly how long he lingers at any one stage of development. On the contrary, it does matter a great deal.

One mother asked me in all seriousness, "What difference does it make whether the baby over 1 year takes his milk from a bottle, just so he gets the milk?" Another said, "Please tell me why it is harmful for a mother to nurse her baby the second year if he is well nourished?"

Both questions have the same answer. Though it is extremely doubtful whether the nursing mother can ever satisfactorily breast feed a baby more than 9 months of age, the question of nourishment is only secondary. The primary consideration is the matter of new habits.

A baby grows in both physical and mental development through the acquisition of new habits. As long as he does the same old thing in the same old way, he is learning nothing new. But he learns when he begins, to sit up instead of lie, creep instead of sitting up, walk instead of creep, or handle a bottle instead of nursing, hold a cup and spoon instead of a bottle. Every new act or habit he acquires has a long chain of allied activities, both mental and physical, which accompany it.

ACTUAL EXPERIENCE BEST TEACHER

Learning to hold a bottle at a certain angle so that the milk runs into his mouth is quite an achievement for the small baby. How much more intricate is the act of tipping a cup just right, so that instead of being drenched by the downpour, he gets a comfortable mouthful of milk.

When we stop to think about it we realize that baby does not learn anything until he does it. He may get the idea from watching us, but to make drinking comfortable he actually has to hold the cup in his own hand and practice with it a bit before he has really learned that particular activity.

Plainly, we are mentally retarding the child if we keep him at the breast overlong even if the mother thinks he is well nourished, or let him hang onto his bottles when he is quite capable of managing a cup after sufficient practice.

We recently heard of an exaggerated example of parental blindness. The parent of a 10-year-old child dressed, washed, bathed and combed the girl, even to the point of scrubbing her teeth for her. The child was rather stupid in school and the mother slapped her each time she didn't think of an answer quickly enough "in order to teach her to think faster." Here was a child who was being refused every opportunity to develop the simplest kinds of physical dexterity, and it was evident that her mental abilities were likewise hampered.

We can't cut off the child's development in every normal way and expect him to be mentally brilliant. Walking, talking and using fingers and arms are part of the whole development of the child and, if we are wise, we must give him every chance to develop them as fast as he is able.

Unless to truth you're wholly blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse knew how persistently Peter Rabbit, Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Sammy Jay were looking for his home. It was like a game. He was hiding and they were trying to find him. He enjoyed it. He enjoyed matching his wits against their wits. It tickled him to peep out of the little round doorway of his home and see these other little people close at hand with no suspicion at all that he was anywhere near.

I doubt if anyone ever lived who was not careless at some time or other. The most careful people will sometimes forget and be careless. It always has been so and it always will be so. Carelessness has cost the lives of very many little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, just as it has cost the lives of many human folks. It was carelessness that finally gave away Whitefoot's secret.

Sammy Jay sometimes is a very noisy fellow. Sometimes he is a very quite fellow. He has a way of being around when you do not know he is around. It happened that late one afternoon Sammy alighted in a tree on the edge of the Green Forest, right near where Whitefoot the Wood Mouse had his home. Sammy had made no sound. He had kept that tongue of his still. Now he sat, just using those sharp eyes of his. He wasn't looking for any one or anything in particular.

He was just looking for anything that might be of interest. A little below him in a bush on the edge of the Green Forest was a big, gray globe. Sammy knew it for just what it was. He didn't give it any particular attention. He could think of nothing about a wasps' nest that would be interesting to him. So he looked at it without thinking about it at all.

Suddenly Sammy leaned forward and those bright eyes of his became fixed on that nest. There was something hanging down from the lower part of it and he was sure that something had moved, although at the time there was no wind. Sammy himself didn't move. He waited and waited. Presently that thing moved again.

He was hiding and they were trying to find him.

"It's a tail!" said Sammy to himself—"May I never raise my topknot again if that isn't a tail! Now what is a tail doing there? And whose tail is it?"

Now, of course, you know whose tail it was. It was Whitefoot's tail. Whitefoot has a long, slim tail. For once he had become careless. In moving about inside that nest his tail had slipped out the little round doorway. There it was hanging down. Whitefoot didn't think anything about it. He wasn't aware that it was hanging down outside. After a bit he moved and drew his tail in.

But the telltale tail had told Sammy Jay what Sammy wanted to know. It had told him that there was some one in that big wasps' nest that was supposed to be deserted.

The next story: "Sammy Jay Learns the Whole Secret."

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

HUNGARIAN POTATO DUMPLINGS

Take two cupfuls of cold mashed potatoes, add to them two slightly beaten eggs and about one cupful of sifted flour, mix well. Place on a flour molding board, roll out and strew thickly with bread crumbs that have been fried until brown in butter. Roll up the same as a jelly roll, then press flat and cut in squares. Cover with a few more bread crumbs, place another square on top, press the edges tightly together, and drop into boiling salt water, allow to cook for ten minutes, drain and place where they will keep warm. Melt some butter in a saute pan, pour over the dumplings and if liked, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon.

TRIPE MEXICAN

Take one-half a pound of tripe, cover it with boiling water, and boil until tender, being careful not to boil too long, as it will become tough, drain, cut in squares, dust with flour, and fry until a light brown on both sides, place it on a hot platter, take one-half a pound of sausage meat, roll it into small balls, dust it with flour and cook until brown all over. Place these around the tripe and cover with a Spanish sauce.

SPANISH SAUCE

Place in a saute pan three tablespoonfuls of oil, or shortening, one finely chopped onion, one chopped clove of garlic, one green pepper chopped fine, after having removed the seeds and veins. Allow vegetables to cook until tender, then add two cupfuls of tomatoes, and two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley. Allow to simmer slowly for one hour. Add a seasoning of salt and paprika, and a tablespoonful of chili powder that has been dissolved in a little cold water.

BAKED LOBSTER

Split two medium-sized lobsters in two lengthwise, remove the meat and cut it in tubes, wash out the shells, place in a saute pan four tablespoonfuls of butter, and when melted add half a cupful of finely chopped young onions and one clove of finely chopped garlic. Cook until the onions are clear and add to them one cupful of cream sauce that has had mixed into it one teaspoonful of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of Tarragon vinegar, and a seasoning of salt and paprika. cook until well blended then add the diced lobster meat and allow to heat for five minutes, place this mixture in the lobster shells, sprinkle over it grated Swiss cheese, dot with bits of butter and brown in a moderate oven. Serve garnished with lemon slices and branches of parsley.

Return spinach and liquid to fire, adding enough milk and cream (half and half) to make the desired amount of soup. Let become hot but do not boil. Serve with a sprinkling of grated cheese and thin strips of Melba toast.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

So many people prefer something salty with ice cream, rather than cake, that it is wise to include pretzels or salty crackers in the refreshments. Pretzels do seem to cut that too, too sweet taste, don't they?

Rice

Rice should always be cooked in sufficient water that stirring is unnecessary, but should the occasion arise, be sure to stir it with a fork instead of a spon. A spoon will crush the grains and make the rice mushy.

To Keep Them in Shape

Lace collars will retain their shape and will not tear if they are basted to a piece of white cloth before they are washed.

Must Be Dry

Be certain that the clothes are dry and not wet with perspiration before putting them in the clothes hamper. Mildew and rank odors are almost certain to result if wet clothes are thrown into the basket and allowed to remain there until wash day.

Juicy Meat

If your gas oven is a very quick one it is apt to dry out roasted meat. Place a saucepan half full of water in a corner of the oven. The steam from the water will keep the air moist and the meat will be juicy.

Do you see what's left out of this Rice Pudding Recipe?

Beat 2 eggs and add 1½ cups hot milk, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Pour mixture over 2 cups steamed rice. Bake in buttered dish set in a pan of water, for about 45 minutes at 325°, or until custard is set.

OF COURSE you know what's left out! Sugar! And if you add one-half of a cup you will have perfect results and a most nourishing dessert in the bargain. Try this recipe soon.

As the palatability of a pudding depends upon sugar, so does the taste appeal of certain familiar foods depend upon a dash of sugar. For example, canned or fresh vegetables, also stewed fruits, are much more appetizing when flavored thus. Try a dash of sugar in stewed corn, peas or carrots. And don't forget that cereal sprinkled with sugar tastes better.

The more you enjoy healthful fruits and vegetables the more you will eat of them. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing when flavored with sugar. And no doctor will restrain you from using a dash of sugar any more than he will restrain you from using a pinch of salt. The Sugar Institute

When you want baked beans, you want the taste of baked beans. You want the tender, dry mealiness of real baked beans—with the water dried out by hours of slow oven baking.

Heinz—bakes these beans in dry ovens. That's why they're all nutrition, all flavor. They taste like baked beans—because they are baked beans. That's why Heinz labels them oven-baked beans.

SANTA ANA SURE OF GLASS PLANT

Chamber Officials Rejoice at Senate Tariff Action

Restoration of Old Rate on Product Removes Obstacle

Official of Company Coming to Start Construction

SANTA ANA, March 13.—Chamber of Commerce officials here, hailing the Senate's restoration of existing tariff rates on plate and window glass, were further elated today when George Raymer, secretary, announced that J. B. Bellesville, vice-president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, is scheduled to arrive here Wednesday to arrange definite details for starting work on the corporation's Pacific Coast plant here.

The Senate's action with reference to glass levies removed the last obstacle to construction of the plant here, Raymer said. He added that he had been informed that the company would begin construction here as soon as work is completed on plants now being built in the East.

Senate restoration of the glass tariff set by President Hoover, together with recent reduction in earthquake insurance rates, marked victories of the local chamber, which for several months waged intensive efforts to those ends.

Sheep Shipment of Six Thousand Head Delivered

VENTURA, March 13.—Motorists traversing the Ojai-Ventura Highway yesterday afternoon were treated to the rare spectacle of 6000 head of bleating, inquisitive sheep disembarking from fifty-two Southern Pacific box cars.

The animals entrained at Kingman, Ariz., and were delivered to Ed C. Canet, who is taking over the job of fattening them up on his extensive Canada Larga ranch.

The sheep were herded in groups into a corral at the siding just north of the city, and were driven to the Canet ranch. They created remarkably little disturbance, even though the California Highway Patrol had deemed it necessary to dispatch Officers Joe Nobel and H. W. McCoy to the scene to take care of traffic.

Canet received 4000 head of sheep just a short time ago for the same purposes.

Island-Shooting Case Suspect to be Tried Soon

VENTURA, March 13.—Melvin W. Prentice, 18-year-old boy arrested on San Nicholas Island February 26 in connection with the fatal shooting of Steve Semerenko, Russian fisherman, on a fishing smack moored in a cove off the island February 23, is to appear the 19th inst. before Judge Malvern Dimmick in the Justice Court for preliminary hearing on the charge of first-degree murder filed against him yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Don R. Holt.

The boy was arraigned late yesterday before Judge Dimmick. Because of the serious nature of the charge, no bail was fixed and Prentice was returned to the County Jail.

Right to Water Sold; Riverside Company Buys

SAN BERNARDINO, March 13.—Sale by Harry H. Eastwood of this city of rights to develop water on a seventy-two-acre tract in the Antil basin to the Riverside Water Company for $25,000 was announced today.

The owner of the property retains the title to the seventy-two-acre tract, the right to use all the water he desires for irrigation on the acreage, and acquires a permit to use for irrigation water from any well developed on the tract by the Riverside company. The water from the property, on which there is now a well which was flowing 150 inches last summer, will probably be in turn sold to the city of Riverside, which has the legal right to take 300 inches allotted it by the compromise which ended the San Bernardino-Riverside water litigation of fifteen years ago.

The Riverside Water Company, hich has a right to take 2810 inches out of the Antil basin, last week submitted an offer to the city of Riverside to sell a 200-inch right in the Antil district for $100,000. The proposal was laid before the Riverside City Council by Mayor Joseph S. Long. No decision was announced.

The property on which the Riverside Water Company acquired water rights from Mr. Eastood lies at the southwest corner of Sixth street and Tippecanoe, all of which is water-bearing land.

Hats Pitched Into Ring at San Fernando

SAN FERNANDO, March 13.—Following announcement that the bond election of $100,000 for the building of a new City Hall here had been defeated overwhelmingly, Councilmanic candidates for the next election have thrown their hats into the ring. They have purposely delayed, not caring to commit themselves on the City Hall proposition until the matter had been decided.

Those who have filed are J. C. Maclay, E. B. Roberts and F. E. Strader, incumbent. C. Kosin filed about ten days ago, apparently not disturbed over the City Hall question.

The local City Council has selected April 14, next, as the date of the coming election. Councilmen whose terms expire this spring are C. W. Judy, Charles W. Waite and Strader. Judy and Waite as yet have not expressed intention of standing for re-election.

BAD MONEY PASSES IN ELSINORE

Counterfeiters Sow Fake Silver Dollars in Many Places of Business There

ELSINORE, MARCH 13.—This city yesterday was selected by counterfeiters as a field for sowing spurious "silver" dollars and today, reports said, nearly a score of the worthless coins had been detected by merchants and bankers in the day's grist. It appeared probable several others that went through the banking processes yesterday may be discovered today.

Identity of the successful agents of the counterfeiters, if not they themselves, remained undetermined last night, the genuineness of their coins making immediate detection not likely. Federal authorities were notified and are expected to make an investigation of the fake issue.

At none of the stores and other places of business victimized with the counterfeited money were authorities able to locate any clerk who remembered receiving the coins from any certain person.

L. A. F. Maes, manager of the Alpha Beta stores here, it is believed the first merchant to have discovered the presence of the bogus money with the genuine. Something attracted his attention to the coins as he was sacking the day's change and he made a more minute study of the supposed dollars. They had a fairly good "ring" and looked greatly like the real dollar excepting that the metal on the outer edges was course, Maes said. A hardening metal had been added to provide the "ring," one of the supposed tests of good money.

Maes found three in his day's money sack and it was reported that other merchants received two and three of the spurious coins during the day.

One local store took in two of the dollars, evidently made by the same die last week, it is understood.

Color Films to be Made of Freesia Farm

SAN FERNANDO, March 13.—Gates of the Frey freesia farm of forty acres, said to be the largest of its kind in the world, were thrown open yesterday to tourists and other visitors.

The farm is on Sayre avenue, between the city of San Fernando and the United States Veterans' Hospital, with J. F. Fitzpatrick, manager, in charge. About twenty of the acres are in full bloom. The blossoms on the ranch will continue to be at their best for three or four weeks, Mr. Fitzpatrick states. Most of the acreage is a beautiful panorama of blended tints.

Some time during the week cameramen from the Paramount studios will take color pictures of the huge garden. Girls from the senior class of the local high school will pose among the flowers.

RIVERSIDE, March. 13.—If Diogenes were still looking for his honest man, Traffic Officer Hastings perhaps would put him in touch with a likely candidate.

Last Sunday Hastings was in the police station when a man named Monroe Terrill of 512 South San Pedro street walked in and applied at random in the station for a loan of 35 cents, explaining that he had ridden this far with a man driving toward the Imperial Valley and that when he put his hand in a pocket to pay for a ticket back to Los Angeles on the interurban he found that he lacked 35 cents of having the fare

Hastings tossed out a 50-cent piece and forgot about it, considering it a loan to the needy. The man asked the officer's name before leaving. Today Hastings received by mail a money order for the amount of the loan.

OLD DIRECTORY SHOWS GAINS IN POPULATION

VAN NUYS, March 13.—W. H. Bischoff who has just returned here from a trip to the desert, while rummaging around an old shack found a business and professional directory of Los Angeles and surrounding towns. The volume bore the date 1914. It contained only 160 pages, showing the development of the Los Angeles area within the last sixteen years. The new directory of San Fernando Valley now being distributed by the Polk company contains 1042 pages.

"FLYING TACKLE" SUCCEEDS

George Stonecipher, Former Hoosier High School Grid Star, Captures Fleeing Burglary Suspect

PASADENA, March 13.—Running up a dark alley late last night, George Stonecipher, former South Bend (Ind.) High School football star, made a flying tackle and captured Harry A. Tracy of 1554 Forrest avenue, who was jailed on charges of burglarizing the New York Loan Company's store at 33 South Fair Oaks avenue.

After knocking Tracy down with a vicious tackle, Stonecipher wrestled with him and had succeeded in obtaining a commanding position upon the fugitive's chest when Motorcycle Officers Lunt and Ludlow took the prisoner into custody.

Tracy, a husky 30-year-old wire lineman, was charged with cutting the glass from the store window and taking six pairs of binoculars from the display stock. The instruments were recovered from Tracy's automobile and returned to the store proprietor, A. I. Venner.

Stonecipher, who was driving on West Green street, saw a man dash up an alley between Green street and Colorado street. Suspecting something was wrong, the former football player drove quickly to the Colorado-street entrance of the alley, where police officers who had been notified of the burglary were parking their car.

Not waiting to explain the situation to the officers, Stonecipher dashed down the passageway and "got his man."

A reward of $100 offered by an insurance company probably will be split between Stonecipher and persons who sounded an alarm when they saw Tracy run from the store with a bundle in his arms.

TWO EGGS HAVE JUST ONE YOLK

Restaurant Man Puzzled as He Turns 'Em Over to Find Essential Parts Missing

SANTA BARBARA, March 13.—The question when is an egg not an egg is more perplexing to George Mikos, local restaurant man, than why does a chicken cross the road? He propounded the question here today when he broke two hen fruit in the pan.

"Two over easy" came the order from the waitress, and George straightway reached into the egg basket and brought forth two white-shelled fruit. He broke them in the pan and went about his business until time for the turning.

He looked into the pan. He looked on the floor. He looked under the stove. Only one egg was in the pan. There was a surplus of white but only one yolk in the pan, and George is still pondering "when is an egg not an egg?"

His only answer is that when the egg maker put one of the eggs together a yolk was missing in the hurry.

BOOTLEG BLAMED IN DEATH

Coroner's Jury Brings in Verdict on Demise of Man Believed Liquor Victim

SAN BERNARDINO, March 13.—San Bernardino county dry officers today were continuing investigation into the death of Rudolph Mros, 27 years of age, who died early yesterday from "overdrinking what is commonly known as bootleg whisky," according to the verdict of a Coroner's jury.

Two suspected bootleggers, Tom Hernandez and R. E. Speck, were questioned at the inquest, both denying that they sold the liquor which caused Mros's death. Hernandez and Speck were arrested for the asserted sale of liquor to operatives after the officers had been informed by Mros's companions that they had purchased the liquor from Speck, who, in turn, had obtained it from Hernandez.

Mros drank heavily of the liquor Tuesday night, his companions testified. He was found dead on the following morning and an autopsy revealed traces of wood alcohol in his stomach.

Hernandes and Speck will be charged with manslaughter if it can be determined beyond doubt that they sold the liquor which killed Mros, according to Deputy Sheriff J. A. Larson, in charge of the investigation.

PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR ORGANIZED PLAY

UPLAND, March 13.—Leaders of boy and girl work for the community, including Upland, Etiwanda, Fontana and Cucamonga, have set in action a program to provide facilities for organized play and recreation, equal to those found in larger cities. Plans for the work were outlined at a meeting of boy and girl workers at the Sycamores last night, over which P. H. McQuillen, prominent pharmacist, presided. McQuillen is assisted in launching the program by Miss Clara Bissell, in charge of girls' work in Chaffey district; A. O. Alderson of Pomona, Old Baldy Council Boy Scout executive, and others. A drive for finances is proposed for the near future. Budget needs are now being studied.

TANKER WRECKS VENTURA WHARF

Mystery Crash Follows Just as Ship Completes Cargo

Notwithstanding Calm Sea, Vessel Rams Structure

Damage Estimated at $15,000 to Craft, $2000 to Pier

VENTURA, March 13.—The Union Oil Company's tanker Oleum last night rammed into the end of the Ventura Wharf and Warehouse Company's pier, ripped out seventeen of the pier's sixty-five-foot pilings, and scattered them, broken, along the beach, and crashed in one side of the ship, doing estimated damage of $15,000 to the boat and $2000 to the wharf.

The Oleum, under the command of Capt. Collier, had taken aboard its capacity of cargo of 32,000 barrels of oil, and was preparing to sail for Martinez, where the Shell Oil Company's refineries are located. In a calm sea, and with no evident reason for any difficulty, she drifted up close to the wharf and in a clumsy list crashed into it. Besides tearing out the pilings, a chute carrying an oil line was seriously damaged.

PILINGS SMASHED

The pilings forming the superstructure of the wharf at the far end were broken to bits, and one big pile lay horizontally over the stern of the ship. The railing, bridge and deck of the tanker on the damaged side were razed, and the ship, instead of heading for Martinez, went direct to San Pedro to go into dry dock for repairs. Fear was expressed by wharf hands that the botto mof the Oleum was dented.

C. P. Chaffee, wharf master, said today that it will take about two weeks to repair the wharf, as the entire ocean end will have to be taken out to drive in the new piles. The long piles, which are of creosoted Douglas fir, cost about $100 apiece after they are driven in place, he declared.

Capt. Collier was commander of a subchaser during the World War.

'Trade Value' of Lot Defined by Superior Judge

SANTA BARBARA, March 13.—When real-estate agents tried to inject testimony as to "trade value" of a lot in a suit against Rev. Tom B. Clark, Christian minister and chairman of the city police and fire commission, Judge Pat Parker in Superior Court today dismissed it from the records with the quip that "trade value depended on how smart you are and how dumb the other party is."

Although there might be only $200 difference in the price and little, if any difference, in the location, a citizen is entitled to the lot he thought he bought, or the purchase contract is void and the real-estate dealer who also might have been a bit hazy about the exact location of the lot, is entitled to the down payment, Judge Parker ruled.

Judge Parker handed down his decision in a suit brought by A. P. Kramer against Rev. Clark, chairman of the city police and fire commission, for failure to complete a purchase contract on a lot in Garcia Heights.

Clark maintained that Kramer showed him one lot and gave him a deed to another when the down payment was made. Kramer testified he was a bit indefinite on the location and told the minister so when he showed him the property. A dozen real-estate men were called to help straighten out the tangle and to testify as to the value and investment merits of the two lots.

Parent to Head Kansas Alumni

INGLEWOOD, March 12.—Frank D. Parent, real-estate dealer and leading citizen of this city, was signally honored recently by the graduates of the University of Kansas who reside in Southern California, when they elected him to the office of president of the University of Kansas Alumni Association of Southern California.

This organization has a membership of 600 and will devote its efforts largely during the coming year to increasing that number, as many graduates of the university have come to California in recent years and have not yet identified with the organization. The annual meeting, at which Parent was elected was held in the banquet hall of the Alexandria Hotel, and other officers elected were Chester A. Smith, vice-president, and Miss Ellen M. Brunner, secretary. Smith is widely known and is prominently identified with the engineering profession. He is manager of the Burns-McDonnell-Smith Engineering Company. Miss Brunner is a teacher in the local public schools. Parent is widely known as a civic leader in Los Angeles county. He has served two terms as president of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce, two terms as president of the Inglewood Realty Board, and was for many years a member of the Inglewood Union High School Board.

Hosana Song Not Hymn Tune but All About Him

UPLAND, March 13.—Two comely young ladies were thought to be singing the praises of Hosana today as they jogged over the countryside in a little roadster automobile.

The Hosana they were chanting about happened to be Jose Hosana, local Filipino. Late yesterday after Jose finished his day's work, he got into his little roadster and went for a ride. The two young girls here asked him for a ride and being accommodating, he picked them up and they rode to San Bernardino. When he went into a drug store at San Bernardino, at their request, for cigarettes, the girls drove away with his car, he reported to police. The girls singing the Hosana song were sought today.

MILITIA COMPANY TO ENTER STATE GUARD

ONTARIO, March 13.—Having recruited the required number, Co. G, local National Guard unit, will probably be mustered into State service within a few days, Anson Smalley, captain of the company, announced today. The full quota of recruits is awaiting word from the Adjutant-General for date of the mustering-in ceremony, which will take place on the lighted tennis courts at Chaffey Union High School, or, if weather is inclement, in Ontario American Legion Hall. Two other officers are to be selected soon to make up the complement of officers for the company.

PASADENA, March 13.—Bringing to this country many of the most celebrated honors in dogdom, Sanda Surprise, famous wire-haired fox terrier owned by Mrs. H. A. Beilgard, Los Angeles fancier, arrived home yesterday from a triumphal tour of the British Isles, where he captured the highest awards in three leading dog shows. The canine celebrity reached here just in time to be entered in the dog show here, opening today, where he will compete against the dog aristocracy of the Southland, as well as against some outstanding importations.

Five weeks ago Sanda Surprise captured first award in the famous dog show in Dublin. The following week he again placed first against all breeds at Southport, Eng., and then, to leave no doubts in anyone's mind that he is the real aristocrat of dogdom, he entered the show at Hartlepool, Eng., and was again pronounced the best entry of all breeds.

Not content with the sweeping honors acquired overseas, Sanda Surprise stopped off at Portland, Or., on his homeward journey and added still further laurels at the recent dog show in that city by receiving the first award against all breeds.

M. H. Robertson, well-known trainer, is entering the Beilgard dog at the Pasadena show.

Inquest Finds Drowning Cause of Leipsic Death

REDLANDS, March 13.—A Coroner's jury here today found that Aaron Leipsic, pioneer merchant of the city, came to his death "from drowning in a reservoir of the city water department in Roosevelt Canyon, sometime during the morning of March 12, 1930."

Police and other city officials testified as to the discovery that a car had been broken through the barbed wire fence and gone into the reservoir, which at the center is thirty feet deep; of how the car was dragged out and the body of Leipsic, still behind the wheel, found in it. There was no indication that the brakes of the car had been set but the gears were in neutral.

It developed at the inquest that Leipsic left his home near the Country Club about 11 a.m. and that he said he was going to Banning and get back in time for the Kiwanis Club meeting, he hoped. None of the employees of the pumping plant saw the car go into the water and as it happened no one was near on the highway.

Leipsic, in his long years of merchandising here, has played a prominent part in all civic affairs. For many years he has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce and has been president of that and the Business Men's Association. He was always active in community affairs.

ANOTHER DIES AT CROSSING

Santa Ana's Bloodiest Intersection Adds Los Angeles Man, J. W. Robertson, to List of Victims

SANTA ANA, March 13.—To the bloody history of Santa Ana's deadliest railroad crossing, that of the Pacific Electric on West Seventeeth street, early today was added a new page, with J. W. Robertson, 35 years of age, of Los Angeles, listed as the latest crash victim, his life snuffed out when his light coupe was ground under the wheels of a freight train.

Robertson, said to be en route home from San Juan Capistrano, where he had called upon a friend, Miss Florence Livesey, was believed to have been driving rapidly as he approached the crossing and apparently failed to observe the approach of the southbound freight.

His mangled body was so entangled with the twisted wreckage of his car that it could not be extricated from beneath the train for some time. It was removed to the Harrell and Brown undertaking establishment.

Robertson leaves two brothers, DeWitt Robertson of Graham, Tex., and Hulette Robertson, 303 Lewis street, Flint, Mich., also a niece, Annie Bell of Coffeyville, Miss.

DeWitt Springmeyer, 7 years of age, of 424 Pine street, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Springmeyer, received a fractured skull late yesterday when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Harmon Summer, 637 Riverine street, at the intersection of Garfield and Third streets.

PAIR HELD FOR TRIAL IN SLAYING

Herring and Fulton Given Preliminary Hearing on Leslie Death Charges

Joseph (Cockeye) Herring and Morris Fulton were held for Superior Court trial on murder charges growing out of the shooting of Robert Leslie, asserted bootlegger, at the conclusion of their preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Turney yesterday. They were denied bail pending trial.

Herring was identified by James J. Murphy, seriously wounded and now in Angelus Hospital, as the man who did the shooting. Police officers called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman during the hearing read an asserted confession by Herring in which he said that he expected to get $50 from Fulton for beating up Leslie and Murphy. When he encountered the two men in front of 842 Clinton street on February 26, last, they defied him and dared him to shoot, he said, whereupon he started shooting. Leslie died the same night at Georgia - street Receiving Hospital.

Murphy and other witnesses also testified as to bad blood between himself, Leslie and Fulton and told of threats made by Fulton to "get" the two men.

Retirement Sale Launched Today by Blackstones

The N. B. Blackstone Company announced its retirement from business yesterday after thirty-four years of continuous merchandising. Established in 1896 as an exclusive dry-goods store by the late N. B. Blackstone and occupying small quarters on Spring street, the business expanded and kept pace with the rapid growth of Los Angeles until it occupied a prominent place as one of the leading department stores in the city.

Due to new plans by the present owners, the entire stock at Broadway and Ninth street is to be closed out. Starting today more than 750 employees will be used to accommodate those expected to attend the liquidation sale which will last until all goods are sold.

Girl Fails to Get Verdict for Her Damaged Knees

The jury that peeped at the scarred knees of Miss Janet McMillan in Superior Judge Sproul's court Tuesday evidently was not impressed by the extent of her injuries, which she claimed to have suffered in an automobile accident. At least, it so appeared from the jury's verdict, on file yesterday.

Miss McMillan at first didn't want to show the jury of men and women her scars, but finally consented when the judge told her it was the only way to avoid a nonsuit in the case. After several hours' deliberation, a verdict was returned for the defendant in the case, Austin D. Seed, whose automobile, it was asserted, had injured Miss McMillan.

RECIPES FOR LENTEN DISHES TO BE SHOWN

Every housewife who wishes to learn something new for Lenten dishes should attend the Los Angeles Times' Cooking School at 2 o'clock today for all the dishes which Chef Wyman will prepare are suitable for menus during Lent. She will make a fish loaf, a vegetable salad and fried deviled eggs and will demonstrate two desserts—a prune whip pie and orange blossoms, which are cup cakes with orange icing. Everyone is invited to attend this free class, which is held in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

VICTORY FOR INDIAN WON IN SENATE

Word of Appropriation Ballot Received by Club Leader Here

An important victory that will mean much to the Indians of California and the Southwest generally if it can be fully realized was won yesterday in Washington when the Senate increased the deficiency appropriation for food and clothing for Indian children to $1,370,000.

Word of the great benefaction for the Indians was received from Washington by Stella M. Atwood of Riverside, for years chairman of the Indian welfare committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and legislative adviser for the Indian Defense League. John Collier, executive secretary of the league, wired Mrs. Atwood that the Senate revision allotted the emergency Indian fund as follows: food, $480,000; clothing, $200,000; new personnel, $250,000; new equipment, $350,000; food for this summer, $40,000; noonday lunches in the Indian schools, $50,000.

The friends of the American Indian had been led to believe earlier in the session that this appropriation would be taken care of. According to Mrs. Atwood, however, Representative Crampton of Michigan, was responsible for a tremendous cut in the appropriation. It looked as though all was lost until the Senate took its humane action yesterday.

"What all of us must do now, particularly in California where we have so many needy Indians, is to see that the House follows the Senate and votes this appropriation," said Mrs. Atwood. She asked that everyone write to his Congressman urging support of the appropriation.

DESPERATE REALTY MAN KILLS SELF

Suicide of C. C. Gormly Laid to Money Worries and Liquor Charge

Financial reverses and worry over his scheduled appearance in court on a charge of being intoxicated in an automobile were the reasons, police believe, why Charles C. Gormly, 63 years of age, local real-estate man, ended his life yesterday. Gormly slashed both wrists with a razor blade and then jumped or fell from a second-story fire escape at 1214 South Hoover street. His head struck the pavement, causing the injury which resulted in his death at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital half an hour later.

Gormly, according to police records, was taken into custody for being intoxicated in an automobile at Twelfth and Figueroa streets last Tuesday. He was released on $100 bail and was scheduled to appear in court at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Gormly lived with his two sons, James P. and Charles, Jr. Both attend school, the latter at the University of Southern California. Their home is at 1300 South Hoover street.

Dancer Held for Desertion of Baby Girl

Accused of abandoning her infant daughter, Mrs. Betty McFarland, alias Betty O'Mere Evans, taxi dancer, 23 years of age, yesterday was bound over for trial in Superior Court under bail of $500 following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Ballard.

Testimony was introduced to the effect that Mrs. McFarland deserted her baby when the child was about a month old, leaving it at the Ruth Sanatorium in Compton. The woman offered no defense in court.

Letters offering to adopt the child have been received by Judge Ballard and Mrs. McFarland. In a letter to the judge, Mrs. C. W. Varney, Jr., 3018 Poplar avenue, Alhambra, sought the adoption of the child in behalf of friends. A letter to the mother from Mary M. Smith, 115-D South Catalina street, Redondo Beach, offered the baby a home.

DISPLAY OF HEALTH PRODUCTS SOUGHT

The Exposition of Resources and Industries of Southern California has invited Mrs. Rose Wilke, president of the Vital Food Company, manufacturers of V. P. O., to display the company's various products in the show building at Exposition Park. Mrs. Wilke is known as a natural food specialist and lecturer. Her health products are widely distributed throughout the United States and also in foreign countries.

DELAY VOIDS DRIVER'S PLEA

Because Thomas Riga, truck driver, convicted on a manslaughter charge, failed to take the necessary steps in an appeal within five days from the filing of an appeal notice, the defendant is unable to obtain a hearing before the District Court of Appeal, the tribunal said in a decision handed down yesterday. Walter Sarbo was the victim of the accident out of which Riga's case grew.

WEDDING-DAY FIGHTER PAYS FIDDLER IN COURT

Found guilty on a battery complaint preferred by Joe Mingo, newspaper photographer, Ernest Westmore, hairdresser and make-up man employed by R.-K.-O. studios, yesterday was given his choice, by Judge Leonard Wilson in Municipal Court, of paying a $100 fine or spending twenty-five days in jail. He paid the fine.

The complaint against Westmore grew out of his wedding to Ethlyne Clair, Wampas baby star, at the West Hollywood Presbyterian Church, February 21, last. As the make-up man and his bride reached the steps of the church, following the ceremony, a process server handed Westmore a summons in contempt of court proceedings, involving $1700 alimony arrears, instituted by the first Mrs. Westmore. The process server was trailed by Westmore's 7-year-old daughter, Muriel, who stretched forth her arms in gesture of appeal to her daddy.

At that moment, Mingo took a flashlight photograph of the scene. Plainly angered, Westmore knocked the camera to the ground and, according to the complaint, attacked the photographer. The combatants were separated by reporters.

AID TO SCHOOL SEEN IN RADIO

Educators Doubt it Will be More Than Accessory

Value Viewed as Similar to That of Motion Picture

KHJ Gives Promise of New and Distinctive Offering

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m.: Dr. Philip M. Lovell, editor "Care of the Body." World-wide news at 12:30, 4:45 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

According to some educators who have been studying the subject, radio broadcasting for educational purposes eventually will be found to have the same value as motion pictures—that is, helpful to the teacher as an accessory, but not acceptable as a major means of instruction.

The difficulty of focusing children's attention on the words of an unseen speaker is given as one of the handicaps in the matter of radio instruction. The holding of attention, one of the problems encountered by every teacher, is difficult under any conditions, particularly in the case of a subject in which children have little personal interest.

EARLY IDEA OF FILMS

Educators who are seeking means of utilising radio as an adjunct to textbook instruction recall that not many years ago motion pictures were heralded as the ideal means of teaching, since they would instruct visually, the idea being that the children would retain more of what they saw than what they heard. This may have been true, but it soon became apparent that pictures could be no more than a supplement to the customary method of teaching. Now, while schools in many cities use motion pictures to greater or less extent, they are largely for the purpose of arousing interest in a subject or showing pictorially what the textbook describes.

There are, it is conceded, some subjects which can be taught satisfactorily by radio but, generally speaking, they are not major subjects. For adult education, radio is efficient, since a person of mature years who studies does so for a specific purpose, but as the age of the pupil diminishes the difficulties of instilling knowledge increase.

The ideal method, it is felt, is combined oral and visual instruction, hoped eventually to be achieved by television.

The requirements include two years' service as fireman for promotion to auto fireman, two years for auto firemen for promotion to engineers, four years for firemen, auto firemen and engineers to captain, four years for captains to battalion chiefs, four years for battalion chiefs to assistant chiefs, and four years for assistant chiefs to deputy chiefs.

Film Director's Wife Granted Divorce Decree

When Ammon Sherman, motion-picture director, got mad he broke up dishes and threw things, Mrs. Dorothy Sherman, his wife, testified yesterday before Superior Judge Tryon when asking for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

Once Sherman got terribly angry at her, broke up dishes and then hurled a water glass which struck a guest, she said.

"He has an ungovernable and an uncontrollable temper," Mrs. Sherman declares. She was granted a decree of divorce, the custody of a minor child and $80 a month for its support.

Wife Tells Tale of Tragedy and Wins Decree

Mrs. Evelyn N. Farrar's story of domestic tragedy that culminated in the suicide of her 15-year-old son won her a divorce from her husband, B. D. Farrar, in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday.

Mrs. Farrar testified that her husband boasted that he drank two quarts of gin daily.

"And his continual drunkenness not only grieved me deeply, but our boy tried to reform his father and failed. Then he killed himself in a fit of despondency."

Enlarged Gland Blamed in Death

After an autopsy performed yesterday, Autopsy Surgeon Wagner reported that Miss Alva Taylor, 43 years of age, 458¼ Isabel street, died of natural causes. Dr. Wagner gave the cause of death as an enlarged thymus gland in the woman's throat.

She died Wednesday night in General Hospital, while undergoing an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE LAID TO DESPONDENCY

Despondency over his ability to obtain work is believed by deputy sheriffs to have been the cause of John Hill, 38 years of age, of 1608 East Seventy-sixth street, yesterday morning attempting suicide by shooting himself in the abdomen. Hill shot himself while sealed in the front room of his home. He was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical.

LEADER OF SECT DENIED NEW TRIAL

Attorney Files Notice of Appeal as Judge Passes One-to-Ten-Year Sentence

Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, leader of the Divine Order of the Royal Arms of the Great Eleven, yesterday lost her fight for a new trial when Superior Judge Fricke overruled her attorney's motion on this matter.

Thomas W. Cochran, the woman's attorney, filed an oral notice of appeal from the judge's ruling.

Mrs. Blackburn was then sentenced to from one to ten years in San Quentin prison on each of eight counts of grand theft to be served concurrently.

The woman was convicted of appropriating funds contributed to the religious order by Clifford R. Dabney and converting them to her own use.

Memory Lapse of Girl in Taxi Told to Police

Mental blankness for thirteen hours was reported yesterday by Eva Broderick, 24 years of age, 2810 Leeward avenue, who was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital by her mother, Mrs. Ethel Broderick. Hospital records relate that the young woman apparently was in a hysterical condition. She told Policewoman Shriner that she was standing with two other girls at Broadway and Seventh street Wednesday evening, when she became faint. The next thing she remembers is of awakening in a taxicab at Ninth and Hoover streets yesterday morning.

A police check-up located a taxi driver, M. Burke, who said he picked the girl up at Sixth and Olive streets at 7:45 a.m. yesterday, and that she coherently ordered him to drive to her home. At Ninth and Hoover streets, she got out, Burke said. His meter record bore out his report. Miss Broderick was sent home in charge of her mother.

Western Lines Must Turn in Briefs by September 15

Freight Agent Last Witness in Resharing Fight

Testimony on Increased Costs Rebutted

All briefs on the application of western trunk lines for an increased share of transcontinental freight divisions must be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by September 15, Examiner Disque, of the commission, said yesterday after representatives of the systems affected had completed presentation of testimony and exhibits. The hearing was held in the Alexandria.

Western trunk lines, operating between the Missouri River and Chicago, were given until September 1 to file their statements and the transcontinental carriers until September 15 to present their replies.

B. F. Parsons, general freight agent of the Chicago and Great Western Railroad, was the last witness to testify in the case. He took the stand to rebut testimony of transcontinental railroad representatives as to the operating costs of the various lines. The transcontinental lines contend that they are subject to charges, such as gathering costs and increased operating costs because of mountain grades and curves, from which the western trunk lines are free.

The Los Angeles hearing was called to accumulate data on comparative conditions in the period between 1925, when a hearing was adjourned in the Middle West, and the present time. After the adjourned hearing in 1925, the railroads agreed among themselves to increased payments of between 10 and 15 per cent to the western trunk lines.

TUNE IN ON CHRIST'S LOVE, BISHOP URGES

Declaring that Jesus was the flower of evolution, Bishop William H. Moreland of Sacramento, in his noon address at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday, said it is possible for all human beings to attain Christ-consciousness.

"God is as personal as the man who stands at the microphone and His love is as impersonal and universal as the voice of a radio speaker," said Bishop Moreland. "He has chosen no race or people but freely, gladly gives Himself to all who tune the receiving sets of their souls to hear His song eternal. The cosmic significance of Christ is that He is redeeming this world—and I believe that He will redeem the inhabitants of all worlds and that by and by the citizens of every star in the universe shall rest in His bosom.

"It was not so much that God chose the Jews as the race through which He should make Himself manifest by incarnating as a perfect man, but that the Jews chose God," said the speaker. "More earnestly than any other race had the Hebrews sought to know the spirit of life, and thus did they prepare for God a suitable medium for the expression of His love. The Jews worshiped God as righteousness, the Greeks saw Him as beauty, the Persians as light, the Egyptians as immortality and the Hindus as spirit—but Jesus summed up all these divine characteristics in love. He is the epitome of all revelations, the sun of splendor that warms the world."

Demurrer Fight in Julian Suit to End Next Week

Arguments on demurrer in the Julian stockholders' recovery action which have been under way in Superior Judge Tappaan's court for more than a week went over until next Monday morning with the close of a four-day argument by Attorney Guy R. Crump in behalf of the plaintiffs yesterday. He will be followed by Joseph Lewinson, also for the stockholders, and reply will be made by a number of lawyers for the defendants.

This portion of the action which first was called by Judge Tappaan more than a month ago is expected to end early next week.

MOTORCYCLE MEN URGED

The Citizens' Traffic Safety Committee yesterday asked the City Council to authorize the purchase of an additional fifty motorcycles and direct the selection of a squad of policemen to mount them, the purpose being stricter enforcement of the traffic laws. The Council transmitted this matter to its Traffic and Lighting Committee.

LOS ANGELES WATER BOND VOTE URGED

Additional Supply Needed for City to Grow, Head of Campaign Tells Citizens

Water has made Los Angeles the fourth city in the United States, it was stressed yesterday by S. C. Graham, chairman of the Citizens' Water Bond Campaign Committee, in urging all voters to support the proposed bond issue of $38,800,000. He asserted that this city will continue to grow if more water is made available.

Because of the city's present available water supply of 18,800 miner's inches constant flow, 1,500,000 persons have made Los Angeles their home, he emphasized. The presence of this population has created practically the entire aggregate value of all the land in the city, Graham continued. If the land value is $3,000,000,000, he added, the value created amounts to $2000 per capita of the population.

The $38,800,000 bond issue will make available an additional 10,000 miners inches constant flow, Graham said, which will provide for an additional population of 800,000 or more. He said:

"With a population of 2,300,000, the value of land in this city will be not less than $4,600,000,000. That is, the proposed bond issue of $38,800,000, if carried, will result eventually in an increased land value alone of not less than $1,600,000,000. Even if the property owners were called upon eventually to pay the $38,800,00 0bonds, which they never will be, it appears to me that it would be a tremendously good investment."

SUIT IN STUDIO BREAK LOOMS

sacrifice my career in pictures by doing it," she said last night.

"My reputation as an actress has been injured by their actions and attitude and my attorney will bring suit to break the contract and for damages for this injury for removing me from the cast. I was promised an increase of $500 in my salary and this was never forthcoming. I intend to sue for this also.

The trouble began Wednesday, Miss Nolan asserted, when she complained to Ernest Laemmle, director of the picture, about leaving her out of some close-ups in which other members of the cast appeared. She says she sent her complaint to Laemmle, Jr.

On hearing of this, she charges, Director Laemmle upbraided her in such a manner as to cause her collapse on the set. She says her maid had to call her private physician to attend her. The trouble was climaxed yesterday when she appeared for work, she says, and Laemmle, Jr., and other executives refused to allow her on the set.

Last night Miss Nolan said she had placed the matter entirely in the hands of her attorney and that she is leaving Hollywood immediately for New York.

Miss Nolan formerly was known as Imogene Wilson, New York show girl, whose friendship with Frank Tinney, interrupted several times by Mrs. Tinney and then resumed, finally ended in Tinney's retirement from the stage. Miss Wilson left Broadway and came to Hollywood when her name was changed and she became a film hit.

'Farmer' Page Pays Fine on Liquor Charge

Pleading guilty to possession of a half-pint bottle containing liquor, Milton (Farmer) Page yesterday paid a $75 fine imposed by Municipal Judge Curtis. His bail forfeiture, ordered by Judge Curtis when he failed to appear for arraignment on Monday, last, was set aside when his attorney, Joseph L. Fainer, produced a doctor's certificate showing that Page was ill at the time.

Page was arrested in a police raid on an asserted gambling den at 710 South Broadway Saturday. The officers reported that he had a bottle of liquor in his pocket at the time.

He is stopping at the Gaylord. His sermon Sunday will be on "Christ in His Church."

At the Junipero Serra dinner he is announced to speak on "Revering the Saints." Other speakers announced for the dinner are Prof. J. HIGHWAY NEEDS TO BE STUDIED

Plan Tour of Ten Southern Counties

Outlining State Chamber Survey

Miss Marjorie Crawford of Hollywood and Wallace S. Woodworth, chairman of the highway committee of the southern council of the California State Chamber of Commerce.

SIXTY-FIVE representative Southern California citizens, interested in the highway development in their respective sections and the State as a whole, will leave Los Angeles Monday for a five-day tour of the ten southern counties, surveying the need for a balanced and adequate distribution of State funds for highways, Wallace S. Woodworth, chairman of the highway committee of the Southern Council of the State Chamber of Commerce, announced last night.

The tour, according to Woodworth, will result in one of the most comprehensive reports on Southern California highway needs that the State government will have been given to date.

"Not only," said Woodworth, "is the committee determined to see that Southern California receives an equitable share of future additions to the State highway system, but it is going to make sure that each individual section in the ten southern counties has full recognition of its particular needs."

The tour, inaugurated by the State chamber at the request of local chambers and other community development groups, will be kept entirely to Southern California's secondary highway system, an object of many years of discussion.

AUTO MAKER OPTIMISTIC

Money Plentiful and Conditions Due to Mental State, Nash Tells Dealers

Discussing freely the problems of the motor-car industry and the present readjustment of economic conditions of the country, Charles W. Nash, one of the greatest of the independent automobile manufacturers, addressed an audience of 350 dealers, salesmen, bankers and finance representatives at a luncheon tendered him yesterday at the Biltmore by the Nash-Breyer Motor Company.

Declaring money to be plentiful, contrary to the condition found at times of financial panics, he declared this period following last fall's stock crash is not one of a money panic. He pictured the conditions today as one of a mental panic with the remedy to be found in aggressive and hard work.

Profits, he said, are to be made by saving of money rather than in the making of money. Illustrating the adoption of this principle in his own plants in Kenosha, Wis., and other cities he said that in October of last year strenuous measures were taken to reduce overhead costs and control production and that the result had brought profits when many competing manufacturers suffered a slump and had overproduced.

Robert E. Breyer presided over the meeting and called on Victor H. Rossetti, vice-president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, and Carl J. Simpson of San Francisco as other speakers.

Last Rites for Atherton Set for Tomorrow

Last rites for Joseph Atherton, member of an old California family, who died Wednesday as a result of a complication of illnesses which had made him an invalid for a year, will be conducted tomorrow at 8:15 a.m. from the family residence, 1110 Third avenue, with requiem mass to follow at 9 a.m. at St. Gregory's Church, Ninth street and Norton avenue. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Atherton, who was 55 years of age, was the husband of Mrs. Amelia Carson Atherton, whose mother was a member of the Dominguez family which has been identified with the history and development of Southern California since its early days. Mr. Atherton was a native of Birmingham, Eng. He retired from active business several years ago. He leaves only his widow.

PARKING LIMITS REQUESTED

A. E. Carpenter yesterday headed a list of petitioners who asked the City Council to restrict parking to one hour on the east side of San Fernando Road from Macon to Division streets. The Council referred the request to the Police Commission and the Traffic and Lighting Committee.

MICHIGAN FOLK TO MEET

Milton R. Parmelee, president, and E. E. Haring, secretary, of the Michigan State Society, have completed plans for the annual picnic to be held tomorrow at Sycamore Grove Park. County registers will be open all day. The program will be featured by the White King quartet.

COUPLE CELEBRATING GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McNeel, arm in arm, walked to the altar and repeated the words of the ceremony that made them man and wife. Today they will relive that event—in memory—by celebrating their golden wedding anniversary with a reception at their home, 2282 Cambridge avenue. Among the guests will be the couple's four children, Mrs. Olive Bolts, Mrs. Hazel Ufer and Mrs. Vivian Hamilton of Los Angeles, and Howard McNeel of Wichita Falls, Tex.

SUBSTATION LOANS GRANTED

The City Council yesterday authorized a loan of $27,000 from the reserve fund for the completion of the police substations at Venice and Hollywood. The money is to be returned to the fund after the sale of some property, it was stated.

ANGELENOS TOLD TO BUY PRODUCTS MADE LOCALLY

If Los Angeles is to continue prosperous, it is up to every Angeleno to buy products manufactured or grown in this community.

That was the keynote of an address by John C. Austin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, last night at the third annual dinner of the Purchasing Agents' Association. His topic was "Industrial Progress and Balanced Prosperity." He pointed out that there are few human needs which cannot be supplied by industries already established here.

The urgent need, he said, is to let the people of Los Angeles know what is made here. Manufacturing standards and the quality of materials are as high as any to be obtained anywhere, he declared, but a large part of the population fails to recognize this fact. He urged the importance of educational advertising to "get 'em in the habit" of buying Los Angeles products.

"If the adage about where charity begins is true," Austin said, "prosperity also begins at home. The responsibility of keeping Los Angeles prosperous rests upon the shoulders of every one of us."

Changed conditions since the close of the World War were cited by John R. Whitehead, president of the National Association of Purchasing Agents. Higher wages, better standards of living and increased dividends, together with lower production costs, he said, might seem an impossible combination, but they have been made possible by the mechanization of industry and mass production. A surplus of labor, he pointed out, largely has been absorbed by introduction of the eight-hour day and the five-day week.

Other speakers on the program were E. F. Watkins, purchasing agent of the Southern California Edison Company, and William G. Scholtz, president of the Sales Managers' Association of Los Angeles. William H. Jackson, president of the Purchasing Agents' Association, acted as chairman. More than 600 attended the dinner.

SMITH CASE TESTIMONY TO CONTINUE

Deposition of Teacher in $100,000 Alienation Suit Admits Earlier Marriage

More testimony will be taken today in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Frances Smith against Frank Smith, the State inheritance tax appraiser, and his wife, parents of her husband, Raymond C. Smith.

Mrs. Smith declares her married romance with young Smith, which began at Carmel-by-the-Sea, was broken up by his father and mother. She is a Brentwood Heights grammar-school teacher.

One of the high lights of the hearing yesterday, which is before a jury in the court of Superior Judge Keetch, was the reading of a deposition taken from Mrs. Smith by defense Attorney Baldwin Robertson. In it she admitted a previous marriage on August 12, 1912, to Herahel Patterson from whom she was later divorced. The defense also contends that Mrs. Smith represented herself as several years younger than she is when she married young Smith.

Bills also were introduced by the defense to show that Mrs. Smith purchased $900 worth of clothing the last month she lived with her young husband.

Mrs. Smith is represented in court by Attorney S. S. Hahn.

GRAND JURY REINDICTS McDONALD

New Action Taken Also Against Nine Others to Clear Up Liquor Case

A new indictment naming Harry McDonald, confessed bootlegger, and Gus Pondgrantz, his asserted partner, and eight other persons whose names were withheld, was returned by the county grand jury yesterday, charging them with conspiracy to manufacture, transport and sell intoxicating liquor.

The same defendants were named in another indictment returned by the 1929 grand jury, but the names of eight of the defendants were disclosed on the indictment only as John Doe.

According to E. J. Dennison, who will try the case in Superior Court, the new indictment was sought merely to eliminate red tape at the trial.

School Boasts Two Winners in Poster Art

Everyone was happy out at the Florence-avenue school yesterday, because the school was honored with two winners in the Tenth District P.-T.A. annual poster contest.

Dora Longuevan of the sixth grade, won first prize in the contest, and Emmett Henerson of the fifth grade, won an honorable mention. This is considered a great honor for the school, inasmuch as more than 200 schools were competing. The contest was for pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The subject upon which the Florence-avenue children concentrated was the children and the P.-T. A. work.

The children did their work under the direction of the elementary art teacher, Natalie Cole. The colors used were largely the brilliant elementary ones, with a full range to choose from, however. After the posters had been completed in crayon, they were shellacked, a process to which only the best were submitted.

Mrs. Harriet Harah is principal of the Florence-avenue school. As a result of the work of the two pupils in placing in the contest, the school was awarded $20 to be spent by the art department.

Child Victim of Auto May Die; Two More Hurt

A 5-year-old girl is believed dying and an aged man and a young woman were seriously injured in a series of traffic accidents yesterday in Los Angeles.

Little hope was offered by police surgeons at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for the recovery of Doris Kerwin, 5 years of age, of 1217 West Ninety-seventh street, who was crushed beneath the wheels of her father's machine as he was backing out of the driveway at his home.

Annabel Jenkins, 18, of 4146½ Monroe street, suffered a fractured spine and possible internal injuries when a machine in which she was riding with Mrs. Bertha J. MacKay, 43, 614 North Jackson street, Glendale, collided with another car at Eagle Rock Boulevard and Avenue 42. Mrs. Mackay's injuries were less serious.

Marshall B. Atwell, 70, 3022 Marathon street, is reported suffering from a skull fracture and internal injuries as the result of being struck by a car said to have been driven by M. A. Eversole, 2366 Edgewater Terrace. The accident occurred near Angelus Temple.

Two women, booked as suspected drunk drivers, gave their names as Mrs. Katherine Lake, 22, 141 North New Hampshire street, and Mrs. Anna West, 35, of 3148 Madera street.

STREET NAME CHANGE ASKED

The City Council yesterday referred to the City Engineer and the City Planning Commission the request of Emil Kirshner and others that the name of Manzanita Drive be restored to the street now known as McGroarty street.

PAYMENT APPROVED

City Attorney Werner yesterday notified the City Council that he approves the payment of $126 for the preparation of plans for ornamental lighting posts in City Hall Park.

CUBS FORM TWO CLUBS FOR GAMES

Chicago Second Team Goes South; Regulars Stay to Face Los Angeles

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

AVALON (Catalina Island, Cal.) March 13.—Activities in the Cub camp today consisted of such exciting incidents as the splitting of the squad for week-end exhibition purposes, a second team being billed to meet the Hollywood team at San Diego, while the regulars are putting on Saturday and Sunday shows at Los Angeles.

BUD TEACHOUT

Outside of this division of talent by Foreman Joe McCarthy, it was just another day of camp life. In the morning the pitchers, hitters and fielders went through the same old motions of training. In the afternoon the same pitchers, hitters and fielders did it all over again. Their efforts to become enthusiastic over this monotonous program weren't assisted any by the cold, cloudy,

STAR ROOKIES TIE REGULARS

Rumler's Homer in Seventh Knots Count, 2 to 2

Tight Pitching is Feature of Practice Tussle

Johns and Hollerson Twirl for Yannigan Squad

SAN DIEGO, March 13.—A home run by Ole Bill Rumler, veteran right-fielder, with Cleo Carlyle, center-fielder on the paths in the last half of the seventh inning saved the Sheiks from defeat at the hands of the near-Sheiks today in the first game this season between the Regulars and the Yannigans of the Hollywood club. Rumler's clout ended the game in a 2-to-2 tie.

BILL RUMLER

Manager Oscar Vitt announced after the tussle that the teams would settle the issue early next week as tomorrow's practice will be devoted to preparations for the series with the Chicago Cubs Saturday and Sunday.

The near-Sheiks put over their two tallies in the opening inning and had the contest in the refrigerator until Carlyle and Rumler brought their war clubs into play. Mike Maloney, second-sacker, doubled, Catina singled and Frank Wetzel, left-fielder, chased both in with a two-bagger to the left-field screen. The Yannigans threatened in the second and again in the third but the Regulars managed to keep them from scoring.

TIGHT PITCHING

Lefty Johns and George Hollerson, both regulars, shared the mound burden for the near-Sheiks, Johns allowing two blows in the four innings he labored. Hollerson yielded three. Glen Brown and Lee Johnson, both right-handed rookies, alternated for the Regulars and were found for seven blows.

Wetzel continued the hitting spree he started in the game Wednesday with Marine Corps Base, rapping out two doubles in three trips to the plate. Hank Severeid, veteran catcher, clouted a double and a single in two times up for the near-Sheiks.

Catina was robbed of what probably would have been a two-bagger in the seventh when Al McNeely, San Diego boy who seems to have made good, pulled a sensational one-handed catch of a drive against the left-field screen. McNeely, who has been stationed at center field all along and looked mighty good as usual, hauled in two other flies during the melee.

Otis Brannon, second baseman, and Carlyle were the only regulars to get more than one blow, Brannon slapping two singles and Carlyle a single and a double.

RUMLER TIES SCORE

At the beginning of the last half of the seventh inning Vitt, who was coaching both teams at third base, announced, "This'll end it." Carlyle stepped to the plate and hammered out a two-bagger and then Rumler came to the front. "Even it up, Bill," Vitt hollered. "O K boss," replied Rumler as he cleared the left-field screen.

With the arrival of Hank Hul-

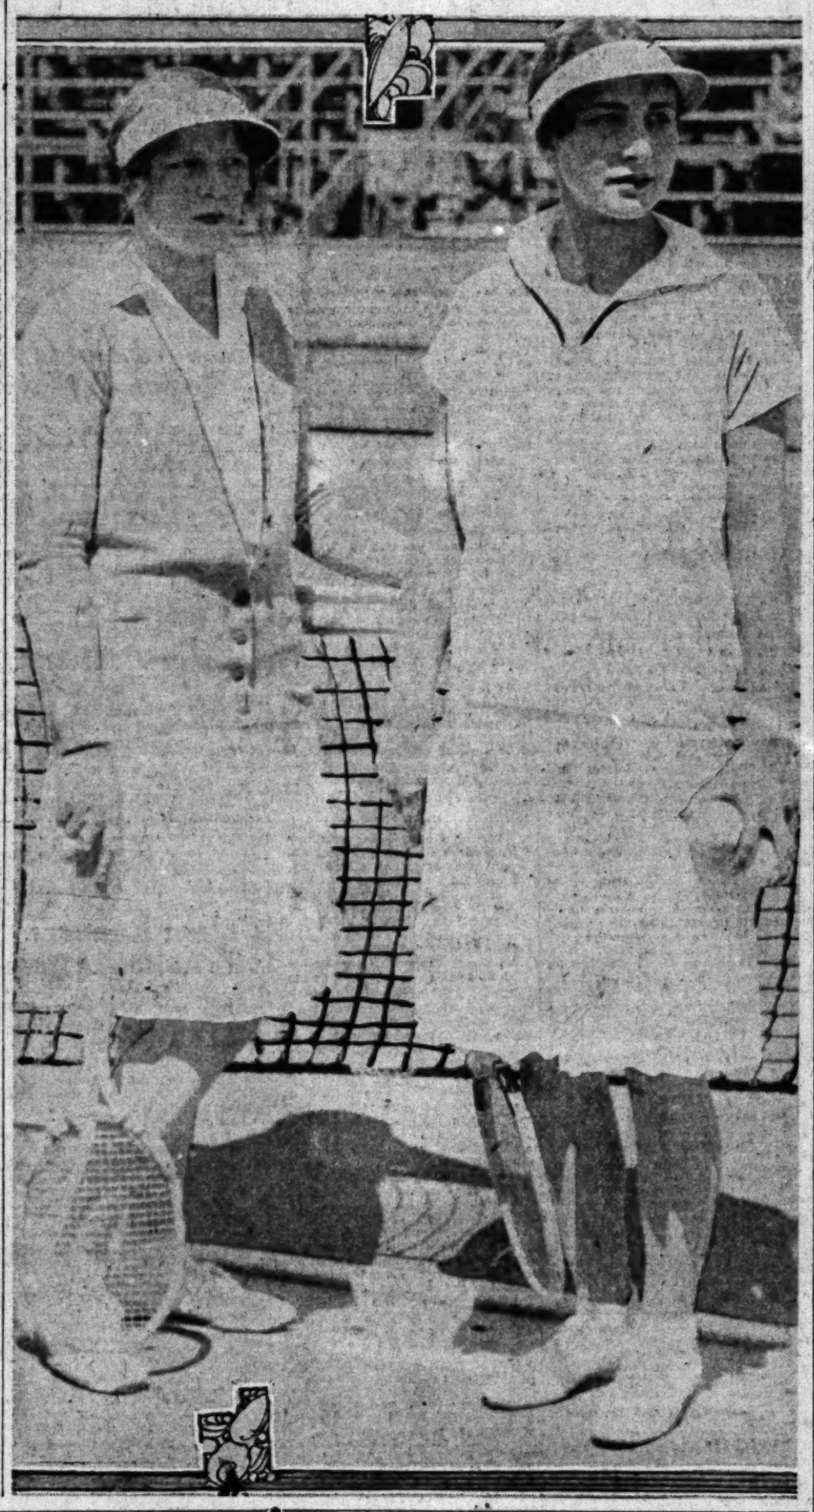
CHAMPION AND A LEADING RIVAL

Here we have Helen Wills Moody (right,) and Edith Cross, both of the north, who are here to participate in the annual midwinter tourney at the Hotel Huntington. Both of these stars were members of the Wightman Cup team last year and toured Europe together. Miss Cross ranks No. 3 in the national rating. They will play through the three-day tourney which starts today.



COURT QUEEN WILL PLAY IN INVITATIONAL MEET

Faces Miss Marlowe in First Match of Huntington Tournament; Many Court Celebrities to Meet

Helen Wills, queen of the tennis courts, arrived at the Glendale station yesterday morning, and was greeted by Stephen Royce and Stanton Welsh, manager and assistant manager of the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena. The famous racket wielder is the feature attraction in the annual Huntington Hotel invitational tennis championships commencing play this morning at 9 o'clock.

Walter Wesbrook, former national clay court doubles champion, and now professional at the Midwick Country Club, in Alhambra, opposed Helen in three practice sets yesterday afternoon. A group of some 100 fans watched the Berkeley star perform. Though no definite scores were announced, Wesbrook perspired noticeably, and was doing a great portion of the running from one side to another of the court.

KEITH GLEDHILL

Edith Cross, third in the national rankings, and Josephine Cruickshank and Ethel Burkehart, Nos. 10 and 8, respectively, also played through several practice sets on the hotel courts. Miss Cross faced Edward Berry of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, Miss Burkehart crossed rackets with Ben Corchakoff of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and Miss Cruickshank played Miss Cross two sets later in the afternoon.

VISITORS TO ARRIVE

This morning at 9:02 o'clock, the Northern contingent of male stars, with the exception of Gerald Stratford, San Francisco, who arrives tomorrow, will alight from the Southern Pacific train, the Lark, at the Glendale station. The visiting players are Bob Sellars and Neil Brown, southwest doubles champion, Phil Neer, former intercollegiate king, and Keith Gledhill, present national junior title-holder.

The grand feature of the day takes place at 2:30 o'clock, when Miss Wills opposes Helen Marlowe, second ranking junior girl player in the United States. The contest should attract a throng of enthusiastic court fans in as much as this is the first appearance of the tennis queen since her recent marriage to Frederick Moody, Jr., of San Francisco, and in addition, her young foe is our most promising Southland junior player.

The second feature of the day is the match between Ethel Burkehart and Midge Gladman, who rank eighth and ninth, respectively, in the United States. Miss Burkehart is playing the best game of any of the visiting women stars with the exception of Helen Wills, and her much sounder ground strokes should defeat her Santa Monica rival unless the latter plays exceptionally brilliant at the net.

The two leading man's singles contests bring together Keith Gledhill and Jack De Lara, at 10 o'clock this morning, and Phil Neer and Sidney Wood, at noon. Gledhill is

Seals Cinch Second Spot in Ice Loop

The San Francisco Seals cinched second place in the California Professional Ice Hockey League standing last night by defeating the Los Angeles Richfields, 6 to 2, at the Winter Garden.

At the end of the second period the score stood 3 to 2. In the final chapter the Richfields cast caution to the winds and tore down on the Seal goal en masse, only to have one of the visitors steal the puck on three different occasions and jaunt back up the ice for an easy goal.

Guy Poole scored unassisted for the Richfields in the first five minutes of play. Art Giroux tied it up a few minutes later, while one of the Oilers was resting in the penalty box, and just before the end of the period Leo Cook sank the puck for a 2-1 lead.

Poole shot a pass to Wilson, who knotted the count shortly after the start of the second period, and after ten minutes of play Giroux scored again on a high shot that tipped the inside corner of the net. Jack Kwasnie, Giroux and Benny Ward scored in the final period, the latter pair taking passes from Ganton Scott for their tallies.

Shell Oilers Take Contest

Managers of the rival Shell Oil and Arrowhead Valley Club ice-hockey teams battled it out at the Palais de Glace last night, and while Patrick of the Club scored three goals, to two for Ernie Miller, the latter's counted most. Which gave Shell a 5-to-4 victory in the second game of the play-off for the Senior Amateur League crown.

Miller scored the winning goal with just three minutes left to play, on a long shot from the center ice. He had tallied in exactly the same fashion earlier in the period. Renaud, Smith and Herbert contributed tallies. Chapman scored the extra goal for the Clubites.

The game score stands one-all, with five tilts remaining, if necessary. The third game will be played Monday night.

SAMOHI NINE WINS

Santa Monica's baseball nine yesterday won a practice game from the university high baseballers by a 7-to-2 score. The game was played on the winners' field and demonstrated the superiority of the beach nine throughout.

Santa Monica Tennis Player Faces Emmet Pare Today in Singles Title Play at Ormond Beach

ORMOND BEACH (Fla.) March 13. (AP)—Gilbert Hall and Emmet Pare teamed to win their quarter-final match in the doubles of the Florida east coast tennis championship today. Their opponents, Nick Polites and Lawrence Salley, representing the University of Florida, finished on the short end of 6-1, 6-0 count.

Johnny Doeg and Gus Feuer were forced to extend themselves to the limit before they could eliminate Kenneth Stewart and Paul Greer, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

JOHN DOEG

Karl Hodge, Missouri champion, and Dick Covington, Asheville, N. C., won the other doubles match defeating Ray Palmer and Russell Kay, Daytona Beach, 6-4, 6-1, while Fred Baggs and Marceline Rainville won their match by default.

Doeg and Pare will meet in the singles finals tomorrow morning and the semifinals doubles will bring together Hall and Pare vs. Dodge and Covington in the upper bracket and Doeg and Feuer vs. Baggs and Rainville in the lower half.

Pare advanced to the final round today, when he defeated Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., who was seeded No. 2, 1-6, 6-2, 6-8, 6-0, 6-1.

Doeg defeated Feuer, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1, to earn the right to meet Pare in the finals tomorrow.

EPINARD YOUNGSTER WINS AGUA CALIENTE CONTEST

AGUA CALIENTE, March 13.—By winning the Lark, a four furlong, $1000 race for two-year-olds exclusively, today, the Nevada stock farm's Siskin, a bay colt by the famous French horse, Epinard, became the favorite for the first Agua Caliente Futurity, which will be run Sunday. J. W. Grant, owned by Allen and Lamb, was second and I. Womach's Flying Ace was third.

Siskin, slow to begin and encountering interference in the early running, moved up hurriedly on the outside coming down the stretch and was going away. Jockey Bobby Morrison's urging brought the colt to the front. A head was the margin of victory for George Wingfield's hope.

The triumph marks the first time in North America that a foal by the star of the international specials has scored. Favorites continued to receive neat lacings today. The results:

First race, five and one-half furlongs—Frank D. (Keiser,) won; Honey Thistle (Owen,) second; Miss Lester (Moran,) third. Time, 1:07.

Second race, one and one-sixteenth miles—Field Marshal (O'Brien,) won; Boca (Redding,) second; Coeur De Leon (Trivett,) third. Time, 1:48 2-5.

Four Southland High School Basketball Teams Tangle Tonight in Semifinal Play-

PICK GLENDALE CAGERS TO WIN

Santa Monica Five Underdog in Casaba Struggle

Chaffey, Fullerton Contest is Toss-up

Finals Slated for Tomorrow at Spartan Gym

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

The right to play in the Southern California prep basketball finals will be at stake tonight at Huntington Park when four of the strongest Southland high school cage teams tangle. The first contest, scheduled for 7:30, brings together Chaffey Union and Fullerton, while Glendale meets Santa Monica in the second game, which is on the program for 8:30.

The only sure finalist appears to be Coach Bert Stanley's Dynamiters, who are heavy favorites to drub the Santa Monica Vikings. Santa Monica has the weakest record of the quartet in the semifinals and will be the underdog tonight.

The Chaffey-Fullerton game looks like a toss-up with the Indians having the best chance of winning. Fullerton came through its league season without dropping a game, defeating such strong opposition as Monrovia, Hoover, South Pasadena, Burbank, Muir Tech and Whittier. The Indians have already won two play-off games, beating Chino, 28-15, and Tustin, 19-10.

The finals are on the slate for tomorrow evening at the same place. As the Spartan gym is not very far from Seventh and Broadway (about seven miles,) Seth Van Patten, director of athletics for the C.I.F., claims that a big crowd will be on hand to witness both tonight's and tomorrow evening's games.

CLOSE RACES FEATURE PREP TRACK MEETS

Several close races feature the second round of the city high school track season today. One of the best battles will be at Jefferson when Graves of Poly and Hassen of the Democrats tangle in the half-mile. Both runners have done 2m. 5s. rather consistently so far this year and the experts are figuring the event will be won at a shade under that time.

The Mechanic-Jefferson meet will be the tightest meet on tap today, with Jim Pursell's team having a slight edge.

Two other Major City League contests are scheduled. One is a dual meet at Hollywood between the Redskirts and Manual Arts, while the other is a three-cornered affair between Lincoln, Franklin and L.A. High at Housh Field.

The Belmont-Roosevelt contest on the Rough Riders' oval also promises to be a close scrap with Bud Nash's team having a slight edge over the Hilltoppers providing Sentell Willis is able to run the dashes for Roosevelt. So far this year Willis has won every one of his races in great shape, but a pulled leg muscle put him on the shelf two weeks ago.

Irwin Tanner's Fremont Pathfinders are heavy favorites to wallop the Garfield Bulldogs in the only other minor loop meet. University had a contest scheduled with Fairfax but called it off.

Tomorrow the Long Beach Jackrabbits make the trip to San Diego to face the powerful southern track team in the feature meet of the Coast League schedule. Last Saturday, minus the services of Capt. Jimmy Willson, star sprinter, and Evans Dowers, miler, the southerners drubbed Glendale High, 86½ to 14½. Willson won both the century and the 220 in the State meet last year, while Dowers is Southern California mile champion.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES MEET TOMORROW

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 13.—The ninth annual southern counties track meet will be held at the Huntington Beach High School tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. For the past eight years Huntington Beach has been host to Southern California high schools south of Los Angeles and the meet has come to be known as second only to the Southern California high-school meet, both in size and performance.

Some remarkable records have been made in this meet, and, in fact, last year a national high-school record was established and accepted. The United States High School Committee accepted the pole-vault record made by Miller of San Diego and he was placed on the all-American high-school team. His record was 13 ft. 3 in. Jimmie Wilson, the San Diego sprinter, was also placed on the mythical all-American team. Alvin Koenig, local midget speedster, defeated Wilson in both the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes here last year, but Wilson was awarded first in the Southern California and State meets.

Hollywood Schedules Swim Meet

An indoor swimming meet featuring all the leading natators of the section will be held at the Hollywood Athletic Club March 20, according to Coach Clyde Swendsen, and will serve to aid the club paddlers in their preparation for the national championships in Chicago next month. Swendsen is arranging a full program of free style, backstroke, breaststroke, relay and diving events, with novelty and comedy attractions as added features.

ANGEL BOSSES PREDICT FLAG

anyway, he'd hate to think of the possibility of losing and being forced to buy the first $90 suit he ever bought for somebody else.

LOOK LIKE CHAMPS

However, anybody who has seen the Angels in action against the Cubs this spring is forced to admit that Jack Lelivelt's outfit is going to be tough to beat this season. Against the Cubs over at Avalon Wednesday the Seraphs looked like potential champions and there appears no apparent reason why they won't be able to display the same kind of baseball all year.

One of the chief reasons why the Angels ought to finish there or thereabouts this year is their strengthened pitching corps. Win Ballou and Art Delaney, making their first appearances as Angels last Wednesday, both looked like winners and the addition of two winning hurlers makes a lot of difference in a ball club. We all know that Clyde Barfoot, Augie Walsh, Ed Baecht and Berly Horne can win in this circuit—they proved that last year—so that means Lelivelt has six dependable chuckers at his beck and call.

Another reason for Weber and Reichow's enthusiastic belief that the Seraphs will beat out Hollywood and win the pennant is the Angel infield. Frank Sigafoos at second base gives the Lelivelitians a pretty sweet inner defense. It may not be quite so flashy as Hollywood's infield quartet of Heath, Brannon, Lee and Gasella, but it ought to prove highly adequate and certainly a lot better than last year's Angel inner works. Haney is about the best in the league at third base, Sigafoos and Dittmar will turn in a lot of double plays and Jacobs will be a fielding improvement over Tolson at first, although he won't hit as well.

The Angel outfield of Johnny Moore, Jigger Statz, George Harper and Wes Schulmerich wears no man's collar. Even Hollywood fans will admit it stacks up better than the present Sheik collection of gardeners.

Bill Skiff figures to bolster the Angel receiving corps, but at that Johnny Bassler and Hank Severeid give Hollywood an edge in the catching department because of their hitting.

WAIT TILL OCTOBER

Anyhow, these are only spring predictions and the boys don't pay off until next October. And Bill Lane and Oscar Vitt are just as confident the Sheiks will beat the Angels as Weber and Reichow are the other way around, so it looks like the only thing to do is to let the ball clubs settle it.

Skipper Lelivelt sent the Angels through their customary snappy workout at Wrigley Field yesterday and is going to prescribe the same dose of practice for his athletes today. His Angels are all set for their coming two contests with the Chicago Cubs at the local park tomorrow and Sunday. A game was originally scheduled between the Cubs and Seraphs for today, but Joe McCarthy called it off. The Cub chief says that he hasn't enough hurlers to play five games in three days. The Cub second team, you know, is also billed for tomorrow and Sunday tussles with Hollywood at San Diego and feels that four games in two days is all his hurlers can stand.

Lelivelt announced yesterday that he will pitch Ed Baecht, Bob Green and Charley Moncrief against the Cubs tomorrow. It will mark Baecht's first appearance of the year. Green and Moncrief are the two youngsters who performed so efficiently against Chicago last Saturday.

McCarthy will probably use some of his "aces" tomorrow in an effort to even up the series with the Angels.

COURT QUEEN PLAYS TODAY

given the edge over De Lara on these hotel courts while Neer is a likely winner over Wood. Neil Brown encounters Henry Cully of Santa Barbara at 10 in a third feature tilt.

Lester Stoefen and Gerald Stratford are paired in the initial bracket also but will not clash until tomorrow morning. The young L. A. A. C. representative upset Stratford several months ago, and the Bay City star is out to avenge that defeat. Stratford won the Huntington event two years ago, defeating Bobby Sellars in the final in five sets.

The complete schedule for today follows:

10—Neil Brown vs. Henry Cully; Keith Gledhill vs. Jack De Lara.

11—Mary Greef vs. Josephine Cruickshank.

YACHTING EVENT ON TOMORROW

Midwinter Classic to Open for Five-Day Run at Local Harbor

OWEN CHURCHILL

Promptly at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the starting gun booms, sending away the special sloops and the first race in the fourth annual national midwinter regatta, to be held off Los Angeles Harbor. Racing continues for five days, during which time eight-meter boats, sixes, Rs, forty-five-foot class, special sloops, skimmers and stars will participate.

It is the eight-meter class, however, around which most interest hangs. The magnificent silver King of Spain trophy will be the coveted prize at stake, with perpetual trophies to be competed for in the six-meter, R and star classes. The recent offering of Frank Borzage of a perpetual $1000 trophy in the star class revives interest in that class.

All divisions will race the first two days, Saturday and Sunday, with competition limited to the eights, sixes and Rs the last three days. Southern California yachtsmen are impatiently awaiting the appearance of the Angelita in stiff competition. This new eight-meter syndicate boat of the California Yacht Club will be skippered by Ted Conant, a crafty pilot, and crewed by an able trio in the Davis brothers and Temple Ashbrook.

The sixes and Rs will put up plenty of fight, as will the special sloops and forty-five-foot class. Over at Cabrillo Beach the cat-boats, skipjacks and model boats will stage their own private regatta. Interest among the young skippers is at fever pitch and some real racing is assured.

Earning their first defeats of the season the Hollywood High Class B and C teams found themselves on the short end of scores of 32-43 and 66½-11½ in a meet held on the Manual field. VICTORIA AND RANCHO CLASH

Interclub Team Play-off Set for Sunday, 23rd Inst.

Los Angeles Defends Crown Against Long Beach

Girard Reigns Favorite in Upper Bracket

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

First-round matches in the play-off for the Southern California interclub team match championship will be played on Sunday, the 23rd inst., according to an announcement made yesterday by George T. Cline, chairman of the team matches committee.

GEORGE CLINE

Following the victory of the Victoria Country Club in Group Five on Wednesday, neutral courses were selected for the play-off, and the eight divisional winners will be paired as follows:

Girard vs. San Gabriel at Pasadena.

Riviera vs. Pasadena at Hillcrest.

Victoria vs. Rancho at Midwick.

Los Angeles vs. Long Beach at Brentwood.

The Los Angeles Country Club team, which has held the Peter Cooper Bryce Trophy for two consecutive years, having defeated El Caballero in the finals of 1928 and Flintridge last year, is considered to have an excellent chance to make it three in a row.

Girard is doped to win in the upper bracket, while the real feature of the play-off will be the semi-final match between Rancho and Los Angeles.

Rancho's powerful team, headed by George (Jix) Von Elm, former national amateur champion, is the general favorite. Paul H. Jones, Rancho captain, has molded his team into smooth working twosomes. The Rancho team made an enviable record in winning the championship in Group Six.

Members of each team will be permitted one practice round on any day with the exception of Wednesday, Saturday or Sunday morning.

CLOSE MATCHES FIGURE BEL-AIR CHAMPIONSHIP

Close matches and upsets featured the first round of Bel-Air's annual club championship, played last week. Joe Novak writes that J. F. Gore, this year's medalist, defeated B. L. Eldridge, runner-up in the championship for the past two years, 1 up in a great match.

Maury McLoughlin, who was favored to win the tournament, was upset by Dr. C. G. Hartley, 3 and 2.

In another spectacular match, Harley Moore defeated H. H. Braley, 1 up, nineteen holes.

Harry Borde, winner of the title twice in succession, was unable to defend his crown due to ill health.

First-round matches in both the first and second flights are scheduled to be completed tomorrow, while second-round matches in the championship flight must be completed by Sunday.

Results of other first-round matches follow:

W. W. Campbell defeated S. M. Benet, 1 up.

F. Barker defeated A. Burnap, 2 and 1.

F. G. Porter defeated F. M. Bell, 2 and 1.

R. Holstein, Jr., defeated R. S. Lolle, default.

Philo Lindley defeated D. Shaw, default.

TROJANS TO FACE BEAR NINE

Rival Baseball Outfits Meet This Afternoon in First Series Game

SAM BARRY

California's baseball team arrives here this morning aboard the Padre to make a four-game stand against two local opponents. This afternoon and tomorrow the Bears will clash with Southern California on Bovard Field, and Monday and Tuesday the visitors will face U.C.L.A. at Westwood.

Coach Sam Barry of the Trojans hopes to break into the win column against the Bears, but with Norm Horner working on the mound, the opposition is almost a cinch to score at least one victory. Last year's league-leading twirler is reported to be working as well as ever.

Barry probably will use Capt. Joe Ward behind the plate, although the latter is suffering from a split finger. "Whatta-man" Arbelbide, doubtless will decorate the initial cushion, with Orv Mohler at short and Jess Hill at third. Either Purcell or Shepard will be at second. Stanley, Hanby and Boswell make up the outfield.

The Trojans played Santa Clara Monday and Tuesday, dropping the first tilt, 14-13, and tying the second 8-8 in twelve innings. The Bruins split a pair with the Broncos.

Olympic Club Quintet Wins

KANSAS CITY, March 13. (AP)—The Olympic Club of San Francisco became a decided favorite to win the national A.A.U. basketball championship by a 30-to-25 victory over the Kansas City Athletic Club in a quarter-final game here tonight.

A tight defense and a smooth-working attack gave the Olympics a 22-to-2 lead at the half. Craig scored the lone field goal for the Kansas City team the first half. A complete rout loomed.

But the Missourians came back battling after a rest and outscored their opponents after battling them on even terms on the floor.

The Olympics will meet, in the semifinals tomorrow night, the winner of the game between South Side Turners of Indianapolis and Bethany College of Lindsborg, Kan.

The comeback of the Kansas City team, scoring 23 points in the second half to 8 for the invading Coast team, was convincing proof it had not flopped completely. Insertion of Herbert Ruble, a husky forward who more nearly matched the physical attributes of the Olympics, helped the Missourians.

CUBS MADE $33,000

The Chicago Cubs, after an advance sale of almost $2,000,000, most of which was returned, made a net profit on the recent world series of just $33,000. And there are several players on the team who make that much.

TRAINING CAMP GOSSIP

CARDS CONFIDENT THEY'LL AGAIN WIN PENNANT

BY BRIAN BELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

BRADENTON (Fla.) March 13. (AP)—The baseball world at large may not regard the chances of the St. Louis Cardinals so favorably as those of some other major league clubs, but the Red Birds cannot be said to lack wholehearted support in their own family.

SUNNY JIM BOTTOMLEY

Sam Breadon, president of the club, declared the 1930 edition to be "the best we ever had." When it is recalled that the Cards have won two pennants and one world championship in the last four years, this is high praise.

Charles E. (Gabby) Street, the manager, says without qualification, "I know we have a good team."

The battery mate of Walter Johnson at Washington many years ago, promoted from coach to manager of the Cards, scoffs at suggestions that some of his best pitchers are growing old and cannot hope to continue to match their arms with the youth of the day.

All his veterans are still capable performers, he says, and there are some bright prospects among the younger colony of pitchers.

The Cardinals are not greatly changed from last season except in the strengthening of reserve forces. Earl (Sparky) Adams will be a handy infielder to have about and Homer Peel, threatening to become a great player, will bolster the outfield extra guard.

Two former Cardinal pitchers, back for new chances, may play an important part in the St. Louis scheme. Flint Rhem has returned from Minneapolis and Houston with his sizzling fast ball intact and Herman Bell has brought his sweeping curve back from Rochester.

Bill Sherdel, Clarence Mitchell, Jess Haines, Sylvester Johnson, Carmen Hill, Bill Hallahan, Fred Frankhouse and Harold Haid, the puzzling relief pitcher, are making it hard for the newcomers to gain a foothold.

Jimmy Wilson and Earl Smith will do the bulk of the catching. Gus Mancuso, who is making his third training trip with the Cards, probably will win a place in the background.

The infield will be unchanged from the last campaign with Jim Bottomley at first, Frankie Frisch at second, Charley Gelbert at short and Andy High at third. Adams, formerly of the Cubs and Pirates, can play second, third or short well enough in a pinch and probably will see action before his season's work is done. The Cards last year were woefully weak in infield replacements. Joel Hunt, former star Texas football player and all-around athlete, may land the other utility job. He is regarded as a natural player who needs only experience.

Chick Hafey, Taylor Douthit and Ernie Orsatti have the inside outfield track, but a merry battle will be waged before the starting alignment is worked out. Feel has been hitting the ball hard and may crowd into the picture. Walter Roetiger could stand up and hit in any company until he suffered a broken leg two years ago. George Watkins, up from Rochester, has shown early season class.

SEATTLE INDIANS PLAY 1-0 PRACTICE CLASH

SAN CLEMENTE, March 13. (AP)—In the first real practice game of the season, Manager Ernie Johnson's half of the Seattle Indians defeated Dave Barbee's squad today, 1 to 0. Only one hit went out in the six-inning game and the lone run scored was unearned.

Three players, two of them rookies, reported today. Rufus Smith, left-handed pitcher from South Carolina, who pitched tried out for the Detroit Americans; Ormond Beall, former University of Florida first baseman, and Harold J. Scott, who pitched for the Marine Corps team at San Diego, are the newcomers.

HOMERS HELP OAK ROOKIES TO DOWN REGULARS

FRESNO, March 13. (AP)—Home runs by Schino, Stevenson and Ostenburg of the fresh enabled the youngsters today to beat the varsity, 5 to 3, in a six-inning battle. Joiner, big left-hander of last year's team, was the victim of the youngsters' batting spree.

A new face was in the camp yesterday, that of Edwin Arlett, young nephew of "Buck" Arlett, and touted by the slugger as a pitcher and outfielder. He is the son of Alex Arlett, one-time Oak.

Outside of the six-inning game the Oaks put in a lot of hitting practice to prepare for the coming of the Sacramento Senators, booked to play exhibitions here Saturday and Sunday.

The Oaks' holdout list still stands at three. Catcher Ernie Lombardi, Pitcher Jim Edwards and First Baseman John Fenton.

COLD WIND POSTPONES REDS' PRACTICE STRUGGLE

STOCKTON, March 13. (AP)—All was quiet and routine today in the training camp of the San Francisco Missions, but on account of a cold northwest wind, Manager Wade Killefer canceled the daily practice game. Ernie Nevers, right-handed pitcher, who reported yesterday, lost no time in taking his turn on the mound for batting practice.

None of Killefer's regular pitchers has yet appeared in the box scores of the training camp, but "Red" expects to get three or four of them going in Sunday's contests with the Stockton State leaguers and the Modesto Reds.

Pete Scott, holdout outfielder of the Sacramento Senators, has been working out here with the State leaguers.

WALTER BERGER ON SHELF WITH STRAINED MUSCLE

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) March 13.—Walter Berger, hard-hitting outfielder whom the Boston Braves purchased from Los Angeles, has been on the shelf for the past few days with a pulled stomach muscle. Berger strained the muscle while doing duty at third base and returned himself in one of the Braves' recent exhibition games with the Yankees.

TWO FLORIDA EXHIBITIONS POSTPONED BY RAIN

TAMPA (Fla.) March 13.—Two Florida exhibition games were called off because of rain today. The Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cards were forced to postpone their game scheduled for today because of wet weather, while the Philadelphia Athletics-Boston Braves clash at St. Petersburg was called off for the same reason.

Knockout Finale Looms in Hollywood Main Event Tonight When Doman Battles Fuente

HEAVYWEIGHTS TRADE WALLOPS

Fuente Picked to Repeat Kayo Win Over Mexican

Pair Last First Meeting in Final Fifteen Seconds

Tommy Gouyd Will Tackle Doman in Semi-Wind-up

BY KAY OWE

Vic Doman, a heavyweight giant, is regarded as one of the most promising punchers in the ring today, goes to the post tonight an odds-on favorite to defeat Tony Fuente, local Mexican, in the feature ten-round bout on the Hollywood American Legion Stadium program. Doman believes the only way to win a fight is to knock your rival stiff. He seldom figures in a ring contest goes the limit. Vigo either is opponent to sleep with one of Doman's right-hand crushers or dropped down himself for a count.

Should he is fighting a man who is knocked out in a semi-final bout at the Legion Stadium about two years ago, when Doman had tossed Vigo's ears off after a few rounds in that meeting. The fight had fifteen seconds to go and the Mexican was ahead in to trade rights with Doman when he ran straight into a right-hand smack that caused him here de combat. Vigo would not have been able to have gotten up if they had counted 199 over him, ringside doctor.

Doman believes he was careless and that he can still whip Doman. When Leo Kennedy was taken sick early in the week and had to cancel his bout with Doman Fuente jumped at the chance to get revenge from Vigo by taking Kennedy's place. Most of the experts, however, believe that Vigo will again flatten the Mexican.

If Doman wins tonight he will meet Kennedy in two weeks at Hollywood, Tom Gallery announced yesterday.

The semi-wind-up brings Tommy Gardner and Clayton Gouyd together for six rounds. Gardner came here from the Northwest several months ago and he has not lost a fight. He will be a slight favorite to beat Gouyd. Clayton, however, is a tought little fellow and he may upset Gardner with one of his roundhouse swings. They are bantams.

Brix Leaves to Compete in New York

With hopes of repeating his recent feat of establishing a new indoor shot put record, Herman Brix, American record-holder in this event, left last night over the Union Pacific for the championship meet of the National A.A.U. events to be held in New York starting next Tuesday.

At a recent practice in the L.A.A.C., which club he will represent at the championship games, Brix tossed the shot for 51ft. 6in. The record was unofficial. The present record for indoor work of this kind is 50ft. 3in., held by Herb Schwarze, star of the Illinois Athletic Club, made last year.

LIEB LABORS LOYOLA LIONS

Lengthy Practice Sessions Feature Workouts

Large Turnout Satisfactory to New Coach

Lane Likely Prospect for Vacant Pivot Job

Tom Lieb, Loyola's brand-new football coach, apparently believes that hard work is essential to the building up of a winning team, and is already putting his theories into practice without wasting much time.

TOM LIEB.

Not content with scheduling spring practice until late in May, Lieb is putting his candidates through extensive drills from 3 in the afternoon until 6 each day.

Lieb's efforts yesterday consisted of administering setting-up exercises, instructions in fundamentals, pointing out features of the Rockne system, followed by running with the ball, kicking and passing practice.

Approximately fifty uniforms have been issued to date, and new prospects are turning up every day. A majority of Lieb's regulars, however, will not turn out until late in the spring as they are engaged in track and baseball.

The loss of Joe Casey, only veteran center from the 1929 team, due to deficient scholastic record was somewhat minimized with the appearance of Bill Lane, 190-pound prospect from the Loyola High School team of two years ago.

SOUTH PASADENA IN WIN OVER OXY BABES

Winning all but one match, the South Pasadena net squad handed the Occidental freshmen netters a 15-to-2 trimming yesterday on the winners' courts. Winters, Oxy third man, saved his squad from a shut-out when he won a thrilling three-set match from Palmeteer, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6. McTavish, South Pasadena star, and Delote, first man on the Oxy squad, staged a hard battle with the high school star finally winning out, 6-3, 6-4. Both South Pasadena doubles teams were victorious, but met hard competition from their rivals.

The results:

McTavish (S.P.) defeated Delote (Oxy.) 6-3, 6-4.

Clark (S.P.) defeated Pomeroy (Oxy.) 6-4, 6-2.

Winter (Oxy.) defeated Palmeteer (S.P.) 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

Santa Monica Breaks Even

Santa Monica won and lost yesterday when the B squad ran roughshod over the Redondo Bees, to win, 73 to 29, while the C men dropped a 45-to-32 decision to the Redondo midgets. Both meets were held on the Samohi oval. Buckboro featured the B meet by winning three first places. He annexed the sprints, and then became a strong man to win the shot put. His time of 10.5s. in the century is exceptionally fast for B competition.

Stamps of Redondo won the shot put, took second in the broad jump, and second in the low hurdles to star in the C meet. White of Santa Monica won the fifty-yard dash in 5.6s.

BARRACUDA SIGHTED OFF HERMOSA BEACH

HERMOSA BEACH, March 13.—That an early spring run of barracuda will be experienced before long is the belief of Capt. J. M. Andersen, skipper of the big Olympic fishing barge anchored two miles off shore here. Andersen bases his belief on the sight of several huge barracuda schools reported in the outer feeding grounds by professional fishing boats.

A heavy run of mackerel has continued about the Olympic for the past week and quite a number of full gunnysacks have been carrier ashore. Perch and sand dabs have also been biting well.

FIX SCHEDULE FOR ATHLETES

Pipal Announces Starting Times of Events

Close Races Expected in Triangular Meet

Spectacular Battle Looms in Quarter Mile

COACH JOE PIPAL.

The schedule of events for tomorrow's triangular track meet at Patterson field was announced yesterday. Coach Joe Pipal, whose Occidental Tigers will be hosts to the S.C. Trojans and the Los Angeles Athletic Club, has arranged to start with the hammer at 1:30, with the relay scheduled for three hours later.

The Trojans will not compete in the hammer, but will be on hand for the rest of the events, which get under way at 2 o'clock. The complete schedule is as follows:

1:30—Hammer throw.
2:00—Pole vault, shot put, high jump.
2:30—One mile run.
2:45—100-yard dash.
3:00—120-yard high hurdles.
3:15—440-yard run, broad jump, discus.
3:30—Two mile run, javelin.
3:45—880-yard run.
4:00—220-yard low hurdles.
4:15—220-yard dash.
4:30—Four-man mile relay.

Pipal yesterday had the Patterson field surveyed accurately so that everything would be official. The Tiger track is a good one, and while no records are expected, Pipal naturally is anxious that everything be according to A.A.U. standards.

The quarter promises to be the best event on the program. Coach Dean Cromwell has Vic Williams and Art Woessner, a triad veteran and a green sophomore, going to the post. The Mercuries probably will send Ray Alf to the post in this event. Coach Boyd Comstock announced yesterday that Oliver Worden, his best one-lap man, would not compete. Occidental has Freddie Appleton and Johnny Walker going to the post. Appleton has beaten Walker by a whisker twice this season, and was clocked in close to 50s. on each occasion.

The hurdles promise to be interesting, with Jeddy Welsh, "waltzing hurdler" of the Trojans, Pomeroy of the club and Wendall Smith of the Tigers battling for honors.

OXY BABES MEET VIKINGS

Coach Glenn Roselle's strong Oxy frosh nine will journey to Santa Monica today to tangle with Al Klein's Viking horsehiders. Roselle has found a fine chucker in Bob Holmes and that fills up the glaring weakness in his squad. In six innings against the Compton J.C. Holmes was nipped for but one run, and is also a timely hitter. The Samohi diamond aggregation is expected to give the Tiger yearlings a tough battle.

Beverly Hills Annexes Meet

Braving the wind and cold on a slow track Coach Bill Bullock's Beverly Hills track-and-field athletes trounced the North Hollywood trackmen by the score of 60½ to 42½ in a meet held yesterday on the winners' oval.

Coach Tommy Wilcox's Bee and Cee teams also won victories from the invaders. The Bee team barely nosed out the Lions by a margin of, 48 2-3 to 46 1-3, while the Cees won more easily, the score being 52 to 25.

MERCURIES MEET SAN DIEGO

Los Angeles Athletic Club wrestlers go to San Diego tomorrow for a dual mat tournament with the San Diego A.C. grapplers. Instructor Waino Ketonen has rounded up a strong Mercury team, including the A.A.U. champions, Daley, Andes, Wrigley, Morehouse, McGill and Betty. In a dual tournament against the U.C.L.A. Bruins this week the Mercuries won nine of the twelve matches.

NEW BRUIN TRACK READY FOR ATHLETES TOMORROW

The new track at U.C.L.A. will be completed this week with the finishing of the construction of the 220-yard straightaway on the east side of the track for the furlong and low hurdle races. The workmen have taken advantage of a blank date on the Bruin track schedule to complete the labor.

With the new straightaway, Bruin track fans are counting on "Chuck" Smith, Bruin sophomore sprinting star to break the university record in the furlong dash. Smith ran 21 9-10s. on a curved track last year in freshman competition, but that mark does not count as a school record. The record is 22 3-5s. held by Art Watson, who is now running the quarter-mile on Coach Harry Trotter's squad.

Man-o'-War's offspring set a money winning record during 1930, when they brought to their various owners total earnings of $408,127.

TAOS SEEKING AIRPORT HELP

Gerson Gusdorf Arrives to Ask Aid for Project

Gerson Gusdorf, wealthy cattleman, merchant, landowner and proprietor of the Don Fernando Hotel at Taos, N. M., made his first visit to Los Angeles yesterday with a view toward interesting local men in establishing an airport in his home town. Mr. Gusdorf, who was accompanied by his wife, drove the 1300 miles to Los Angeles on a three-day trip.

He stopped a day, however, at Carlsbad Caverns and was enthusiastic in his praise of the Southland's natural wonder. He also was enthusiastic about the roads of California and asserted that good roads in his State will become a reality within a few years. Recently a 5-cent gasoline tax became effective in New Mexico and the entire fund thus collected will be devoted to building roads.

PROUD OF HOTEL

Mr. Gusdorf takes much pride in his unusual hotel, which attracts visitors from all parts of the country.

"Our population is mostly Indian and Mexican," he asserted, "and we hope to keep it that way. We hope to keep that part of New Mexico about like it was when Don Fernando was the mighty overlord of that part of the country. The surroundings attract many artists and at the present time there are about seventy-five of them from all parts of the country at my hotel.

CAPTIVATED BY CITY

"I came into Los Angeles to sing the praise of Taos, but as I saw the wonders of your city and witnessed the beauty of the Southland my voice subdued a little and when I return home to Taos I probably will find room to boost Los Angeles a little."

Mr. Gusdorf will remain in Los Angeles the rest of the week.

WOMAN DRIVER ARRAIGNED

Charged with drunk driving, Mrs. Irene May Keith, 40 years of age of 138 North Gower street, was arraigned before Municipal Judge Ballard yesterday and ordered released on $1000 bail to await preliminary hearing, which the court set for the 18th inst.

Police reported the woman was taken into custody in Valencia street after hitting three cars. Police surgeons who examined her declared she was under the influence of alcohol.

AID PLANNED FOR FRENCH SUFFERERS

Victims in Flooded Area Will be Sent Funds by Alliance Francaise

Stirred by reports that the number of victims of recent floods in the rural districts of France is mounting steadily, Lucien N. Brunswig, head of the Brunswig Drug Company and president of the Alliance Francaise, yesterday called upon the French people of Los Angeles to raise a fund for relief work in the stricken area. He launched the benefit drive by issuing a proclamation as presiding officer of the native group here in which he announces giving the fund an impetus with his personal contribution of $1000.

The inundation is a national calamity, Brunswig points out to his countrymen and other friends of France, and is deserving of their support. The French Chamber of Deputies, he declares, has taken official cognizance of the disaster by proclaiming Sunday as a day of mourning.

"The predicament of our countrymen calls for immediate and substantial help," reads Brunswig's statement, "and we all should join in sending a concrete message of our desire to collaborate in the work of reconstruction. I, therefore, appeal to you to join me without delay in helping the unfortunate victims of the flooded areas."

Contributions to the fund, it is announced, may be made directly to Brunswig, Postoffice Box 176, or to the French newspaper, l'Union Nouvelle, 132 South Broadway.

HEARING OF HARVEY AND WIFE OPENS

Asserted Confessions of Slaying Gottschall Read Into Court Record

Introduction of written confessions asserted to have been made by William E. Harvey and his wife, Lillian B. Harvey, admitting that they were responsible for the death of Roy F. Gottschall on the 1st inst., yesterday featured the opening preliminary hearing of the two defendants in Municipal Judge Russill's court.

George Stahlman, Deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, took the witness stand and read the confessions into the record.

Additional evidence will be heard today before the court decides whether or not to hold the defendants for trial in the Superior Court on charges of burglary and murder.

The defendants are charged with breaking into Gottschall's home at 1606 West Eighty-ninth street intending to remove furniture claimed by the woman. At the time they broke into the house Gottschall appeared and fired three shots at Harvey, according to officers. Harvey then struck the man over the head with a piece of gas pipe, causing an injury which resulted in his death, officers assert.

Shriners' Trip to Catalina Set for Tomorrow

Several thousand Shriners are expected to attend the Shrine weekend outing and ceremonial at Catalina when more than 100 candidates are expected to join the Mystic Shrine. A special steamer leaves at 9:45 a.m. tomorrow.

In addition to the ceremonial, which will take place tomorrow night, there will be a baseball game, golf tournament, fancy-dress costume parade, band concert and other features.

Various uniformed bodies of the organization will be on hand.

FORMER CO-ED WILL WED PUBLICITY MAN

Miss Helen Harris

Miss Helen Harris, former University of Southern California co-ed, will be married this morning to Lincoln Quarberg, Hollywood publicity director. The ceremony will be performed by Justice Kenneth Morrison at Santa Ana.

After a short honeymoon at Palm Springs the couple will return to Hollywood and reside at Mr. Quarberg's home at 821 North Sweetzer avenue.

The bride attended Marlborough School and the University of Southern California, 1926-29. She is a sister of Kenneth Harris, advertising manager of the Janss Investment Corporation and a daughter of Dr. Thomas H. Harris of Chicago.

Mr. Quarberg is publicity director of the Caddo Company and formerly was Southern California manager of the United Press Association. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a member of the Wampas and Hollywood Athletic and affiliated clubs.

DESMOND'S NEW SHOP TO OPEN TODAY

Informal Reception Will be Held at Westwood Village Establishment

With an old English atmosphere prevailing throughout its interior, Desmond's Westwood, the fifth unit of this pioneer Los Angeles institution, today will open its doors in Westwood Village for inspection by the public, from noon until 9 p.m. Nothing will be offered for sale, the opening being in the nature of an informal reception, under direction of Ralph R. Huesman, president of Desmond's.

RALPH R. HUESMAN.

Although the interior preserves an English influence and the furniture is fashioned after that used by Dr. Samuel Johnson, the building itself is of Mediterranean design. It consists of two floors and a basement. The main floor will house men's wear and sports apparel, the second floor the boys' and women's departments and the basement additional sports wear and goods. A barber shop also will be located in the basement. The mezzanine will accommodate the custom-tailoring department.

According to President Huesman, the merchandise at Desmond's Westwood will feature college apparel for students.

Ex-Principal in Boy Case Files Appeal Brief

Misconduct by the prosecution and errors by the court are assigned by Fred J. Becker, former Pasadena grammar school principal, in an appeal filed yesterday with the District Court of Appeal from conviction in Superior Court on a charge of improper relations with an 11-year-old boy.

Becker contends that the court erred in refusing to instruct the jury as requested by the defense, in failing to rebuke the District Attorney for asking assertedly improper questions, in refusing to admit certain defense evidence and in refusing to strike out other evidence.

The appellant, who has been a teacher for thirty-two years, was tried twice. At his first trial the jury disagreed. He was convicted in Superior Judge Hardy's court.

Woman Fails in Suit Against Taxi Company

W. H. Tyler, driver for the Yellow Cab Company, did not beat his fare, Miss Mary Connolly, and throw her out in the street, as she charged in her $50,000 suit against the company, a jury in Superior Judge Valentine's court decided yesterday.

Tyler testified that Miss Connolly refused to pay a 45-cent fare and, when he remonstrated, he says, he was set upon by several of her friends. Whatever injuries Miss Connolly suffered were occasioned only by his attempted self-defense, Tyler asserted.

FOLLIES BEAUTY IS M.-G.-M. LEAD

Pauline Starke Replaces Mary Nolan in New Picture; Antonio Moreno Training for Directorship; Edward Horton With Pathe

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It is all settled at last who will play opposite William Haines in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Easy Going," which Fred Niblo will direct.

KATHERINE MOYLAN

Mr. Haines's heroine will be Katherine Moylan, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, whom M.-G.-M. recently signed to a contract, after officials had seen her performance in the Ziegfeld show. "Easy Going" is Haines's first western, and despite the fact that the leading ladies in these pictures usually are mere pink-gingham queens, without much character, it appears that in the new Haines vehicle the leading lady really has some important acting to do, so that several tests were taken of various actresses before Miss Moylan was settled on.

The picture will, of course, be a talker. It will be made in Arizona and New Mexico, and will have some beautiful color sequences.

PAULINE STARKE TO BE WITH UNIVERSAL

Pauline Starke, and not Mary Nolan, will play the feminine lead in "What Men Want," which Ernest Laemmle is directing for Universal.

PAULINE STARKE

The substitution was made yesterday after three days' work on the picture, so that the scenes in which Miss Nolan appear will be entirely refilmed.

Universal officials stated that they considered that Miss Nolan's acting was tirely adequate.

Pauline Starke was formerly a Goldwyn and Triangle star. She has done most notable work on the silent screen, and has lately prepared herself for the spoken screen drama.

Charles Bickford With Hughes

Charles Bickford will quite likely play the lead in "Scarface," the new story which Howard Hughes has just bought from Armitage Trail, its author, we learn.

The young actor is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and negotiations are now on to borrow him for the role.

"Scarface" is to be made a big production, but so far no director or cast has been signed.

Antonio Moreno to Direct

That clever actor, Antonio Moreno, has set himself a new goal. He is to direct Spanish talkers.

In the meantime he is working in Spanish-language versions of pictures, and is studying every angle required for direction, including cameras, talking equipment and the like.

ANTONIO MORENO

At present he is playing in the Spanish talking version of "The Benson Murder Case," in which other actors of note are also playing featured roles.

Included in this cast are Barry Norton, Ramon Peredo, Vicente Padula, Carlos Villar, Andre De Segurola, Maria Alba and Marie Micelli.

Charlotte Walker Writes Play

If you have been thinking of Charlotte Walker as merely an actress, you are all wrong. Miss Walker now also enjoys the privilege of being called a playwright. The actress, in collaboration with Lois Leeson, has just completed a play, not yet titled, but which the two hope to have produced here in the West. It concerns California, and its locale is a Santa Monica beach house.

Eddie Horton With Pathe

Just who will play the lead in Pathe's interpretation of the popular play, "Holiday," isn't certain; but it is known that negotiations are under way with Edward Everett Horton. E. H. Griffith is to direct.

EDWARD EVERETT HORTON.

Horton, however, has many picture engagements to fulfill and it is possible he may not be able to accept.

Another noted actor who has been mentioned for the role is Harold Minger, who has been a featured player with the Shuberts on the stage in New York for the past three years. Minger is the actor whom Arthur Hopkins favored for the role when "Holiday" was produced by him in New York, but Minger's contract with the Shuberts prevented him from accepting.

Regis Toomey Busy

While no contracts have been signed, we understand that there is an excellent chance that Regis Toomey will play the lead in the Irving Berlin picture which United Artists is to make.

In the meantime, Toomey, who is under contract to Paramount, has just been assigned to the juvenile lead with William Powell in "City of Silent Men," which Louis Gasnier is directing.

Natalie Moorhead and Marion Schilling have the leading feminine roles in the picture.

Tiffany Plans Films Abroad

Not content with making foreign-language versions of its pictures in this country, Tiffany Productions announces that it will make German, French and Spanish versions of their pictures in those lands.

"Journey's End" is to be produced in France, Germany and Spain, under the auspices of Tiffany Productions of America, of Gainsborough Pictures, Ltd., and of Welsh-Pearson, Ltd., of England.

Tiffany believes that this picture will be one of the greatest peace agents ever issued in any form, whether of stage, screen or printed word, and therefore desires that its message shall reach every land.

Rex Lease In It

Rex Lease, who appeared recently in two Tiffany productions, viz., "Troopers Three" and "Sunny Skies," has been selected again by Phil Goldstone. This time he will play the straight romantic lead with Benny Rubin in "Hot Curves."

The actor is considered by Goldstone to be one of the most promising juveniles in pictures today. Besides his acting ability and personality, he also possesses a splendid singing voice.

Filmarte Offers 'New Babylon'

"The New Babylon," a powerful Russian film, comes to the Filmarte Theater tonight for a week's showing. The picture reproduces the terrors of the Franco-Prussian War, with emphasis directed toward the advance of the Germans upon Paris, the siege, the invaders' victory and eventually the despairing effort of the Commune.

"The New Babylon" was filmed in Paris in the authentic locale wherever possible. In several cases the old landmarks were reconstructed for the scenes. The night life of Paris, charged with hysteria of war, the fall of the Vendome Column, the moments in the Pere La Chase Cemetery—all are depicted. An early Mack Sennett film, "Teddy at the Throttle," with Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery and Bobby Vernon, will also be shown.

MOZART OPERA MUCH ENJOYED

"Don Juan" Offers Unique Musical Attractions

Humor and Melodiousness Combined in Work

Major Principals of Cast Gain Applause

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Music turned into lighter pathways last evening with the giving of "Don Juan" by the German Grand Opera Company. Mozart's rippling melodic work proved itself to be a true novelty, and a pleasurable event for the large audience that came to hear the classical composer's interpretation through song and accompaniment of the legend of a historic philanderer. In a famous air from the opera the hero's servant Leporello relates that Don Juan had more than 2000 amours, but the librettist of the Mozart creation, Lorenzo da Ponte, is satisfied to portray only three of them, and they cause enough trouble.

In plot "Don Juan" fulfills the requirement of ampleness. It is replete, too, with amusing incident, and though the ending is a tragedy of a sort, it is too fantastic to be taken very seriously.

"Don Juan" is oftener presented under the title of "Don Giovanni" in this country, with the Italian language used rather than the German. The recitativo secco, piano accompanied, is employed for the transitional passages between arias, duets, trios and the like, as it is in, say, "The Barber of Seville," by Rossini.

There is a freedom to this form that makes possible a great deal of clear-cut characterization, and that gives latitude for action. The work gains through this a popular appreciation, and though it is rather long, the interest holds very continuously. Indeed, one wonders that "Don Juan" is not oftener in the repertoire. There are reasons, however, in the fact that it demands three sopranos, all of whom have much to do, and the leading role is for the baritone. Antonio Scotti some years ago was the protagonist oftentimes in performances given in this country.

The production by the German company was both spirited and authentic. They changed their style utterly from the Wagnerian for this offering. Occasionally perhaps the classical restraints were broken through for a bit of drama, but all in all they achieved a perfected lightness both in vocalizing and interpretation. The display of their versatility in this regard was exceedingly pleasant, for those who have followed the sequence of performances.

Owing to his being indisposed, Franz Egenieff did not sing the role of Don Juan as announced, but Richard Gross, who previously appeared in "The Flying Dutchman," was an effective substitute. He was apparently well routined in the interpretation, and the easy manner in which he presented the rapid "Champagne" air in the second act would indicate that he knew its musical demands. More applause than was actually given was justified by his rendition of this particular number. His acting in the more humorous scenes was of decided merit.

Feodor Challapin has made the "Schoene Donna" aria of Leporello a familiar one with his concert presentations of this recounting of the Don's romances. It was scarcely sung last night by Carl Braun, but aside from the fact that his voice is lacking in true musical quality, he gave an amazingly clever interpretation of the hero's man Friday. He was very funny in the scene where he pretends to serenade Donna Elvira, and also in the final act with his buffoonery.

Women's voices were prominently pleasing in the cast. Margarethe Baumer especially disclosed a warm tone quality, and applause was marked for her singing of the air, "Das War der Verraether," in the second scene. Her tones were outstandingly beautiful in the trio with Donna Elvira and Don Ottavio. In this, too, Josef Lengyel evinced competency, but Edna Zahm inclined to sharp a little. The work of Miss Zahm, aside from this one tendency to go off pitch, was worthy and she has distinct richness in her tones. This was revealed in her first aria and later in the balcony episode. Very graceful, too, was the work of Milo Miloradovich as Zerlina, a role of excellent opportunity because it provides so much pretty music. In both airs where she consoles her unlucky fiancee, Masetto, she was unusually successful. These excerpts, known in the Italian as "Batti Batti, o bel Masetto" and "Vedrai carino, se sei buonino," are most attractively written for the voice. One other set piece to mention was the aria, "Trocknet die Heissen Thraenen" ("Il mio tesoro") done with style by Lengyel.

The final transformation where the Don goes to his just desserts in Hades was spectacular, as it should be. Also the haunting spirit of the Commandant was statesque as need be. The basso, Lorenz Pierot, sang this. Hans E. Hey was Masetto.

Ernst Mehlich at the conductor's stand gave a clear-cut reading of the score, bringing out efficiently its beauty. Mozart is difficult; the production had the characteristic of surety.

Special Show Announced for Ziegfeld Film

In order to take care of the crowds which are anticipated for the first downtown showing of "Rio Rita," which starts tomorrow at the Orpheum Theater, the management has announced a special midnight showing of the Ziegfeld film for tomorrow night.

"Rio Rita" is the screen version of the Ziegfeld stage success of the same name, which ran for more than sixty weeks on Broadway. As a talking picture it has broken records and has been called one of the most spectacular talking pictures produced.

JANNEY GROWS UP

William Janney, who has played many little-brother roles in pictures, is enjoying the novelty of being a brother-in-law to Conrad Nagel in "The Right of Way," now being filmed at First National. Janney's first film role was that of younger brother to Mary Pickford in "Coquette."

RODZINSKI CLIMAXES RUSSIANS

Tschaikowsky Symphony and Piano Concerto Make Fine Impression

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Dr. Rodzinski conducted the Tschaikowsky "Pathetique" symphony last night for the first time in Los Angeles, and succeeded in creating a new impression.

That in itself was a notable feat, but in addition, Josef Lhevinne played the Tschaikowsky piano concerto in his impressive and decided way. With the Polonaise from "Eugene Onegin" and the "Marche Slav," the program reached the climax of a Russian winter of orchestral music. If it is true that Rodzinsky is bent upon making us like Russian music, and the season's programs have all tended in that direction, his direction of the "Pathetique" last night will certainly further his intention.

From the very beginning of the ominous measures which establish the sombre character of this symphony, there was dramatic interest painted with a broad stroke. Rodzinsky has his own ideas about this well-known work, and with the Philharmonic orchestra in fine trim he was able to paint it in high colors. Rich crescendos and tonal depth characterized the reading, and there was a general evidence of good showmanship tempered with taste throughout.

The showmanship brought changes in the accepted interpretations, of course, but Rodzinki is not the man to worry over that. His idea of the second, the allegro con grazia movement, was not according to my liking. It was not very graceful, and the carefully maintained evenness of tempo became monotonous. Its merit lay in the contrast with the following movement. This third division was given a military pomp and not a little glory, and the finale was impressive and splendid.

Josef Lhevinne's playing of the concerto left no doubt as to his enormous capability. His strong fingers and quiet hands encompassed the difficulties with majestic ease. One can imagine Lhevinne's having worked out his interpretation of this concerto when first he played it years ago, never having changed his mind about it since. There is a mountain of strength and character behind the playing of this man which commands respect. Certain exquisite passages in the second and third movements are unforgettable for their beauty.

Screen Player Boasts Varied Experiences

Going on the stage at the age of 14, and engaging in a dozen or more highly-varied occupations before starting in motion pictures, Farrell MacDonald, who plays one of the important roles in "Men Without Women" at the Criterion, has had an interesting career.

Born in Waterbury, Ct., MacDonald appeared as a "boy tenor" while still in high school, and alternated stage and school work until he graduated from Yale, making a trip to England with an opera company. Although educated as an engineer, he worked for a while on a newspaper in Baltimore, but resumed his scientific work in Texas for the government.

Stage Actress Changing Mind About Talkies

May Robson has changed her attitude toward talking pictures. A year and a half ago the character commedienne, now rehearsing "Helena's Boys" for her appearance here at the Hollywood Playhouse, starting Saturday, decided that after appearing in fourteen pictures she was through with them. Now she is not so sure. Persistent offers from producers of talking pictures may make her change her mind.

"I won't say that I wouldn't like to do a talkie," says the noted actress. "I think I should. Before I never knew quite what I was doing. So many strange things were expected of us in silent pictures.

MISS WHITE PLAYS AT ROMANCE

Film Version of "Sheba" Tells Story of Moderns on R.-K.-O. Screen

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

"Playing Around," Alice White finds to her dismay in the film of this name arriving at the R.-K.-O. Theater yesterday, is not what it is cracked up to be.

And so, the jazz baby of the First National coterie of screen stars learns a great big lesson — never, never fool with slick young men-about-town; stick to the clean-cut, honest, uprising young soda jerker who promises home and happiness on $35 per week.

Sentimentally melodramatic, sprinkled with casual and easy-to-take comedy, "Playing Around" is good entertainment, put upon the screen in workmanlike fashion by Director Mervyn Le Roy. The picture moves smoothly; the story, if not unusual, keeps to a straight channel, which finally terminates in the not unsuspected climax.

"Playing Around," it is interesting to chronicle, is based on the novel "Sheba," by Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl" and other stories of young and unfashionable Manhattan. Alice White plays the character of Sheba, a pretty young typist who thinks she is wiser in the ways of the world and men than she is. Her father, a gentle old soul, who manages a branch cigar store, would have her safely wed to an earnest soda counter clerk. Alice likes a gangster. She doesn't know he is a gangster, but there you are.

Chester Morris does a beautiful job, as he has done before, of the suave young racketeer with—probably—dishonorable intentions. William Bakewell is the wholesome, up-on-his-toes soda clerk, while Richard Carlyle is well cast as Papa Miller.

Miss White is Sheba in person. Probably a good deal of the human quality of the film is derived from her very natural and appealing portrait of the little tinsel-hungry typist. She is better at characterization than at singing, however.

Although he has but a few lines, Maurice Black as Joe, restaurant proprietor, makes every word count. Amusing comedy, reminiscent of two characters of the daily prints, comes from Mrs. Fenerbeck and Mrs. Lippincott, who exchange gossip over the fire escape landing.

The accompanying program bills Jack Pepper, a southern entertainer; Galla-Rini and sister, recording and radio artists; Medley and Deuprey, comedians, and the Lee Twins with a dance divertissement. There is a "Buck and Bubbles" comedy based on a Hugh Wiley "Wildcat" tale.

Rapid Increase in Technicolor Pictures Noted

The list of Technicolor pictures to show in Los Angeles is growing apace.

Five sound films, photographed in part or in whole by the Technicolor process, are now on the Los Angeles boards.

The most recent to open is "Puttin' on the Ritz" with Harry Richman at the United Artists. This is only part-color. "The Vagabond King" with Dennis King at the Paramount, "Song of the West," with John Boles at Warners' Downtown Theater, and "The Rogue Song," with Lawrence Tibbett at the Chinese Theater are all-color productions.

"Rio Rita," coming to the Orpheum Saturday, was photographed partly in color. In past weeks have been seen among others, "Bride of the Regiment," "The Viking," "Sally," "Mysterious Island," "Mamba," "No, No Nanette," "The Hollywood Revue" and "Devil May Care," some entirely, and others partly, in color.

STUDIO ACQUIRED

Final papers were signed and escrow closed yesterday whereby Pan-American Pictures have acquired the Sunset and Gower studio, formerly known as the James Cruze studio. Pan-American Pictures also assume control of all the stores fronting on Sunset and respective equipment. George Bowles, general manager of Pan-American, closed the deal.

NEW GLYN TALE COMES TO LOEW'S

'Such Men Are Dangerous' Chronicles Activities of Social Smart Set

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Doings of the upper set, or crust, are pictured with Elinor Glynish fidelity in "Such Men Are Dangerous," a Fox film which came yesterday to Loew's State Theater. For its principal players, it offers the sterling Warner Baxter and the alabaster Catherine Dale Owen, who find themselves up to their necks (rather apropos, that) in a situation that could have evolved only in the mind of the imaginative Mme. Glyn. Linked rather cleverly with the erstwhile disappearance of the financier, Alfred Loewenstein, the picture supplies an explanation for it which is, if nothing else, unique. And trust Mme. Glyn to find a woman at the bottom of it.

Thanks to sympathetic direction, "Such Men Are Dangerous" unbends from its high social pedestal often enough to join that company of other films which call themselves agreeable entertainment, especially for the feminine portion of the audience. It seldom takes itself too seriously—and that is another point in its favor. If anybody emitted a titter during the prolonged love scenes (in large close-ups) these distended ears missed the sound of it. Possibly the display of such unwonted emotion by Miss Owen, who is not usually given to that sort of thing, froze the laugh on the lips. Certainly this would seem to be her most human performance in the talkies.

Mr. Baxter joins the better make-up artists in this picture. He is first seen as the noted money power, Ludwig Kranz—slightly stooped, hook-nosed, goateed, the face surmounted by a final Machiavellian touch in a pair of forbidding spectacles. He has "bought" the beautiful Elinor—spelt as in Glyn—for £1,000,000, and this is their wedding day. But after the ceremony, Elinor "can't go through with it." Despite the protests of her sister, Muriel, who engineered the whole affair, Elinor calls it a day.

Meanwhile Ludwig makes a terrible resolve. He will vanish from the sight of men until he is presentable. Boarding his private plane, he leaves it as suddenly in midair over the English Channel. First, however, he has taken the precaution to provide himself with a parachute and a life-belt. . . . Soon after, a mysterious and handsome individual known only as Pierre Vaillard emerges from the plastic surgery of a famous Dr. Erdmann, his destination Paris, his motive revenge on the "widow" of Ludwig Kranz.

It is at this juncture that the story lapses into conventional romance, the spectator appreciating that it will be only a matter of reels before love conquers all. A charity bazaar, a fashion show and a sort of musical comedietta are inserted as incidental tantalizers, to say nothing of the silly-ass humor of the familiar Claud Allister. But, after all, these are the moments for which all Glyn admirers wait in breathless ecstasy, and so they have their place in "Such Men Are Dangerous."

Albert Conti is his suave and delightful self in the role of Paul Strohm, Kranz's secretary; Hedda Hopper plays the mercenary sister with her customary eclat, and Bela Lugosi fits admirably into the shoes of the famous surgeon.

The film is, unhappily, the last to be made by the late Kenneth Hawks. The screen play and dialogue are Ernst Vajda's.

Eddie Peabody lingers on at the State as the feature of the Fanchon and Marco Idea, the present one being "Changes." As its name implies, it has to do with lightning transformations in costumes and scenery. Art Hadley, the cartoonist, is up to his old tricks with crayons; Eva Mandel emulates the Sophie Tucker example, and Muriel Gardner is a blond easy to look at. George Stoll leads the band.

MECHANICAL APPARATUS AIDS "RING"

Cloud and Water Effects Made Realistic in Wagner Operas at Shrine

BY JACOB COOPER

Wagner requires more than an orchestra, singers, and scenery in order to portray all the mighty splendor and sweep that is in his saga, "The Ring of the Nibelungen," and his other music dramas. In the mechanical contrivances which his exponents, now performing his works at the Shrine Auditorium, have contrived, the balance of effect is made up with startling reality.

Take the majestic clouds, for instance, that sweep across the broad expanse of sky in his valley of the Rhine. They are not only realistic, but photographically correct. Hung high up backstage is a machine containing a series of rotating lenses on which are photographic slides of clouds. The white background is lighted up by the correct proportion of blue lights to give a sky effect, and across this the lenses slowly and naturally portray their fleecy clouds.

On the same order as the cloud machine, the ripple of water was made possible in "The Flying Dutchman." In the latter also occurred the sinking of a ship. This was made possible by "double-jointing" so that the spars could give way at the right cue. Then the ship was hinged backward, thus producing an optical illusion from the audience—the receding from the line of vision being apparent as sinking.

But the piece de resistance is the magic fire which was seen in "The Valkyries" and will be seen again tonight in "Siegfried." At the order of Wotan, flames and smoke surround the sleeping Brunnhilde. It took the aid of the city to accomplish this. Out in the street a fire engine pumped steam all evening into pipes which led through the stage door and onto the stage. When the time came for them to function, clouds of it were let loose. To make the smoke more real, twenty-five-foot troughs, containing smoke powder, were added to it; and in the midst of it specially constructed machines kept amber silk flame tongues flickering upward.
